Tribune Man Tells of Valiant 1st.

THE STORY OF TUNISIA.

The Tribune on Sunday will start publication of a series of eye witness stories of the American, British, and French campaigns in Tunisia by War Correspondent John Thompson. Thompson, who was the first correspondent to make a parachute jump in Africa, will tell the strategical background of the campaigns from the time the British crossed into Tunisia from Algeria until the final allied victory over the axis on Cape Bon.

(Picture on page 5.)

America and her allies won "invaluable battle experience" for American soldiers, as well as control of the African continent, in the battle for Tunisia, John H. Thompson, Tribune war correspondent who followed the entire North African campaign thru to an allied victory, told members of the Union League club at a luncheon meeting yesterday.

"When the books are balanced, when the cost in lives and guns is weighed against the future, it probably will be found that the six months of fighting gave us an opportunity we might otherwise have missed," Thompson said. "For we now have divisions with battle experience, men who have tested themselves against Germany's best, men who have learned the enemy's tricks, improved on them, and then gone on to beat him.

Learn Thru Mistakes.

"Had we won in the first flush of our November drive to Tunis," Thompson told the club members, "we would have saved many thousands of lives, but we would not have these battle scarred divisions to form the nucleus of any future operations. We might even still be making some of the mistakes so common to green troops coming under fire for the first time."

Thompson became the world's first parachute correspondent when he leaped from a plane with an American paratroop mission near Tebessa on the central Tunisian border as the allies invaded the continent last November.

Thompson appeared before the Union League club in his olive drab war correspondent's uniform, wearing the brown, full beard he grew in Africa where facilities for shaving were sparse and unsatisfactory.

Badge of Identity.

He has decided not to shave it off now that he has returned to "civilization," he explained after his address, because all his news contacts thruout the army in Africa know him that way.

Thompson was introduced by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, who said that Chicago was the scene of the world's first mass parachute jump, at the air races in April, 1930, and the home of the world's premier high altitude parachute jumper, Arthur Starnes, as well as of the world's first parachute correspondent—Jack Thompson.

Thompson's talk came on the anniversary eve of the great battle of Cantigny in the World war, where the American First division proved itself one of the finest fighting units of the American expeditionary force.

He told how the 1st division, under arms again after 25 years, "is upholding every one of its battle traditions."

Back in 1918 the 1st, under Gen. Bullard's command, relieved two French divisions in the Picardy sector of the allied front. Cantigny was the nucleus of the German salient. It was decided to reduce this salient and the 1st division was delegated the task.

Push Thru in 45 Minutes.

On May 28, at 6:45 a. m., after an hour's artillery barrage, the infantrymen of the 1st moved forward some 2,200 yards. In 45 minutes they overcame the Germans, capturing 250 prisoners. The Germans fought back fiercely for three days, but the soldiers of the 1st division

150,000 Reds Attack Nazis in Caucasus

LONDON, May 28 [Friday] (AP).—The Red army hurled 150,000 men and hundreds of guns, planes, and tanks against Germany's Kuban lines yesterday, temporarily cracking them in a battle that is continuing, the Berlin radio announced early today.

The Russians forced the Germans back almost 1½ miles over a front several miles wide before a "mighty counter-thrust" erased the breaches, said a Transocean broadcast.

"61 Tanks Destroyed."

The Germans claimed the destruction of 61 soviet tanks, including several of 52 tons, and 71 planes in checking the Russian drive.

[A Moscow home broadcast last night, recorded by the federal communications commission, said in describing fierce air action northeast of Novorossisk during Thursday that the Red air force "waged battles against the German aircraft" when the Nazis "attempted to attack our troops and military targets. In the course of the day 48 German planes were shot down in air battles. Besides that, our anti-aircraft artillery shot down 16 German planes. Thirteen of our planes failed to return to their base."]

Berlin said the Russians employed 10 divisions, at least 170 tanks, 200 planes, and strong artillery forces which laid down a thunderous barrage early yesterday. This barrage forced the Germans to "temporarily evacuate" territory in the Krymskaya area, 20 miles north of Novorossisk, the Nazi broadcast said.

However, it added that by dusk "all these breaches were ironed out" in an area between Novorossisk on the Black sea and Temryuk on the Sea of Azov to the north.

Reds 7 Miles from Port.

For days German dispatches had been preparing the homeland for a major Russian blow in the Caucasus, where the Germans hold an area about 45 miles long and 20 to 30 miles wide across the Taman peninsula. These reports said the Russians were moving huge forces to the front.

Novorossisk, former home base of the soviet Black sea fleet, has been threatened by the Russians for weeks. The Red army last was reported within seven miles of the vital port.

German 'Glass City' Bombed by 'Mosquitos'

LONDON, May 28 [Friday] (AP).—Speedy R. A. F. Mosquito bombers darted 500 miles from England Thursday evening and penetrated heavy Nazi defenses to bomb the famed Zeiss Instrument works in the central German city of Jena, the air ministry announced early today. Heavy bombers attacked Germany during the night.

Planes Crash Over Germany.

"Anti-aircraft fire was intense and a balloon barrage was flying over the target," said a communique, "but the Mosquitos pressed home their attacks on the Carl Zeiss Instrument works and the Schott Glass works from below 200 feet. Preliminary reports indicate both factories were hit.

"Three of our aircraft are missing, two of which were seen to collide in the air over Germany."

The Zeiss factories make optical instruments for the German army, navy, and air force. The Schott plant makes optical glass. The two are the most important factories of their kind in Germany.

The mission meant the Mosquitos had to make a round trip of more than 1,000 miles.

Yanks Bag 74 Nazis on Raid.

U. S. 8TH AIR FORCES HDQ. IN ENGLAND, May 27 (AP).—British based United States heavy bombers established a record for a single day's bag by destroying 74 German planes on May 21 during the unescorted raids on U-boat plants at Emden and Wilhelmshaven, it was announced today.

LEADER READY TO JOIN GIRAUD IN CONFERENCE

Algiers Prepares for Parley.

LONDON, May 27 (AP).—Gen. Charles De Gaulle told the French people in a radio broadcast tonight, on the eve of his departure for Algiers, that forces of the empire would soon be unified and promised the liberation of France herself.

"We have paid heavily enough for our absurd division to be convinced we will emerge from the abyss only by uniting in a solid bloc," the Fighting French leader said. "This modern edifice can be built only at the cost of orderly and fraternal effort.

"Union of the empire will be accomplished. When it is realized how this is done in the face of difficulties . . . then one's respect for France and one's faith in her destiny will become even greater."

Remove Pictures of Generals.

ALGIERS, Algeria, May 27 (AP).—Pictures and insignia of both Gen. Charles De Gaulle and Gen. Henri Giraud were removed from public places today in preparation for French North Africa's welcome to the Fighting French leader.

A few remaining reminders of Marshal Petain, Vichy chief of state, also were pulled down or covered.

The move was undertaken by order of Gen. Giraud, civil and military commander in chief, in line with a policy eliminating personalities and stressing the union of all French.

"More than ever," said Giraud's order, "the French must have only one thought: the liberation of France; victory."

Tricolor Only Insignia.

Insignia of all Frenchmen from now on will be the tricolor, without the cross of Lorraine or other markings imposed on it, Giraud decreed. And the slogan of the French, members of his staff said, will not be "Vive Giraud" or "Vive De Gaulle," but "Vive la France."

Observers say they are certain that remaining differences between De Gaulle and Giraud will be ironed out and that a full settlement will be reached, but one big issue is still unsolved.

That is De Gaulle's insistence that the army commander not be a member of the executive committee to be set up, but be subordinate to it. If De Gaulle has his way on this point it means that Giraud, to be on the committee, must relinquish his command of the army.

A curiosity of the proposed settlement is that while Giraud and De Gaulle will be joint heads of the committee, presiding over meetings alternately, all responsibility will be collective. This means that each one, as well as the other members of the committee, will be responsible for what the other does and says.

THE JITTERS ARE POISON, BLOOD STUDIES SHOW

New York, May 27 (AP).—Discovery of a poisonous substance which appears suddenly in human blood during fear and anxiety was reported to the New York academy of medicine today.

The nature of the stuff is unknown, but its existence was proved by its effects on living rabbit tissues in test tubes.

Blood from human beings with the jitters never failed to upset the normal rhythm of contraction of these rabbit tissues. The blood of calm human beings had no effect.

A BIG HAND FOR THE ATTU BOYS

Slap Slaying Case Will Go to Jury Today

The murder trial of Thomas Bartell, 26 years old, unemployed, for the fatal beating of his 20 month old daughter, Linda, in a fit of rage last April 22, will be given to the jury of all married women, most of them mothers, in Criminal court today.

Evidence in the trial was completed yesterday before Chief Justice John A. Sbarbaro after both the father and the mother, Mrs. Thelma Bartell, 24 years old, a war worker, had told their stories to the jury. Bartell is accused of fatally slapping his child in their flat at 3204 Washington boulevard.

Mother Testifies.

Previously announcing her intention to stand by her husband, Mrs. Bartell was called by Francis McCurrie and Richard Devine, the prosecutors, as a court witness over the objections of Bartell's attorney, Charles A. Bellows.

Obviously a reluctant witness, Mrs. Bartell answered hesitantly and in a low voice the questions put her. Tho she would not answer directly a question as to the final beating of the child by the father, the witness did tell of other occasions when Bartell slapped the baby.

Shortly after her appearance on the stand, the state closed its case by reading Bartell's alleged confession to the jury. In the statement, Bartell said he struck the child eight times.

Denies Striking Child.

Questioned by Atty. Bellows, Bartell denied striking the child. Asked by Bellows if he loved the child, Bartell answered, "I would have cut off my right arm sooner than have anything happen to her." Bartell, in denying his alleged confession, said police had badgered him into making the statement.

"Did you ever see your husband put Linda in a closet?" Mrs. Bartell was asked by Prosecutor McCurrie.

Mrs. Bartell hesitated, then turned to the judge and asked if she must answer the question. When Judge Sbarbaro instructed her to answer, Mrs. Bartell replied, "Yes, he did."

Child's Face Bruised.

Q.—Did you ever see Linda with her face black and blue? A.—Once. About two months before the baby died.

Q.—How did her face get that way? A. [hesitantly]—Her father slapped her for turning the gas on. He slapped her when she was asleep.

Questioned on the events of the day of the alleged fatal beating, Mrs. Bartell said she had returned home from a war plant where she worked around 8:30 in the morning.

Q.—What did you do with the baby? A.—I put her in a chair by the table.

Q.—Then what happened. A.—My husband later sat in the same chair where the baby had been. His trousers became soiled. He asked me for his socks and I threw them out on the floor. They got wet. He said to the baby, "Look what you have done," and told her to get in the corner.

A. [Continued]—He slapped her on the bottom. After she stood in the corner for about five minutes, he called her back to him. She started toward him, then backed away and fell to the floor.

Q.—Did your husband strike the baby at that time? A.—No.

Q.—Didn't you tell us in my office that your husband had struck the child while she was on the floor. A.—I refuse to answer that question.

WLB's Action Dates Boost from Year Ago

A raise of 9 cents an hour to 4,500 employés of the elevated lines was authorized by the war labor board in Washington, D. C., yesterday. The boost, if finally approved by James F. Byrnes, economic stabilization director, will be retroactive to June 1, 1942, and will increase the company's pay roll $950,000 a year.

Union officials said they do not expect Byrnes to veto the increase. They recalled that he did not interfere with the WLB's 9 cents an hour boost to 14,000 surface lines employés two months ago. Nor is any opposition from the "L" company foreseen.

No Contest, Says Lines Official.

"We won't contest the raise," said Hal Lytle, vice president. "The street car men received a wage increase, and we think our people are as good as they are."

Whether the blanket raise will affect pending litigation to hoist "L" fares is a question for the future. The company had sought an increase from 10 to 12 cents for straight fares, and general increases for transfers, children's and suburban fares. On June 15, 1942, the Illinois commerce commission denied the increases and an appeal was taken to the Superior court, where chancery hearings are now being held. The WLB's order increasing wages and adding $950,000 a year to the company's pay roll will be incorporated in the court record.

Union Head Sends News.

The 9 cent wage boost was won for the employés thru division 308 of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employés of America, an AFL affiliate. William F. Levander, union president, was in Washington to receive the WLB's order. He immediately notified Thomas Mullen, secretary-treasurer, in Chicago.

Principal employé groups to be benefited by the raise are motormen, conductors, trainmen, ticket agents, shopmen, trackmen, and others in lesser categories. The increase will add $4.32 to each worker's pay envelope for a 48 hour week.

TYDINGS FINDS 2 BILLION 'PLUS' ON LEND-LEASE

Washington, D. C., May 27 (AP).—The senate appropriations committee disclosed today complaints by Sen. Millard Tydings [D., Md.] that the government has spent in foreign nations $2,000,000,000 beyond the lend-lease program on airports and other construction for which the army and navy pay for the local labor.

Tydings said the army has spent $100,000,000 building airports and housing in Australia, for example, using 85 per cent Australian labor.

"It occurred to me Australia might have furnished that labor without our paying for it, inasmuch as we were building permanent air fields on the Australian continent," he declared.

Tydings' comments accompanied questioning of Edward R. Stettinius Jr., lend-lease administrator, at recent closed hearings, printed records of which were released today with a report recommending senate passage of a house approved $6,273,629,000 lend-lease appropriation.

BEAT SABOTEUR WITH VIGILANCE: GRANT'S ADVICE

The midwest can expect sabotage, altho it is making progress in guarding against such treachery, Maj. Gen. Ulysses S. Grant III. said last night at the close of a conference of army and navy officers and office of civilian defense officials in the Bismarck hotel. The conference reviewed anti-sabotage practices and safeguards for factories, railroads, highways, and utilities in the 6th defense region of Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, and northern Indiana.

Secret methods of guarding war plants, mines, utilities, public buildings, highways, and all methods of communication were discussed by the conferees.

"The purpose of this meeting was to correlate work and avoid overlapping agencies," said Gen. Grant. "Much has been accomplished and I wish especially to say what a splendid job has been done by management of industry thruout the region."

NEW DEAL GRAB AT FARM CREDIT HIT BY SENATOR

U. S. Loses at Food Parley: Wherry.

BY LELAND FORRESTER.

The administration is playing politics with farm credit and, at the world food conference, is letting foreign powers tell us what to do with our top soil without the American people—to whom the soil belongs—having any voice in the planning, Sen. Kenneth S. Wherry [R., Neb.] charged in Chicago last night.

In an address at the annual convention dinner of the Illinois Bankers' association in the Palmer House, Sen. Wherry also asserted that some areas in the United States will experience actual starvation within a year if food production is not increased.

Recent resurrection of the Regional Agricultural Credit corporation after it had been virtually in oblivion for some years was assailed by Sen. Wherry.

Enough to Handle Credit.

"The aim was purely one of politicizing farm credit," he told the bankers. "There are 18 federal farm lending agencies. Any necessary credit could be handled without reviving the RACC."

The senator, who has introduced a bill to abolish the RACC, said he opposes the agency because it is a waste of man power and because it invades a field which private enterprise is equipped to serve.

"The RACC requires 3,600 persons for its operations at a time when we need man power," he said. "I am opposed to it also because I believe in private enterprise. The banks have billions of dollars available to handle farm credit, and they are already handling 80 per cent of such credit. If there are certain types of food production loans which banks cannot advance under sound banking principles, then such loans should be made by them under a government insured or guaranteed basis."

"You'll Dig for Competitor."

Reminding the bankers that the treasury wants an additional 45 billion dollars of taxes this year, Sen. Wherry said part of the taxes the bankers would have to help dig up would be used to compete with them in the lending field.

Of the food conference in session at Hot Springs, Va., he said:

"It is another example of foreign powers coming over and telling us what to do. Our mineral resources already are being tapped for the war, and the plan for America to feed the world would sap our top soil resources.

"These fellows at the food conference want to get as much as they can from us, and they would destroy our resources without any thought of what the results would be for us."

The food program, he said, would require the plowing up of vast sections of the dust bowl areas and other marginal lands which would be ruined by renewed cultivation.

People Unrepresented at Parley.

"The people have no representative at the food conference," he said. "Should not they have a right to sit in and have something to say about how the top soil that belongs to them is to be used?"

Earlier in the day A. L. M. Wiggins, vice president of the American Bankers' association and president of the Bank of Hartsville, Hartsville, S. C., told the 1,500 bankers attending the convention that the time has come for the government to withdraw from the lending field and let private capital finance industry and agriculture.

Henry G. Bengel, president of the Illinois banker group and vice president of the Illinois National bank, Springfield, urged the bankers to help lead a fight for restoration, after the war, of liberties sacrificed in the emergency.

'Can't Get Along on Point System'; Cuts His Throat

Verplanck, N. Y., May 27 (AP).—August Martens, 72 years old, was found by police with his throat slashed today. Near him, Trooper Robert M. Ward said, was a note reading, "I couldn't get along on the point system." The retired railroad worker was taken to a hospital and is expected to recover.

ALFRED OBJECTS TO WIFE'S HABIT OF JAILING HIM

Lets Turkey Wear Vest; Now Asks Divorce.

Alfred Johnson, an insurance adjustor, appeared before Judge Benjamin P. Epstein in Circuit court yesterday and explained that he wanted a divorce from his wife, Alice, because she had had him arrested 12 times since their marriage, March 2, 1919.

The first arrest on July 15, 1919, came less than five months after their marriage.

"I had given her $6 for a new dress," Johnson testified, "but she refused to accompany me on my vacation because I didn't give her a better dress. She ran out of the house and pretty soon the police came and took me to jail."

Arrest No. 2 came on the following Labor day, he said. He had won a turkey in a pool, and had invited guests for dinner.

Vest on His Turkey.

"When I came home the trousers and coat of my best suit were lying on the porch. The turkey was there, too, all cooked and greasy, and wearing the vest to my suit. When I asked my wife what was the idea she asked me what business I had with a good suit when she didn't have a good dress. Pretty soon the police came again and took me to jail."

Another arrest was in September, 1922.

"We had an argument at a card party because I didn't play my hand right," he said, "so she had me arrested."

In July, 1925, he languished in the Austin police station all morning awaiting bail because of an argument he had with his wife over the naming of their son, Frank, he said.

Who Names the Sons?

"I was to name all of our boys, and she any girls we might have," Johnson explained. "I named the boy Frank Oliver, but a letter from the board of health showed it was Frank Robert. When I asked her about it she had me arrested."

Johnson then recited other arrests which he said occurred in June, 1920; August, 1920; May, 1921; October, 1922, and Aug. 8, 1939. There were others he couldn't remember, he said.

Mrs. Johnson's explanation of the arrests was that her husband gambled. "Then he was going with his stenographer in 1919," she said, "and came home one night with her compact. I put red pepper in it and when he came home the next night he said, 'You thought you were smart.'"

Finds Too Many Johnsons.

Mrs. Johnson then testified that after an argument Aug. 8, 1939, she was obliged to sleep on a porch with an iron pipe on the window beside her for protection. "We lived separately after that," she said.

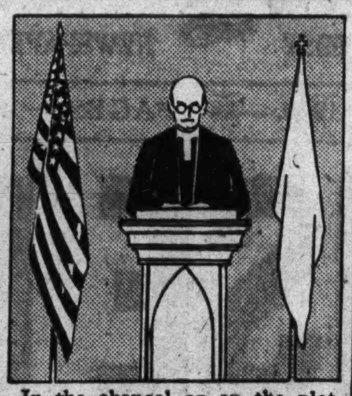
Commented Johnson's attorney, Joseph H. Horwich:

"It was a hard job tracing the arrests of all the Johnsons to find the exact dates of my clients' arrests. Apparently there are more Johnsons than anybody."

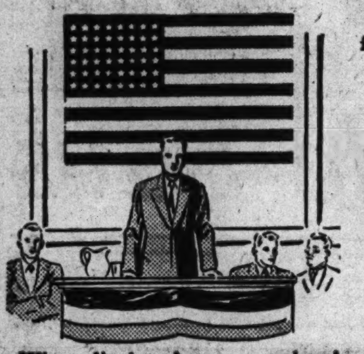
Judge Epstein continued the hearing to June 25.

Correct Ways to Display the Flag

Over the center of a public street.



In the chancel or on the platform of a church.



When displayed on a speakers' platform.

Carried in a procession of any kind with another flag.

Practices Told

How to display the nation's flag and show it the respect it deserves as the symbol of freedom and justice is explained herewith by THE TRIBUNE in response to requests for this information that are increasing with the approach of Memorial day next Sunday.

As a special Memorial day practice, the flag is flown at half staff until noon in tribute to those who have died for it, and at full staff from noon until sundown in token of the nation's continuing life.

Because the union [the blue field with the 48 stars] betokens the solidarity of the states, it is the flag's point of honor. Therefore, the union is always given the position of eminence, at the top and to the observer's left.

If flown over the street, the flag hangs vertically with the union to the north or east, depending on the street direction. No other emblem is ever flown above it except the church pennant while religious services are in progress aboard ship. In church, it stands at the clergyman's right.

In parades, the flag of the United States, if carried with other banners, belongs at the right of the column or out ahead.

The flag should never be used as a mere decoration, as for a speaker's stand or in an assembly hall.

DROP MEMORIAL HOLIDAY, IS WPB PLEA TO LABOR

War workers in Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, and Iowa were urged yesterday by A. T. Kearney, regional director of the war production board, to observe Memorial day by staying on the job.

Joining with William H. Spencer, regional war man power commission director, Kearney asked workers to forgo extending the week-end holiday and to report to work on Monday. Government offices will be on regular working schedules Monday, in compliance with an executive order canceling all usual holidays except Christmas day.

Two truck deliveries will be permitted Saturday for wholesale and retail firms that will not deliver Monday in observance of Memorial day, said Frank T. Corcoran, Chicago motor transport manager of the office of defense transportation. ODT rules bar more than one truck delivery a day.

The ODT also urged the public to avoid taking trains and intercity buses over the holiday week-end. It warned that travel equipment would be crowded and only standing room left for civilians.

South Bend Banker Out on Bond in Theft Case

Moore, 33 years old, teller of the American Trust Company bank, was free on $10,000 bond today to await a hearing before a federal grand jury on a charge of misappropriating $13,000. 20 Transport Flyers in New Guinea Decorated

ALLIED HDQ. IN AUSTRALIA, May 27 (AP).—The award of 20 distinguished flying crosses for "extraordinary achievement" by transport plane crews in New Guinea was announced by allied headquarters today. The recipients included Sergeants Charles D. Rice, Osage, Ia., and Robert J. Dorband, Waukegan, Ill.

RUBBER PLANTS NEARLY NORMAL AS STRIKES END

Akron, O., May 27 (AP).—War production climbed toward normal at Akron's four largest rubber plants tonight as CIO strikers returned to their jobs, heeding a Presidential ultimatum to end a five day stoppage that made more than 50,000 idle.

Plant supervisors said virtually full shifts reported at Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, the B. F. Goodrich company, Fireston Tire and Rubber company, and General Tire and Rubber company at 1 p. m. [Chicago war time]—two hours after the deadline set in the President's order.

Industrial sources estimated the loss in production of war materials resulting from the stoppage might exceed 18 million dollars.

The back to work movement started with the 6 a. m. shift at all the companies except Goodrich. United Rubber Workers' union members there first returned to their jobs at the noon deadline after calling for the war labor board to reconsider by June 16 a wage decision that touched off the stoppage.

BIG MACHINIST UNION TO SEVER TIES WITH AFL

Washington, D. C., May 27 (AP).—The International Association of Machinists with a reputed membership of well over half a million, announced today it is quitting the American Federation of Labor as of May 31 because of a long standing jurisdictional dispute.

The AFL thus lost almost the same numerical strength it stands to gain by the prospective readmittance of John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers.

The jurisdictional fight involves chiefly William L. Hutcheson's carpenters union, which the machinists contend has been "muscling in" on its field with the sanction of the AFL executive council.

Machinists' President Harvey W. Brown said the break after 48 years' affiliation is regrettable, but "if we are going to continue to get a beating we are not going to pay for it."

WHAT U. S. DEBT OF 300 BILLIONS MEANS TO YOU!

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 27.—A man who lived on $2.64 a day on a 4,500 mile tour of American war plants told the house today what the estimated 300 billion national post-war debt means.

Rep. Albert J. Engel.

It means, he said, that the Illinois taxpayers' pro rata share by population will be 17 billion, 989 million dollars, 3.42 times the assessed valuation of all Illinois real and personal property.

It means twice the assessed valuation of all the real personal property in the United States.

It means a per capita debt of $2,278 for every man, woman, and child in the nation.

Lesson in Economy.

The man who translated the debt billions into language taxpayers can understand, and turned in an expense account that gave the government a lesson in economy, is Rep. Albert J. Engel [R., Mich.]. His report showed $111 spent for meals and lodging and $225 for mileage on his 42 day trip, in which he found girl war workers buying two fur coats instead of one because they couldn't choose between their favorites.

Rep. Engel warned the nation that it must stop speaking glibly of 300 billion dollars and try to comprehend how much that is.

"I have come to the conclusion," he said, "first, that our ability as a nation to meet our financial obligations of the future will depend upon the policy we now follow in our expenditures.

Wants Public Awakened.

"Second, that it is absolutely essential that public consciousness of this debt should be awakened in order that we might eliminate some of the excess costs due to various causes in our production program.

"Third, that only by eliminating such excess costs can we hope to avoid ruinous inflation."

The Michigan congressman said that the national debt at the end of World War I. was only 27 billion dollars. This included 11 billion dollars lent to foreign governments. Thus, the entire national debt of the post-war period, exclusive of the loans, was only 16 billions.

"If the average individual knew just what the debt meant," he said, "his insistence upon obtaining value received for his tax dollar would be irresistible upon executive and legislative branches of the government."

Rep. Engel made his tour of war plants to examine and study production costs as a member of the house war department subcommittee of the committee on appropriations.

Pro Rata Chicagoland Figures.

ILLINOIS—Population, 7,897,241. Will owe $17,989,914,998. The assessed valuation of Illinois property for taxing purposes is $5,246,400,000, so that 342 per cent of the assessed valuation would be required to pay the state's share of a 300 billion national debt.

INDIANA—Population, 3,427,796. Assessed valuation, $3,954,977,650. Debt share, $7,808,519,298, or 179 per cent of the assessed valuation.

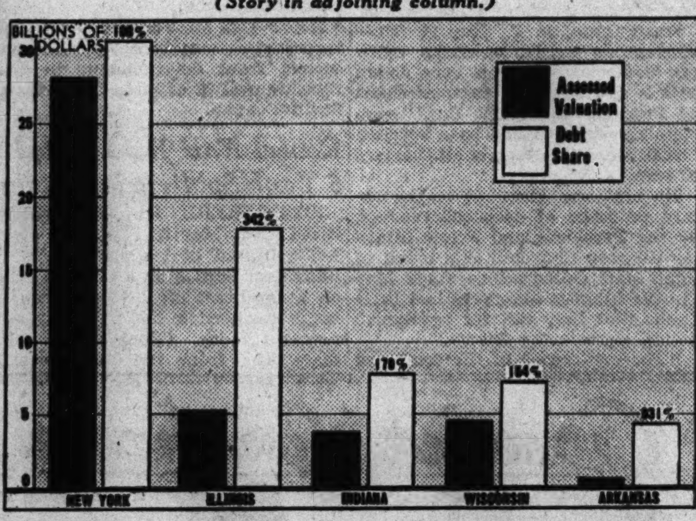
MICHIGAN—Population, 5,256,106. Assessed valuation, $6,623,578,978. Debt share, $11,973,409,468, or 180 per cent.

WISCONSIN—Population, 3,137,587. Assessed valuation, $4,626,331,361. Debt share, $7,147,423,186, or 154 per cent.

IOWA—Population, 2,538,268. Assessed valuation, $2,962,561,673. Debt share, $5,782,174,504, or 194 per cent.

What 300 Billion Debt Would Mean

(Story in adjoining column.)



The shares of several states in a national debt of 300 billion dollars, seen by many as a result of the war, compared with the assessed valuation of all taxable property within those states.

FLYER'S WIDOW CHRISTENS NAVY ESCORT VESSEL

Wearing the distinguished flying cross and purple heart awarded posthumously to her machine gunner husband, Mrs. Armida Nosalik yesterday christened the third naval patrol escort ship to leave the Pullman Standard Car Manufacturing company's Lake Calumet ways since May 2. Thousands of workmen and others witnessed the launching.

Mrs. Nosalik, who as a lathe operator in the Pullman Standard steel fabricating plant had a hand in building the ship she christened, received the army's decoration from Col. C. T. Mower, commanding officer of Kellogg field, Battle Creek, Mich., who read to her thousands of co-workers the citation of Corp. Henry C. Nosalik, member of a bomber crew which went to death in the Solomon Islands area Sept. 29, 1942.

Mrs. Nosalik is 20 years old and lives at 11520 Front street. Three months after her husband was shot out of Southern Pacific skies by Japanese anti-aircraft fire she entered the Pullman Standard company's plant schooling system from which she was graduated in a short time.

Last of 800,000 Cook County Tax Bills Mailed

All tax bills for 1942, both real and personal, have been mailed to Cook county taxpayers. County Treasurer Victor L. Schlaeger announced yesterday that the last of the 800,000 bills for residents of Chicago had gone out; townships outside the city limits have already billed their residents.

HERO'S MOTHER GETS HIS MEDAL, JOINS THE SPARS

Washington, D. C., May 27 (AP).—A mother who lost her coast guardsman son in the Solomons battle received the congressional medal of honor on his behalf from President Roosevelt today—and then joined the coast guard herself to carry on for the family.

She is Mrs. James Munro of South Cle Elum, Wash., mother of the late Signalman Douglas Munro.

"We are a coast guard family thru Doug," Mrs. Munro explained on taking her oath as a lieutenant [j. g.] in the SPARS, women's reserve of the coast guard. "I am very happy to be eligible to serve in it."

Doug Munro died a hero in evacuating a detachment of 500 marines from Guadalcanal last September at a point where enemy opposition developed beyond anticipated dimensions. He volunteered to lead the rescue mission when the battalion was trapped.

HEROIC CHICAGO PILOT AWARDED 3 DECORATIONS

Mr. and Mrs. M. Everett Henriksen, 5421 Giddings street, were notified yesterday that their son, Lt. E. Norman Henriksen, an army bomber pilot, had been awarded the distinguished flying cross and the oak leaf cluster for heroism displayed in the North Pacific area. Lt. Henriksen was wounded in the action, and also received the Order of the Purple Heart.

Lt. E. N. Henriksen.

Lt. Henriksen, according to his citation, volunteered for a hazardous ground level attack on enemy installations. The attack was carried out in the face of heavy anti-aircraft fire, which damaged his plane.

Lt. Henriksen was appointed a flying cadet Nov. 8, 1941, and received his primary flying training at San Diego, Cal. He was given his commission in June, 1942, then serving on patrol duty off the Florida coast, and as an instructor.

CALLANDER, Ont., May 27 (AP).—The Dionne quintuplets made preparations today for their ninth birthday tomorrow, preparations in which their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliva Dionne, joined for the first time. RAPS 'MISSION TO MOSCOW' AS PERIL TO U. S.

Columbus, O., May 27 (AP).—The executive committee of the Ohio department, American Legion, asked the Legion's national headquarters today to do "everything in its power to offset the damage to Americanism being done by the use of the motion picture 'Mission to Moscow.'" A statement from the office of J. J. Saslavsky, Ohio department adjutant, said:

"The film 'Mission to Moscow' is not true, even to the text of the book by the same name, but in the words of Prof. John Dewey and Miss Suzanne La Follette is, in reality, 'totalitarian propaganda for mass consumption.'"

GEN. DOOLITTLE'S 'FORTS' RAID BIG SICILIAN AIRPORT

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, May 27.—Two waves of Maj. Gen. James H. Doolittle's Flying Fortresses dropped big loads of fragmentation bombs on Comiso air field in southern Sicily yesterday in the course of a relentless battering of targets on that island and Sardinia and Pantelleria. Fortresses flew thru a 60 mile an hour wind to their objective and their explosives started a fire among parked enemy aircraft.

Staff Sergt. Mike Chester Zahn.

While on their way home the second wave was attacked by 50 Messerschmitt 109s. In a sharp combat the Fortress gunners destroyed three of the enemy planes. The American bombers suffered no losses.

Chicagoan Downs a Foe.

Biscari and Ponte Olivio were other Sicilian calling points for American planes. Air fields at both locations were bombed and strafed.

Targets in Sardinia were on the Gulf of Aranci, Villacidro, Tirso, and Ponte Romano. Shipping, dockside buildings, and power installation were hit and set aflame.

Among the Sardinian targets picked off by the allied airmen was the power station of the Tirso dam, which is the largest on the island. The allied communique said direct hits were scored on the power station on which a large part of the island depends for electricity.

Warhawks paid their daily visit to Pantelleria and strafed troops and gun emplacements.

REPORT ATTACK ON CONVOY.

The Italian communique, broadcast by the Rome radio, said seven persons were killed and 21 injured by allied raids on Sardinia and Pantelleria.

Italian torpedo carrying planes which attacked a strongly escorted Mediterranean convoy hit one destroyer, and axis bombers attacked the road and railway line between Mersa Matruh and El Daba, in northern Egypt, the Italians said.

Berlin claimed that on Wednesday in the Mediterranean area the German air forces destroyed 29 British and American aircraft.

DAVIES ASSERTS STALIN SUPPORTS ROOSEVELT NOTE

MOSCOW, May 27 (AP).—Joseph E. Davies, President Roosevelt's special envoy, tonight said Premier Josef Stalin, in their final meeting, "gave every indication that he was entirely in accord with the contents of the President's letter." He said he based this statement on the cordial atmosphere with which he was received at the Kremlin, where last night he received a written and sealed reply from Stalin to President Roosevelt's secret letter.

"Stalin spoke with great satisfaction about the way Churchill and Roosevelt are working in such close contact," Davies said. "In my opinion, there is every evidence that these three men know all about each other's plans."

Davies disclosed that he discussed the military situation with Stalin and other soviet leaders here, adding: "The Russians are confident, but not aggressively so. They feel that a good stiff offensive is still left in the Germans, who must be taken seriously. But I find in all Russians great confidence in the morale of their soldiers."

Davies said he did not know the contents of Stalin's message. He added that he will leave immediately for the United States.

Swedish Envoy to Norway on Way to Exiled Court

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, May 27 (AP).—Baron Johan H. Beck-Friis, Swedish minister to Norway, is en route to London, via Lisbon, to take his post as diplomatic representative to the royal Norwegian government exile there, it was announced today. It will be the first time since the Nazi invasion of Norway that the Swedes have had a representative with the Norwegians.

CHICAGOAN PROTECTS CHINESE AIR GENERAL ON RAID WITH 'FORTS'

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, May 27 (AP).—Maj. Gen. Lam Wai-ching of the Chinese air force flew in one of the Flying Fortresses which struck at the Comiso air field in Sicily yesterday and one of the Fortress gunners who helped defend his plane from an attack by 50 enemy fighters also was Chinese.

Gen. Lam, who is on a visit to the North African war theater, was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, and learned to fly in the United States in 1917.

The target gunner in the Fortress in which he was a passenger was also an American born Chinese—Staff Sergt. Lee Wong-gem of 3757 Lake Park avenue, Chicago, who was flying his 15th combat mission and who already has been awarded the air medal with three clusters.

British Church Bells Now May Be Rung at Any Time

LONDON, May 27 (AP).—Britain's church bells, reserved as an invasion signal during the early war years, may now be rung at any time, Herbert Morrison, home security minister, informed the house of commons today.

U. S. AND BRITAIN AGREE FULLY ON WAR, F. D. R. SAYS

Washington, D. C., May 27 (AP).—Momentous British-American strategy conferences ended here today with a one sentence announcement by President Roosevelt that "complete agreement" had been reached "on future operations in all theaters of war."

No hint was given as to the nature or scope of decisions reached by the President and Prime Minister Winston Churchill as a result of joint staff deliberations since May 11. Washington observers had little doubt that they call for aggressive action against the enemy.

"The conference of the combined [British-American] staffs has ended in complete agreement on future operations in all the theaters of war," the President's terse announcement said.

Roosevelt's announcement was interpreted as hinting at approaching second front developments in Europe, as well as at intensified action against Japan.

Reveal Nazi Raid Killed 6 Yank Soldiers in Britain

SOMEWHERE IN SOUTHERN ENGLAND, May 26 [Delayed]—(AP).—Six United States soldiers were killed last Sunday in a German raid on a southeast coast town when a bomb smashed a hotel, it was announced today. [None of the soldiers was from the middlewest.]

HITLER WILL TRY DEFENSIVE WAR, NEUTRALS HEAR

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, May 27 (AP).—Axis and neutral reports from Germany agreed today that Adolph Hitler probably would keep his armies on the defensive this summer in the hope that time and the U-boats would win the war for him.

Germans agreed, these reports said, that for the first time in three summers no Nazi offensive would be launched in the east.

While the Germans may be deliberately attempting to mislead, they nevertheless have been flooding neutral listening posts with pictures of the "impregnable" Atlantic wall and Mediterranean defenses.

AFRICA IS ARMY PROVING GROUND, THOMPSON SAYS

held fast and Cantigny never was retaken. The Americans lost 45 officers and 1,022 men in this battle.

"Most of you know the record of that division in the World war, where it distinguished itself for all time," Thompson said. "Well, the 1943 version of the 1st division is without a doubt our best and most experienced infantry division.

"It has seen more fighting than any other division. It has fought as a division, and piecemeal, by companies and battalions, by regiments and combat teams. Its men have fought from Mejez-el-Bab in the north to Gafsa and El Guetar in the south.

Tested Men of All Work.

"They have been under the command of American generals, British generals, and French generals. Because they were the 1st division, the battle tested warriors, they always had the dirtiest jobs, the toughest mountains, the most dangerous sectors. They battled over such varied terrain that the boys finally took to calling themselves the 1st American amphibious, mountain, desert, infantry division."

Gen. Eisenhower, Thompson said, had complete confidence in the 1st, and its men never let him down, even when they were forced to fight as small, separated units.

"Wherever you found them," he said, "whether under the British 1st army, or the French, with the Raff [Lt. Col. Edson D. Raff, task force commander] task force, or under the American 2d corps, you were sure to find the 1st division men holding the most advanced and exposed positions.

Found Anywhere in Fight.

"If you called their battle roll it would sound like the name of every Tunisian village, mountain, valley, or crossroad which had figured in the battles and skirmishes since November. If you were going to give the division a new scroll today, for the Tunisian campaign, it might read: 'It always took its objective.'"

Thompson said the German army in Tunisia lost, as few Germans have ever lost, completely, decisively, and in utter collapse.

"We had expected much longer opposition, tougher fighting, perhaps for another month, and some last stand effort on the Cape Bon peninsula," he declared.

"But when the Germans cracked, the collapse spread like wildfire. They were beaten, soundly trounced, cut to pieces, enveloped and doubly enveloped, outmaneuvered, and outgeneraled. We found that the Germans in defeat could not take it."

Learn to Hate Enemy.

Thompson told how American soldiers, bitter toward the Japanese but indifferent toward Germans on their arrival in North Africa, came to hate the Germans. An American outfit holding a vitally important hill on the slopes of Djebel Berda in front of El Guetar, had been under heavy fire for two days, without communications, supplies, or reinforcements.

"Every American machine gun and mortar had been destroyed," he said. "But our men were fighting. They fought with their Garand rifles and hand grenades as the Germans came up the hill, shouting 'Seig Hans,' apparently the name of their battalion commander.

"They told me that as the Germans came against them in superior force, some of their buddies, cut off in the forward foxholes, raised their arms to surrender.

"Only there was no surrender for them. The Germans bayoneted them and came on.

Avenge Slain Buddies.

"That hill was retaken later by a larger force, and there were not many prisoners. The men who saw their surrendering comrades bayoneted have long memories. Today they are killers."

Thompson told of a short, wide shouldered sergeant from North Carolina who manned a .50 caliber anti-aircraft machine gun on an armored scout car. Thompson was riding in this car toward the front lines at Sened when German planes strafed it, one of the many times he was under fire with American troops.

"The planes came, as we knew they would, and we boiled over the sides of our scout car like peas bursting from a pod," Thompson related. All took shelter in foxholes, he said, the sergeant gunner with them.

The planes came back three times. The sergeant didn't leave the scout car again. He stayed at his gun, making it spit death.

Sings as He Fires.

"Above the din we could hear his high, reedy mountain tenor. At first I thought it was some hillbilly tune. Then the words became distinguishable. What the young sergeant was singing as he swung his gun back and forth on its oiled mount was this: 'Every Day with Jesus Is Sweeter Than the Day Before,' and 'What the World Needs Is Jesus.'

"We asked him, during a lull, why he hadn't joined us in our slit trenches. And he said: 'You know, I felt kinda bad in that foxhole; because I knew I had a job and that job was at my gun. So when the planes came again I stayed on the gun. And I felt better'."

Thompson told of the long, cold journey with Col. Raff's task force from Feriana toward Faid pass and how American soldiers battled there, without rest, with little sleep and under constant fire for two days. One tank destroyer outfit he came upon had been bombed constantly and strafed by fighter planes for a full day.

Finds Cure in Action.

"As I passed one gully, a big, tough looking Irish redhead I knew looked up at me," he related. "He said: 'Thompson, I'm licked. I can't go on. All day those bombers have been over. They've got me nuts.' But when the time came for the attack I happened to glance at a halftrack passing me as it maneuvered toward the pass. There hanging on to the handles of a heavy machine gun was my red haired friend.

"His eyes weren't haunted any more; they were steady. You see, his outfit was going into action."

Thompson told of another bombing attack on the Thelepte air field near some ancient Roman ruins. He watched the bombers high in the skies open their bomb bay doors and from the shelter of his foxhole saw the sticks of bombs fall and felt their devastating thud.

10 Bombers, Then None.

"And then I saw it," he related. "The 10 bombers were not alone in the sky. On their tails, as they flattened out, speeding for home, close to the ground, charged six American fighters. The 10 J. U. 88s [bombers] came over. Not one reached home. All 10 were shot down by the Yanks, one of our fighters, a southern boy named Daniel Boone, got four for himself.

"It was the biggest day for Thelepte. But the best news, the item that really tickled every one, was this: The bombers' escort had been four Italian fighters. The Germans didn't get home. But the Italians who were supposed to protect them did."

Thompson told how Maj. Philip Cochran, the "one man air force" of North Africa, dissatisfied with the fighting qualities of the P-40 Warhawk plane which was the principal American fighter, lightened it by removing instruments and some of the guns and then went on to develop new tactics in actual aerial combat by which he could best the Germans' Folke-Wulfe 190 and the Messerschmitt 109.

[Maj. Cochran is the prototype of Flip Corkin, hero of Milton Caniff's comic strip, "Terry and the Pirates."]

Trains Swarms of Pilots.

Maj. Cochran taught his men the new tactics and Thompson said that his squadron "ceased having casualties." Maj. Cochran now, he said, is a lieutenant colonel training "swarms" of fighter pilots on Africa's west coast.

While American veterans, the tough British troops and the French allies beat the best troops of the axis in Tunisia, Thompson said it would be incorrect to draw the conclusion "that from now on the war is a breeze."

"As Gen. Eisenhower often pointed out," he said, "Tunisia is not the war. It was one campaign, one battle, just another stepping stone on the road to victory.

"There is no doubt in the minds of the soldiers on the fighting front that victory will be ours. But they know, perhaps better than any one, what the cost will be. They know the need for greater efforts on the battle fronts and the equally important production lines at home."

Thompson described how Gen. Rommel's African drive was stopped in an interview broadcast last night over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting System.

U. S. CASUALTIES IN NORTH AFRICA 18,558: STIMSON

Allied Cost of Tunisian Victory 70,000 Men.

Washington, D. C., May 27 (AP).—The cost of victory in Tunisia was less than 70,000 allied casualties, Secretary of War Stimson reported today. He said the axis lost 323,000 men killed, wounded and captured.

In the entire North African campaign, from the initial landing operations which began on Nov. 8 to the collapse of axis resistance on May 15, Stimson said, the United States army suffered only 18,558 casualties—2,184 killed, 9,437 wounded, and 6,937 missing, including prisoners taken by the axis.

[Prime Minister Churchill in his address to congress last week said the Tunisian campaign had cost the allies about 50,000 casualties.]

Capture Planes and Ships.

The secretary made no reference to British and French losses. The Germans and Italians, however, were said to have lost 30,000 killed, 26,400 wounded, and 266,600 taken prisoner in Tunisia, excluding other African campaigns.

"In addition," he said, "tremendous quantities of military supplies were lost by the axis including large numbers of aircraft and many naval and merchant vessels."

Allied ground troops now are occupied chiefly with assembling, guarding, and transporting their prisoners to camps and embarkation ports, Stimson said, adding that the prisoners, altho showing no signs of demoralization, "appear to be somewhat relieved to realize that for them the war is ended."

Still Asks Army of 8,200,000.

Despite the small American losses in Tunisia, attributed in large part to the success of coördinated ground-air operations worked out by allied commanders, Stimson said the Tunisian campaign had developed nothing to cause the high command to reduce its total man power estimates, under which the army is expected to total 8,200,000 men.

"In determining our man power needs," he said, "for both the ground forces and the air forces, it was assumed that the air-ground coöperation attained in North Africa would be necessary in all operations. There is no change at this time in our man power requirements."

Polish Premier in Cairo for Inspection of Forces

CAIRO, Egypt, May 27 (AP).—Premier Gen. Wladyslaw Sikorski of the Polish government in exile, arrived today on an inspection of the Polish military forces in the middle east. He was accompanied by his daughter, Mme. Lesniowska, who is an officer in the Polish women's auxiliary.

ITALY ORDERS STRIKES HALTED; FORMS 'WLB'

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

BERNE, Switzerland, May 27.—The Italian government today decreed that strikes and lockouts must cease immediately.

Acting on this order, the Italian minister of corporations issued a letter to regional prefects and Fascist confederations outlining the obligations and future functions of a nation-wide labor council patterned after the American war labor board to halt labor conflicts in Italy which have grown in number during recent weeks, particularly since the fall of Tunisia and the intensification of allied aerial attacks against the peninsula.

The letter "energetically calls to the attention of local authorities the necessity for seeing to it that collective and individual labor conflicts be settled forthwith under the auspices of local trade syndicate bureaus."

KING AND QUEEN VISIT YANKS.

U. S. BOMBER BASE SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, May 28 [Friday]. — King George and Queen Elizabeth informally discussed the problems American Flying Fortresses face in blasting axis cities in daylight raids in talks with American flying officers at this bomber base. They also met America's new sky terror, the Thunderbolt [P47] fighter, in their first visit to a United States fighter station.

Royalists Plot to Oust Laval, Spain's Press Told

MADRID, Spain, May 27 (AP).—Spanish press correspondents said in dispatches from Paris today that a plot was brewing in Vichy to oust Pierre Laval, Marcel Deat and other "chiefs of the old political parties" to prepare the way for a regency government in France. Royalists, large employers and many ordinary people, particularly women, and a group of French volunteers who fought alongside the Germans and Italians against allied forces in Tunisia were said to support the move.

KNIGHTHOOD IS TRIBUTE TO OUR MEN: M'ARTHUR

ALLIED HDQ. IN AUSTRALIA, May 27 (AP).—Gen. MacArthur, commenting today on his appointment as a knight, grand cross, of the order of the Bath, said the honor reflected primarily on his "comrades in arms" in the southwest Pacific.

"I deeply appreciate the distinction of this award," MacArthur said in a statement. "My gratification and pride are only increased by the realization that altho it is quite beyond anything that my personal effort has warranted, it truly reflects the courage, skill, devotion, and sacrifice of my comrades in arms of the Australian, American, Dutch, and other forces which it is my fortune to command.

"It is they who, with God's help, have earned and won it, and it will be my high honor to symbolize their victory and success."

MacArthur's appointment was made by King George VI. of England. A similar honor was bestowed simultaneously upon Gen. Eisenhower, allied commander in chief in North Africa.

CHINESE FLYERS STRIKE TWICE AT VITAL JAP BASE

Enemy Opens 1,000 Mile Yangtze Supply Line.

CHUNGKING, China, May 27 (AP).—The Chinese air force of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, striving to stem Japanese advances into western Hupeh province in central China, struck twice today at the vital Jap base at Changyang, near strategic Ichang, main base of the two-week old Japanese drive.

The Chinese Central News agency said that during the morning a large squadron of Chinese bombers lashed out at Changyang and in the afternoon bombers, escorted by fighters, struck again at the town and its environs.

Ichang lies 1,000 miles up the great Yangtze as the river winds and 462 miles below Chungking, at which the Japanese operations appear to be aimed.

Opens Supply Line.

A Chinese military spokesman said that the enemy had concentrated formidable infantry, tank, and air forces along the upper Yangtze, and had opened the river itself as a supply route as far as Ichang.

The spokesman said that Japanese gunboats and launches recently had inched their way along the turbulent, mine-infested waters of the Yangtze to Ichang and brought up rafts, junks, and other small craft.

But, the Chinese spokesman said, the Chinese still were putting up a fight against Japanese control of the river between Ichang and Shasi, 83 miles downstream. A Japanese flagship has reached Shasi, however.

275 Miles from Chungking.

Some Japanese columns south of the river in western Hupeh already are within 275 air miles of the capital. The spokesman estimated that 70,000 to 80,000 Japanese troops were engaged in the west Hupeh operations.

Meanwhile a Chinese high command communique said that some 1,000 Japanese troops were wiped out between dawn and noon Tuesday in close quarter fighting across the Yangtze from Ichang.

Naval Cadet Lands Plane in River, Swims to Safety

Cadet Donald Scott Bradbury, Philadelphia, escaped with minor injuries when he set his naval training plane down in a forced landing yesterday morning in the Fox river two miles north of Algonquin, the naval air station at Glenview reported. The cadet swam to the river bank and his plane was salvaged.

PENNY MATCHING SWINDLERS GET $1,067 IN 3 DAYS

Two smooth talking swindlers, who frequent Chicago railway stations and bus depots, have obtained $1,067 in the last three days by working the ancient game of penny matching on four visitors to the city.

One of the cheaters, a clever actor, used an English cockney accent in three of the swindles, but in one of them he switched to the accent of the deep south.

Yesterday there were two victims: George Bradley of Jefferson, Ia., who lost $480 matching pennies with the pair near State and Lake streets, and George Bowers, a student, of Tarrington, Conn., who gave up $80 worth of travelers' checks near Harrison and Wells streets.

This Memorial Day has a special significance . . . Our nation is at war . . . Our boys are facing foes on battle fronts in all parts of the world, risking their lives to defend all that we cherish in the American way of life. Our minds and our hearts are with them as we pay homage on this Memorial Day to our heroic and patriotic dead and to our beloved family and friends who have passed to the great beyond.

ARMY BLUEPRINT FOR OCCUPATION OF BERLIN READY

Several Hundred Experts to Restore Services.

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, May 27.—A blueprint for the occupation of a conquered Germany has been drawn up by the United States army's civil affairs section in this theater.

It envisages a staff of many hundreds of key men, including specialists in business, finance, health, education and legal matters who will strive to solve the multitudinous problems of getting the Nazi-ridden land back to something approximating normality. The estimate of several hundreds does not include military police and routine administrative aids.

Name Berlin Leader.

The center toward which civil affairs strategists are converging in these plans is Berlin, that section to be headed by Col. Arthur B. Wade of Syracuse, N. Y. Working always under orders of the military commander, whose function it will be to deal with the head of the occupied state, if any, the civil affairs section's first task will be to plaster the capital city with proclamations letting the population know specifically in German what the people can and cannot do.

The next step will be to announce a series of ordinances and penalties for violations. Meanwhile experts on public health, finance, law, education, transportation, and public safety will plunge into the task of bringing order out of whatever chaos may exist.

Urges Psychology Division.

Questions of education and religion are likely to be particularly vexing in such a country as Germany, where Nazi concepts have been spread to every classroom and thru many pulpits. Col. Wade believes it would be a good idea to include a psychological division in the administration to cope with the strains and maladjustments sure to arise but only vaguely predictable at this time.

The army's civil administration will be augmented by as many residents as possible, the idea being to establish an independent civil police as soon as possible to replace gradually the large force of military police that will have the task of enforcing all proclamations and ordinances.

"I would say that two months after the physical occupation things in Germany ought to be going along fairly well," said Col. Wade, who was with the United States army in Germany in 1919 and 1920. After that the occupying authorities would begin thinking in terms of establishment of a permanent government along the lines preferred by the population.

Would Give People Their Choice.

"The general idea is to allow the people a free chance to establish the government they want," the colonel went on. "In the event that they want to elect a king, or whatever it is, that is all right with us. In any case, as such a government is established we would gradually release the reins of military control."

This period of relaxation might extend six months or a year, he thought, emphasizing that our forces would try to create good feeling while setting up a stable government, to make friends, and to convince the populace that we had "no ax to grind."

Col. Wade left no doubt that the question of a future government was regarded as the most difficult in Germany, but it is important to remember that the civil affairs section, altho concerned with that country as an end, is also and primarily concerned with any European country that may be occupied in the course of the drive to the reich.

Task Easier Elsewhere.

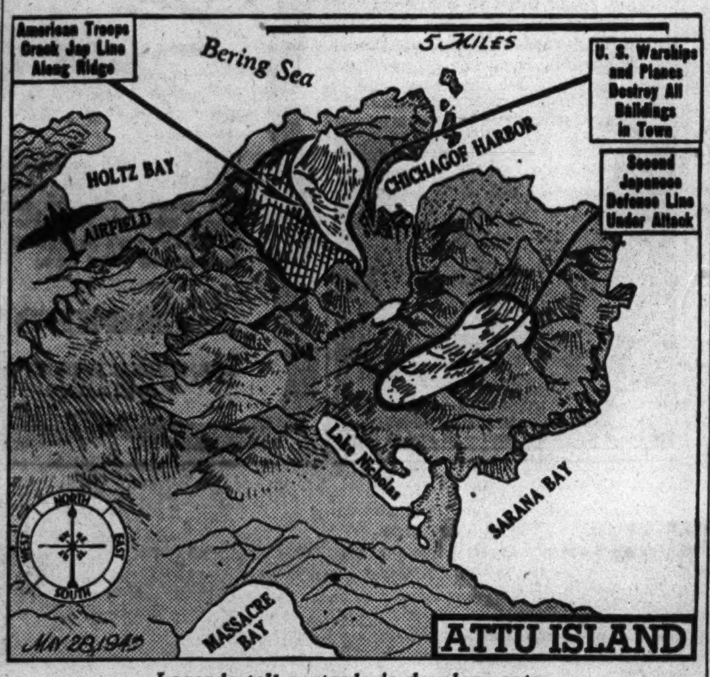
At the other extreme, for example, Col. Wade cited a country like the Netherlands, where not only is the reception of the allies likely to be one of enthusiasm and joy, but which has in London an efficient exiled government ready to reassume control with assurance of popular allegiance to Queen Wilhelmina from the moment of the liberation.

Italy, too, would pose relatively little difficulty, he thought, "once we get Mr. Mussolini wrapped up and put away." He could foresee generally pleasant relationships between the Italians and the occupying forces.

It is not proposed to have the work of the British and American civil affairs sections overlap. Rather it is understood they will operate on parallel lines, but in different theaters.

Attack Jap Pockets on Attu

(Story in adjoining column.)



Legends tell yesterday's developments.

YANKEES CRACK JAPANESE LINE ON ATTU RIDGE

Gain Foothold in 2 Day Hand to Hand Fight.

Washington, D. C., May 27 (AP).—After two days of hand-to-hand fighting United States troops on Attu Island have cracked the ridge defenses guarding the main Japanese position at Chichagof harbor, the navy reported today.

A small area at the head of the harbor is one of two main positions still held by enemy forces on the westernmost Aleutian Island. When it falls the Japanese will hold only a ridge line about three miles to the south between Lake Cories and Lake Nicholas. The ridge line already is under American pressure.

Destroy Chichagof Buildings.

An American foothold on the high ground dominating the Chichagof position of the Japanese was won Wednesday. A United States warship had turned its heavy guns on enemy shore installations the day before and started numerous fires. The communique said all buildings in the Chicagof area were destroyed.

[The type of warship was not given in the communique. However, a dispatch from an Associated Press war correspondent disclosed that at least one battleship is among the American naval forces. Another dispatch also spoke of "carrier-borne" planes. The first story told of the sinking of a Jap submarine. Destroyers damaged the submarine with depth bombs, and finally finished it off with gunfire when it came to the surface.]

Bombers Blast Japs.

This was followed up yesterday by army air attacks presumably from the advance American base on Amchitka Island, 233 miles to the southeast. Liberator heavy bombers, Mitchell medium bombers, and Lightning fighters, which strafed Japanese installations and personnel, carried out the attacks.

Prior to issuance of the navy communique, Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson discussed the Attu situation at a press conference and reported that American casualties had been "relatively light"—127 killed, 399 wounded, and 118 missing.

"We have reason to believe that Japanese losses have been much heavier," Stimson added.

EYE-WITNESS REPORTS

BY WILLIAM L. WORDEN.

MASSACRE BAY, Attu Island, May 21 [Delayed]—(AP).—Fighting in fog, American troops from Massacre and Holtz bays have made patrol contacts in high passes between the two points and have driven the Japanese back into the head of Chichagof harbor pass, where the battle is continuing.

Meantime American guns bombard Chichagof and heavy bombers drop tons of explosives on Japanese concentrated there.

The meeting troops from the two attack points are not yet in great numbers, but few Japanese are in the top pass to argue with them. Fighting has virtually ceased on the Holtz bay side, but heavy artillery action continues on this [Massacre bay] side.

Americans also crossed the top pass leading down to Sarana Bay and held vicious machine gun duels with a small body of Japanese now partially contained in the Sarana area. Roughly speaking, passes coming up from Sarana, Massacre, Holtz and Chichagof meet in high ground at the top and there the battle presently is centering.

Hear "Inside" Over Radio.

One favorable development in the last few days is that Attu is beginning to dry out. In spite of fog, in which troops can see for a reasonable distance, but looking up can see nothing, men are coming down from the hills with badly sunburned faces. The same men now are occasionally able to find a spot to lay their sleeping bags at night without waking in puddles of water.

An odd factor on ships here is that for the first time in weeks they are able to listen in on radios to learned discussions of what kind of terrain this is and how we are getting along. Some of it is remarkably good deduction; some simply makes third, dirty, sore-footed men laugh helplessly.

Founder of Mantle Club Convicted of Mail Fraud

Wilmington, Del., May 27 (AP).—Hugh B. Monjar of Ardmore, Pa., president and founder of the Mantle club, was found guilty tonight on charges of mail fraud and violating the 1933 securities act. Three principal co-defendants also found guilty on the same charges were Abraham J. Cooke, Clement O. Drew, and John Fenton Jones, all of Wilmington. Monjar's second wife was found guilty of conspiracy. Of the remaining 10 co-defendants seven were convicted and three found innocent of conspiracy charges.

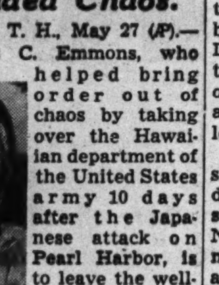
LT. GEN. EMMONS TO LEAVE HELM OF HAWAII ARMY

New Job Due for Man Who Ended Chaos.

HONOLULU, T. H., May 27 (AP).—Lt. Gen. Delos C. Emmons, who helped bring order out of chaos by taking over the Hawaiian department of the United States army 10 days after the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, is to leave the well-defended islands for a new assignment.



Lt. Gen. D. C. Emmons.

Gen. Emmons will be replaced by Maj. Gen. Robert C. Richardson. Speculation immediately was raised that he might go to San Francisco as commander of the western defense and 4th army command.

Asked concerning that possibility, Gen. Emmons, who received the distinguished service medal today for his work here, said he was unable to announce his new post but "there wouldn't be a more pleasant place to serve" than San Francisco.

Post Held by De Witt.

That post now is held by Lt. Gen. John L. De Witt, who recently observed the American landings on Attu Island.

[In San Francisco Rep. Richard J. Welch (R., Cal.) said in an interview this week that he understood Gen. De Witt was to be transferred because of differences with the war department on readmitting Japanese to the west coast. Welch added he also understood that Gen. Emmons would replace him. Secretary of War Stimson said "such a story is nonsense."]

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, commander of the Pacific fleet, in pinning the medal on Gen. Emmons today, said he took his post while chaos reigned but will leave the islands well defended.

Hawaii Still Vulnerable.

Gen. Emmons said "most major defense projects are completed or near completion and our worries about attack are dormant for the moment."

However, he warned that Hawaii still is subject to attack since "there's nothing between us and Japanese island bases."

BOMBERS POUND LAE IN BIGGEST RAID; ONLY ONE DOWNED BY JAPS

ALLIED HDQ. IN AUSTRALIA, May 28 [Friday]—(AP).—The heaviest raid of the war was unleashed on the northeast New Guinea Japanese base at Lae yesterday by Mitchells, Liberators, and Beaufighters. More than 28 tons of bombs rained down on the airdrome, dispersal areas, and supply dumps. One fighter was lost to anti-aircraft fire.

In a sense, it was retaliation for a sizable raid by the Japanese the day before on our ground forces strung out along the north coast of New Guinea from Morobe, about 80 miles below Lae, to Douglas Harbor, above Buna. The enemy used about 31 planes, including bombers and fighters.

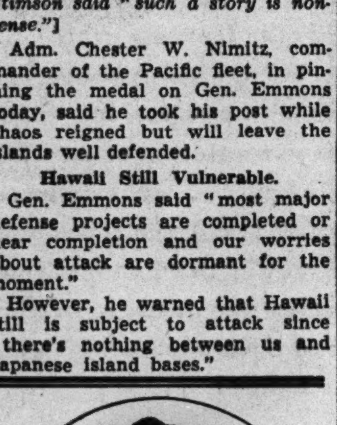
The obvious reason for the big raid on Lae is that the Japanese have succeeded in getting in reenforcements since the battle of the Bismarck sea in March, during which allied bombers destroyed an entire 22 ship convoy. The weather has been getting steadily worse for flying and that facilitates movement of Japanese ships.

DUTY SHIRKING NEAR TREASON, PHELAN AVERS

A charge that the government allows politics to "go on as usual" even tho it asks the supreme sacrifice from many of its fighting men and demands severe curtailments in the civilian use of essential commodities was made yesterday by Francis E. Phelan, commander of the Illinois department of the American Legion.

Phelan, speaking before a luncheon of the Central Lions club at the Hotel Sherman, cited as an example the delay of war labor board in settling a strike several months ago of southern miners because "there was an election near." He said the American Legion had asked for an investigation of this case.

He termed the "shirking of many labor leaders, business men and government burocrats" as near treason. Phelan called on civilians to contribute their money and services to even a greater extent.



Think VICTORY, always . . . but don't stop THERE

Our fighting men are WINNERS. So we can't lose. That we know. That, we believe in. One of the REASONS we can't lose . . . is that we won't rest till we WIN. Think VICTORY, always . . . but don't stop there. We at home will never stop buying WAR Bonds . . . till we've won it.

BULLET IN HEAD, CHICAGO HERO KILLS TWO JAPS

Thinks He's Dead, Then Runs Amok.

The strange tale of an army lieutenant who, with a bullet in his head, pressing on his brain, thought himself dead and ran amok on the Guadalcanal no man's land, killing two Jap snipers, was told here yesterday by the officer himself, Lt. Alfred J. Marti, 27 years old.

Lt. A. J. Marti.

Lt. Marti, visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Marti, 1105 South Mason avenue, on a hospital leave, had only faint memories of the battle fought on Grassy Knoll the day after Christmas. Most of the details had been filled in for him by buddies after he awoke in a New Zealand hospital three weeks later.

Remembers Bullet Entering Head.

"I was taking an army platoon to reënforce marine lines on the knoll," the lieutenant said. "Half way up the hill we ran into a crossfire from machine guns on our right and snipers on our left. Two men fell.

"A sniper's bullet pierced my helmet. I felt it going into my head as the helmet flew off. 'This is it. I'm dead,' I told myself. That is the last I remember clearly.

"In a haze, I remember lying in the grass, still thinking myself dead, watching two soldiers approach. One leaned over me. He pulled out a knife.

Becomes a Deadly "Corpse."

"I was lying on my rifle, but I had my .45 automatic in my hand. I fired. The Jap fell on me, his knife cutting my shoulder. I pushed him off and fired again and again. I remembered the other Jap. I fired at him. He fell, too.

"I guess I went completely off my nut. I broke my rifle into three pieces, putting the firing mechanism in my pocket. Then, holding my .45 tightly, the boys tell me, I ran around the battlefield. The machine guns opened up. In time, I fell, not from the machine guns, but from the original bullet in my head. Three Japs came to make sure I was dead this time, but a corporal lying in the grass killed all three. He saved my life.

Clings to Automatic.

"The boys tell me three hours later I crawled into a depression with three others. After another three hours the machine guns had been silenced and the boys got a stretcher bearer to carry me back. They tell me I hung onto my .45 all the way to the first aid station.

"The doctors still want to do a little work on my head. Noise bothers me. After Guadalcanal, Chicago traffic is really quite disturbing."

K. L. Merley presenting check to Miss Julia G. Browier.

A check for $11,250 was presented yesterday to Miss Julia G. Browier, 5524 Iowa street, beneficiary of a Chicago Tribune travel accident policy issued to her stepbrother, John G. Gall, 64 years old. He was killed April 27 in a train wreck on the Fox river branch line of the Burlington railroad in Kendall county.

The payment included full accumulated benefits in addition to the regular $7,500 policy, and is the largest that can be made with the policy.

Gall, assistant chief clerk of the United States railway mail service, began purchase of the policy on March 3, 1925. The check was presented to Miss Browier by K. L. Merley, representative of the Federal Life Insurance company, 168 North Michigan avenue.

Amendments Drawn to Curb Program.

Washington, D. C., May 27 (AP).—Sen. George A. Wilson [R., Ia.] said today he fears freedom of the press may be impaired by legislation, as now drawn, to appropriate up to $30,000,000 annually for government purchase of newspaper advertising space and for publication of information to promote war bond sales.

He added in a statement that he had introduced amendments which he believes would provide safeguards.

Fears Misinterpretation.

One of the amendments would strike out a section which Wilson said could be interpreted to mean that the "secretary of the treasury, in coöperation with certain publishers' associations, shall prescribe regulations under which they determine whether criticism of any public official is justified, and having decided, the secretary of the treasury shall 'protect editors and publishers' in their right to publish such criticism."

Commenting on a provision in the section prescribing regulations to avoid interference with the independence of a newspaper, he said:

"I am hesitant about the effect of a declaration by congress amounting solely to a fatherly admonition to officials merely to 'avoid' interference with the independence of any newspaper."

Nonpartisan Feature.

Another provision, he said, advises the administrators to "keep the war finance campaign in all of its phases as nonpartisan as possible."

"Are we to assume that the sale of government securities," Wilson went on, "might be made a partisan issue?"

As a substitute for this section Wilson proposed one which would provide that the secretary of the treasury, in coöperation with recognized publishers' associations, prepare the material and "fairly allocate" it.

Learns That Son Reported Missing Is Axis Prisoner

Mrs. Matte Eriksen, 4248 Belden avenue, said yesterday that her son, Staff Sergt. Raymond H. Eriksen, reported by the war department Wednesday as missing in action in the European area, had been reported found wounded and that he is in a German prison camp. She said she was notified of this later information on Saturday, subsequent to the preparation of the war department's list of missing.

CONFEREES IRON OUT ABATEMENT BASES ON TAXES

Approve 'Notch' Plan to Avoid Inequalities.

Washington, D. C., May 27 (AP).—House-senate conferees today perfected abatement provisions of pay-as-you-go legislation.

The conferees ironed out a matter on which some controversy still lingered. In announcing a compromise recently, it was stated that persons with tax bills of $50 or less would have a full year's taxes abated, while others would get 75 per cent abatement. Then some legislators raised the question whether the latter class should not get the $50 abatement in addition to the 75 per cent.

Approve "Notch" Plan.

The conferees decided that they should not but approved a "notch" plan whereby every taxpayer owing over $50 for the abatement year would benefit by at least $50.

Thus the approved current taxation plan, which will come up in the senate and house early next week, provides:

1. Each taxpayer owing up to $50 in taxes for the one year, 1942 or 1943, in which he had the smaller taxable income will get 100 per cent abatement.

2. Persons whose abatement year tax bill is between $50 and $66.67 get a flat $50 abatement, and

3. All taxpayers with an abatement year bill over $66.67 receive a deduction of 75 per cent; the remaining 25 per cent to be paid half on March 15, 1944, and half March 15, 1945, in addition to current taxes.

Seek Equitable Basis.

In all cases the abatement takes place in 1942 or 1943, in whichever the taxpayer had the smallest taxable income.

The "notch" plan was adopted to prevent inequity for persons owing $50 to $66.67 for the abatement year. If they were limited to a straight 75 per cent abatement they would benefit by less than $50.

The conferees also polished up special provisions for service men and service women, and perfected "windfall" provisions of the measure.

Under the bill, if it becomes law, a 20 per cent withholding levy against the taxable portions of wages and salaries will become effective July 1.

COSTS INCREASE THO NUMBER ON RELIEF WANES

Springfield, Ill., May 27 (AP).—Recipients of old age assistance in Illinois have decreased by 3,335 during the last seven months, after dropping 749 last month to show the largest monthly decrease since the downward trend began last October.

The May total was 147,637, compared with 148,386 in April and 150,972, the highest number last October, the state division of public assistance reported. However the May payments were $4,195,679, or $10,206 higher than in April, and the higher figure was attributed by the division to "the rising cost of living and the resulting higher allotments."

Aid to dependent children grants in May were made to 60,965 children in 26,872 families, an increase over April of 506 children and 181 families. ADC payments in May were $866,336, an average of $14.21 per child and $32.24 per family.

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by C. P. Kerns, 1019 North Dearborn street.]

THE QUESTION.

WHERE ASKED.

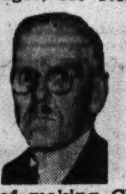
Palmer House arcade.

THE ANSWERS.

R. P. Van Voorst, expediter, Charleston, W. Va.—Without a doubt the city is going to require more airports. I think an airport built on the lake front would be both practical and esthetic. When arriving at the present airport the city never impresses me as the "City Beautiful."

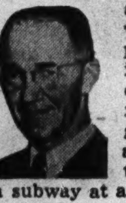
Alan J. Grossman, builder and broker, Detroit, Mich.—The plan may have a few good talking points but I don't think it's feasible. Chicago weather is bad, but over the lake it's worse. As for eliminating hazards, loop buildings would be a great hazard.

R. O. Broecker, expediter, 5935 North Paulina street—Before many more years we are going to require greater airport facilities. An island airport a little north or south of the loop would be ideal.



Allen Montague, advertising manager, 339 North Oak Park avenue, Oak Park—The destination for many is ultimately the loop and many of the outgoing passengers come from the loop. I believe an island airport close to the loop would increase the possibility of making Chicago a real aviation center.

Ira J. Klein, sales executive, Belmont hotel—People fly primarily because they want to save time. They could save more of it if the airport was more centrally located. It takes almost as long to go from the airport to the loop as from the airport to Detroit. I'm all for the lake front airport.



Harry Mittelstadt, hotel worker, 102 West Schiller street—I'm afraid an island airport would be an expensive project, especially if it were built out far enough to eliminate flying low over congested areas. Perhaps a super-highway direct to our airport or even a subway at a million dollars a mile would be more practical.

BOND LAGGARDS AT WHITE HOUSE ARE HIGHER UPS

26 of 50 on Staff Sign Up for Deductions.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 27.—Figures made public today by the federal interdepartmental war savings bond committee show that the White House office staff lags in war bond purchases behind most other government offices.

In March, the last month for which figures are available, President Roosevelt's office staff were investing only 6.8 per cent of their $18,261 monthly pay roll in war savings bonds and stamps. But the navy department, the men who are doing the fighting, was contributing better than 10 per cent.

Higher-Ups Fall Down.

War savings staff officials commented that it wasn't the clerks and stenographers and the guards around the White House and on the official staff that were lagging in their bond purchases—they are doing "splendidly"—but it is the more highly paid employés such as Harry Hopkins who are behind.

Hopkins is the No. 1 intimate of the White House. He qualified himself as a food expert just after rationing started by presenting his wife to Washington society at a $40 a plate dinner. Now he gets, in addition to his more than $10,000 a year government salary, a reported $5,000 an article from a national magazine telling the American people what dire things they can expect as the food situation gets worse.

Government employés seeking to get him to contribute part of his substantial salary each month toward war bond purchases are put off, they said, with a tale about his wife buying them for him. Hopkins and his family live in the White House and pay no rent.

26 Listed on Rolls.

The interdepartmental report showed that only 26 of the 50 members of the White House official staff had signed up for regular pay roll deductions.

The bond staff also revealed that employés of the government living outside of Washington make substantially larger war bond purchases than those residing in the capital. Members of the treasury staff in Washington contribute 9.5 per cent of their monthly pay checks for bond purchases while field employés of the department contribute 10.3 per cent.

MAYOR TO PRESS CHICAGO'S NEEDS IN WASHINGTON

Mayor Kelly will leave for Washington Tuesday to follow up his priority requests made to government agencies, and to attend graduation exercises of his daughter, Patricia, from a girls' school at Chevy Chase, Md. Mrs. Kelly will accompany him, he said yesterday.

In addition to pressing his requests for priorities on city work, the mayor added that he would seek permission to purchase equipment for the Auditorium service men's center.

As a result of the mayor's absence, the council meeting scheduled for Wednesday will be recessed until the following Tuesday morning, June 8.

CHIEF OF NEGRO NATION SPEAKS BEFORE SENATE

Washington, D. C., May 27 (AP).—A modest ruler of a tiny African republic paid his courtesy call to the United States congress today and shattered Capitol Hill records for brevity in speechmaking.

Here to return the post-Casablanca visit President Roosevelt made to his country, President Edwin Barclay of Liberia used only 28 words in addressing the senate; not many more in bringing the greetings of his people to the house.

"I thank you very much," the Negro chief executive said in the senate, "for according the high honor of permitting me to watch for a few minutes the process of lawmaking of the United States senate." Then he sat down.

In the house, the descendant of slaves said his country had derived its constitution from this nation and that its people were carrying out the democratic principles of government.

PLANNERS GET $200,000 FUND; SCOPE LIMITED

Senate Bars Further Aid from President.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 27.—The senate late today voted to allow the national resources planning board only $200,000 for the next fiscal year and restricted its activities after hearing fervent appeals to wipe out the New Deal planning agency completely.

The vote on the $200,000 appropriation was 44 to 31, and sustains an amendment by the appropriations committee to the independent offices bill by which the $200,000 is allowed on condition that it be used only for "coördination and correlation of planning with state governments and political subdivisions," and cannot be supplemented by funds from any other source—a move to bar President Roosevelt from reaching into his vest pocket funds and helping out his uncle, Frederic A. Delano, chairman of the board. Last year the President gave the NRPB $200,000 for "national defense activities."

House Cut Off Funds.

The NRPB, under heavy fire for its radical policies, was denied any funds by the house when it passed the 2 billion 621 million dollar independent offices appropriation measure. The board requested $1,400,000 for the 1944 fiscal year compared with its 1943 appropriation of $774,422.

Just before approving the $200,000 fund, the senate rejected a proposal by Sen. Kenneth McKellar [D., Tenn.], manager of the bill, that the NRPB be granted $534,000.

The McKellar amendment was defeated, 31 to 43, with the Illinois senators, Wayland Brooks [R.] and Scott W. Lucas [D.] paired on the vote, Brooks against the amendment and Lucas for. They had to be absent from the chamber to attend a conference of the Illinois delegation on flood relief, at which Brooks presided. They both supported the committee amendment to limit funds for the NRPB to $200,000.

Vote to Liquidate HOLC.

A little later the senate adopted on a voice vote an amendment by Sen. Harry F. Byrd [D., Va.] to require the HOLC to submit a plan to liquidate by July 1, 1945, and furnish congress with semi-annual reports on progress toward such liquidation. Finally, the chamber adopted the complete bill on a voice vote, sending it to conference with the house, where further action could still be taken against the NRPB, especially if the house insists upon abolishing it.

Leading opponents of the board, such as Senators Robert A. Taft [R., O.], Byrd and Millard E. Tydings [D., Md.], declared that they want planning for the post-war period, but doubted the NRPB was fitted to do the job.

The New Dealers who defended the NRPB included Acting Majority Leader Lister Hill [D., Ala.], and Senators Joseph F. Guffey [D., Pa.], Claude Pepper [D., Fla.], and Homer T. Bone [D., Wash.].

START MILEAGE CUT NOW, EAST'S 'T' DRIVERS TOLD

Washington, D. C., May 27 (AP).—With no relief in sight from the eastern gasoline shortage, the office of defense transportation today ordered bus and taxi operators to begin at once the "stretchout" of their "T" coupons.

Bus and taxicab operators in the shortage area were ordered to reduce mileage by 20 per cent without delay, and ODT cautioned them that additional curtailments must be made later.

Truck, bus, and taxicab mileage in the shortage area recently was ordered cut 40 per cent by extending the valid period for all current "T" gasoline rations, but until today the operators were free to use their coupons as fast as they liked.

ODT said that because of this some bus and cab operators failed to begin stretching rations to meet the over-all 40 per cent reduction.

The petroleum administration said gasoline stocks available for civilian consumption in the shortage area declined at the rate of 49,857 barrels a day during the week ended May 22.

TIRE OVERSHOES CARRY TRIBUNE CAR 3,871 MILES

"Tire overshoes" made of old rejected casings, and fitting over and conserving the regular tires gave 3,871 miles of service on The Tribune nurse's car, Charles B. James, purchasing agent of THE TRIBUNE, said yesterday. The overshoes had many miles of service left when the cables holding them broke and brought the experiment to an end.

The test was started last Feb. 10 after Leonard Erickson, 1603 East 68th street, had made the suggestion. THE TRIBUNE had asked for ideas to alleviate the tire shortage, and had promised to test those that seemed to have practical value.

Old casings were cut in two places and fitted over deflated tires. They were secured with cables and the tires then inflated. Erickson reported last February that he had driven a tire thus equipped 6,000 miles with satisfactory results.

STEPHAN SEEKS SUPREME COURT REVIEW OF CASE

Washington, D. C., May 27 (AP).—In an effort to save the life of Max Stephan, Detroit restaurant owner convicted of treason and sentenced to hang, his attorneys contended in a petition filed with the Supreme court today that legislation enacted in 1889 gives him the right to a review by the high tribunal.

They filed a petition for allowance of an appeal directly to the Supreme court from Stephan's conviction in federal District court at Detroit.

In a separate memorandum the justice department asserted that the 1889 act had been repealed by later legislation in so far as it purported to give the right of direct appeal in a capital case.

Previously, counsel for Stephan had sought a Supreme court review of a decision by the Circuit court upholding the conviction.

"This court," the petition said, "has never, so far as has been ascertained, reviewed a treason case."

Action on the petition may be announced next Tuesday.

Twin Destroyer Escorts Launched; Honor Heroes

Newark, N. J., May 27 (AP).—Twin destroyer escorts, the Amick and the Atherton, were launched at the federal shipyard today. The Atherton was named for Lt. John McDougal Atherton, Glenview, Ky., naval hero aboard one of the escorting warships when Gen. Doolittle's flyers took off to bomb Tokio. The lieutenant died last Oct. 15 after the sinking of the destroyer Meredith in the battle of the Solomon Islands. The Amick bears the name of Ensign Eugene Earl Amick Jr. of Kansas City, killed last Aug. 9 in enemy action while on the U. S. S. Astoria.

SHOWDOWN DUE IN BATTLE OVER OPA PROFESSORS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 27.—The current feud among top officials of the office of price administration over that agency's widely criticized policies neared a showdown tonight as Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown indicated he will decide within a few days whether to keep OPA's dominant college professor clique in power or name a new OPA general manager to clean house.

Brown, disturbed by the rift within OPA and growing protests against its allegedly ineffective price control efforts, called several top OPA officials into a policy conference this afternoon.

At an informal press conference following the staff meeting, Brown said he will probably make a decision early next month on the dispute within his organization.

Can Stand Resignations.

"If my assistants can't get along, I'll choose one and let the other fellow go," said Brown, adding that OPA, with 160,000 employés, could stand a few resignations now and then. The price chief termed "absurd" reports that OPA is on the verge of a breakdown.

Earlier in the day, Brown was reported to have decided to elevate Lou R. Maxon, former Detroit advertising executive, to the post of OPA general manager with full powers to overhaul the OPA personnel setup and revamp price control programs to meet criticism.

Maxon, originally imported by Brown as head of OPA public relations, told reporters this morning that unless he was made general manager, second to Brown, with broad powers to revamp price programs and purge the "professors" from OPA, he would resign.

Wants Simplification.

Maxon said he has virtually no power in his present post to change what he termed "unwise" OPA policies. OPA price regulations must be simplified and business men affected by price orders must be consulted in advance to make the OPA program effective, he added.

Heading the list of professors at whom Maxon's criticism was directed is James K. Galbraith, deputy OPA price chief and former economics professor at Princeton university. Galbraith is opposing the elevation of Maxon to the top OPA post on the ground that price controls would be relaxed too far under Maxon's program. Associates of Galbraith said he would resign in protest if Brown favors Maxon.

Others whom Maxon reportedly wants to replace with appointees grounded in practical business experience include Paul O'Leary, OPA rationing chief and former professor at Cornell university, and Joel Dean, fuel oil rationing director, former University of Chicago professor.

WILLKIE TITULAR HEAD OF G. O. P.? NO, HOUSE TOLD

Shafer Denounces Plans to Fete Him.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 27.—A plan to fête Wendell L. Willkie in Detroit, Mich., on Sunday as "titular head of the Republican party" drew a blistering protest from Rep. Paul Shafer [R., Mich.] in the house today.

Asserting that Willkie was the leader who did not lead in 1942, Shafer told his colleagues that the affair was arranged by a coterie of Willkie stooges in his state, including Mrs. Dudley Hay, G. O. P. national committeewoman from Michigan, who has demonstrated pronounced Willkie leanings in the past.

He charged that Willkie's "invasion" of Michigan on Sunday is proof that the former G. O. P. candidate for President is already eyeing the 1944 nomination.

Rebukes Praise of Reds.

The Michigan congressman also rebuked Willkie vigorously for his recent outspoken praise of the Communist manifesto to which he gave voice while arguing a case before the United States Supreme court.

"Believe it or not, it is one of the great historical documents," he quoted Willkie as telling the court of the famous manifesto.

Shafer went on to add that Willkie has never spoken so highly of a Republican party platform, including the one on which he ran in 1940, or for any G. O. P. candidate. In 1942, he declared, the Republican party was fighting for the preservation of the two party system in this country and the continuation of constitutional government.

"Where Was He in '42?"

But during that campaign, Shafer reminded his colleagues, Willkie took himself to far off China on a junket arranged by the same New Deal administration whose dictatorship policies the G. O. P. was striving to overcome.

"Now, I ask Mrs. Hay and other Republicans of Michigan who are proclaiming Mr. Willkie as 'titular head' of the Republican party, where was this 'titular head' in 1942?" the Michigan congressman said.

"Did he assist any of the hundreds of Republican candidates who were waging a life and death struggle for the preservation of true Americanism? No. Did he issue any statements extolling the principles of the Republican party or urging a general outpouring of voters to assist in Republican elections? No."

Republican or New Dealer?

Shafer told of the manner in which Willkie responded to the candidacy of Thomas E. Dewey for governor of New York.

"Only after he had attempted underhandedly to stop the nomination of Dewey did he, in the last part of the campaign, issue a grudging statement that he would vote for Dewey. That was his sole contribution to the Republican battle for existence.

"Where was our leader? O, yes, he made some attacks on candidates, but the only ones attacked were Republicans. In the 1942 elections what was he, Republican or New Dealer?"

One by one, the Michigan congressman named the leading G. O. P. standard bearers thruout the nation in the last election, including Sen. Wayland Brooks [R., Ill.], Sen. Homer Ferguson [R., Mich.], and Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, asking after each name whether Willkie had indorsed, spoken for or otherwise aided any of them. In each case his answer was a resounding, "no."

Turns to Red Manifesto.

Turning to the ex-G. O. P. chieftain's praise of the Communist manifesto, Shafer explained that Willkie appeared twice before the Supreme court to defend William Schneiderman, Russian born secretary of the Communist party of California, whose citizenship the government is seeking to revoke.

He told the chamber that the document for which Willkie expressed such ardent admiration urges the abolition of private property and land.

Mrs. Irene Catherine Maertz.

Mrs. Irene Catherine Maertz, 38 years old, 600 North Kenilworth avenue, Oak Park, was granted a divorce yesterday from her husband, Homer, by Superior Judge Joseph A. Graber. Mrs. Maertz charged her husband with adultery, and testified that he was a leader in the Silver Shirts and was connected with the German-American bund.

She was informed by the federal bureau of investigation, she said, that her husband was living with another woman at 1160 North Dearborn street. She investigated and found that it was true, she said. Her testimony was corroborated by Mrs. Bess Marshall, manager of the rooming house on Dearborn street.

Two years ago Maertz pleaded guilty to a charge of malicious mischief, and served six months in the county jail. He did not appear before Judge Graber yesterday, but has made an out of court agreement of pay his wife $10 a week for support of their daughter, Karen, 14, Mrs. Maertz said.

ACCUSED OF 10 VIOLATIONS IN CABBAGE SALES

Nathan Rosenberg, 5637 North Central Park avenue, owner of a wholesale produce company at 7 South Water Market, charged by the office of price administration with violation of ceiling prices in the sale of cabbages, was named in a criminal information filed yesterday in the federal District court of Judge John P. Barnes.

The information, filed by United States Atty. J. Albert Woll, contains 10 counts and alleges that Rosenberg sold a total of 6,900 pounds of cabbage between April 19 and April 22 at prices ranging from 10 per cent to 25 per cent above the ceilings.

At liberty on bonds of $1,500, set by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker, Rosenberg if found guilty faces sentence of one year and fines of $5,000 on each count.

DIVORCE GIVEN MRS. BRINK; ALSO $50,000 IN CASH

Mrs. Jesse H. Brink, 56 years old, 700 South Prospect avenue, Park Ridge, was granted a divorce yesterday by Judge Joseph Sabath in Superior court from Lewis R. Brink, 56, vice president of the Paragon Die Casting company.

The court approved a settlement giving Mrs. Brink $50,000 in real estate, including their home, a similar amount in cash, household furnishings valued at $10,000, and $100 a week life income from a trust fund.

The couple was married June 30, 1909, and separated Jan. 1 of this year, Mrs. Brink's attorney said.

NATIONAL BANKRUPTCY.

At Bettendorf, a suburb of Davenport, Ia., the government spent between 50 and 60 million dollars on an arsenal to produce M7 tanks. The International Harvester company was designated to operate the plant. It turned out seven tanks. The hulls of about 250 more are rusting in the open air and should give Scott county a head start in the next scrap drive.

The plant originally was expected to provide employment for 8,000 persons, half of them within its walls and the other half working on subcontracts in the vicinity. It now has a working force of 800, making another war vehicle. The M7 tank is out and H. C. Abbott, who is production manager of the plant for the operating contractor, estimates that the government stands to lose between 30 and 40 million dollars of its investment as a result.

The explanation of the army ordnance corps, which, incidentally, asserts that Abbott's estimate of loss is too high, is that enemy weapons, developed after the tank was designed two years ago, outmoded the original design and that by the time the weapon had been redesigned to meet changing conditions it was too much like other tanks already in mass production to warrant going ahead with its manufacture.

That may explain the M7 tank, but it does not explain the tank factory. When the public convinced Henry Ford that the model T was obsolete, he didn't abandon the Ford plant. He retooled it to make a modern automobile. Obviously, if the need for tanks were such as to have justified the tremendous investment in the Bettendorf plant in the first place, it would still be great enough to justify retooling to make better tanks than the M7 when that proved faulty.

The truth of the matter is that as regards tanks, as well as a great many other weapons and munitions items, the administration built vastly greater production facilities than we need. In some instances, shell loading is an example, this was because production estimates were based on existing government plants, small, obsolete, and inefficient. When the job was turned over to private industry, output was four and five times what had been forecast on the experience of the plants run by the burocrats.

Fundamentally, however, the fault lies in the industrial illiteracy of Mr. Roosevelt and every one about him. The vast majority of the men who have been plotting in Washington to put the government in control of the industry of the country have never held a job in industry. These are the men who have made many of the basic decisions on war construction, and the country is now beginning to pay for their ignorance. Bettendorf is but one illustration of the insane wastefulness of the New Deal which, in waging war, is throwing money around with the same lack of thought of the consequences that it displayed when it was throwing it around to continue and exploit the depression for political benefit.

Modern war is, under the best possible administration, a horribly expensive affair. If congress permits it to be directed by fiscal and industrial illiterates, it will force the nation into bankruptcy.

GET JOBHOLDERS WORTH PROTECTING.

The Illinois house has passed a bill to place the hiring of civil service employés on a temporary basis until after the war. The announced purpose is to have a pool of state jobs available for the fighters when they return from service. This is a laudable purpose, and the benefits to the state government itself should be equally great.

As was made clear during the debate on the measure, it is extremely difficult now to get first rate personnel for public jobs. Salary levels, attractive in ordinary times, always lag behind private pay in times of rising prices and wages. There is a genuine danger that if vacancies are filled now on a permanent basis the civil service system will be overloaded with second and third rate employés who will be frozen into their jobs for life.

Rep. Vicars, the minority leader, in opposing the bill, asked the Republicans why they were not willing to be honest and just repeal the civil service act. There is a good deal more to Mr. Vicars' rhetorical query than perhaps even he thought when he made it. The state civil service was a joke under the Democratic state administration and the protections it affords employés have not been materially increased by the Republicans. Illinois would not be much worse off with no civil service than with the present system. That, however, is beside the point.

There is no public benefit in protecting governmental employés in their tenure unless the employés are worth protecting. The institution of hiring on a temporary basis is, in fact, a recognition of this principle. The state civil service system needs improvement badly. While the jobs are being held open for the veterans, the legislature and the executive department could very well be addressing themselves to the problem of improving the civil service, drafting plans to be put into effect when the boys come back from the war.

THE GOVERNMENT STICK.

Sen. Thomas E. Madden, Peoria Democrat, is the father of a bill which the state senate has been so ill advised as to advance to the passage stage. The measure would forbid beauty parlors to advertise the price of their services. The $1.50 permanent wave thus becomes an acute social and legislative problem.

The lady who buys a $1.50 permanent stands a chance of emerging from the dryer with a bush that would arouse the envy of a Fiji medicine man. But if she wants a permanent and has only $1.50, where is she going to get it except in the shop that advertises to give her one for that price?

The organized proprietors of the more expensive beauty shops naturally regard the $1.50 permanent not only as unfair competition but as something that, unchecked, may bring the whole institution of permanent waves into disrepute. They see the pillars of the temple of beauty tottering over them and their cash registers. So what? So they go running to the legislature, perhaps pausing on the way to pass the hat for lobbying expenses or even a slush fund.

What they are asking is what the materials manufacturers and building trades councils want out of building codes, the dairy interests out of an oleomargarine tax, the railroads out of port of entry and truck limitation laws, the distillers out of price fixing laws. They want to borrow the government stick to beat a competitor over the head.

There never was really unfair competition that did not end up by cutting its own throat. The greater danger to the nation is the selfish interests that use the cry of unfair competition in the attempt to stifle any competition. They are as great a menace to the system of free enterprise as are the New Dealers, who frequently sing their song.

STATISTICAL TRICKERY.

Each week the government reports how high prices are compared with a standard. So far as wholesale prices are concerned, the base, or 100, is the average for the year 1926.

It can be taken for granted that the government doesn't use 1926 as 100 because that was the year the rhubarb froze. The use of 1926 as 100 for wholesale prices and nothing else was purposeful. Prices were high that year, higher than in 1929. The Roosevelt administration declared 1926 prices to be normal, and sought to advance all prices, and especially farm prices, to that level in the well remembered price hoisting experiments. 1926 was par. It was the goal aimed at. If goods sold for less than in 1926 it was considered that they were selling at a discount.

Prices on the average were 60.2 per cent of the 1926 level when Mr. Roosevelt was first inaugurated. By what he called "reflation" he sought to bring the index up to 100 per cent of 1926. The reflationary steps were many: little pigs were killed to make meat cost more; half grown cotton fields were plowed up to make cotton cost more; farmers were paid to refrain from planting. Coins were clipped 41 per cent. Money was put in circulation by paying people for doing little or no work, or by lending money at bargain rates. On top of all this the power was given to use the press to print 3 billion dollars' worth of shinplasters, with nothing behind them. All the while the prices were compared each week or each month with 1926 quotations.

While the government is using an index which makes it appear that producers' prices are not very high, it uses another index that makes it appear that consumers' prices are very high. Par, or 100, for the government's cost of living index is the average for the years 1935 to 1939, the five years just before the outbreak of the war, when retail prices were abnormally low.

The wholesale price index, with 1926 as 100, stands at not quite 4 per cent above the New Deal's 10 year old goal. The cost of living index, on the other basis, stands at 122.8 or 22.8 per cent above par. If the base for the cost of living figures were the year 1926 the index would now be 2.7 per cent below par.

Why does the administration have a double standard for prices? Farmers sell their produce at wholesale. By using a high base for wholesale prices the New Deal was able to justify a scarcity program. By using a cost of living index with a low base it was able to justify its program of advancing wage rates.

The New Deal's statistical double dealing now hampers its efforts to halt inflation. Farmers can still ask for more consideration because the index of wholesale prices is not very much above par. Labor can still demand wage boosts because the cost of living is far above par. Some more New Deal hens have come home to roost.

MacARTHUR'S TITLE.

An order of knighthood has been conferred upon Generals MacArthur and Eisenhower. The fact that Gen. Eisenhower has been included will not succeed in obscuring from Americans the purpose to render Gen. MacArthur politically unavailable as a principal contender against Mr. Roosevelt for the Presidency in 1944. Mr. Roosevelt's British colleague no doubt wants him returned to office and has done what he can to assure that result.

Our Constitution forbids both the nation and the states to confer titles of nobility and Americans have always regarded the provision as a wise one. The citizens of this republic do not look kindly upon any of their fellows who receive titles, however humble, from foreign rulers. If Gen. MacArthur receives the title of knight his standing in the eyes of the public may well be as seriously affected as was Pershing's in similar circumstances. When people began jokingly to refer to him as Sir John his goose was cooked. If he ever had any chance for the Presidency, it was washed out in the Bath.

Gen. MacArthur is commanding in Australia and cannot refuse the badge, for to do so would offend the Australians who have followed him with perfect loyalty. Moreover, he has said, and we believe with complete sincerity, that he has no political ambitions. When the war is over he may feel differently about it. He cannot decline the title, but for his sake it is to be hoped that a majority in congress will refuse it for him.

HITLER'S BOASTS AFTER SIX MONTHS.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

One of the more instructive occupations of the armchair historian is to read over Adolf Hitler's old speeches and check his numerous boasts to see how many were actually fulfilled. Take, for instance, the address of last Nov. 8, the day following the American landings in North Africa. In this speech Hitler made three interesting statements:

1. "I wanted to take it [Stalingrad]. And—you know we are modest—we actually have it. We stand there. Nobody can dispute that. That is a fact."

"That is an error," says History.

2. "We will prepare all our counter-blows [in North Africa] thoroly as always, and they will come in due time. The last and decisive word will not be spoken by Mr. Roosevelt."

"Another error," History remarks.

3. "The kaiser was a man who did not have the strength to see things thru. In me, however, Germany has a man who simply does not know the word capitulation. I will never flee Germany if the situation becomes difficult."

Says History: "I'm still taking notes."

SPANGLES FOR GENERALS.

Since Generals MacArthur and Eisenhower are now entitled to wear on ceremonial occasions the insignia of the Order of the Bath, American curiosity about this organization is probably running toward its highest point, and should be gratified. It is an order of knighthood for decorative purposes, but the generals will receive the decorations without the knighthoods.

The Bath gets its name from the ritualistic purification, by water and soap if available, of a candidate for knighthood in the middle ages. The last time this was practiced in England was at the coronation of Charles II. in 1661. Since then it has been assumed that every knightly neophyte had his personal tub and did not scruple to use it. England, however, has continued the medieval custom of the accolade—the touch of a sword blade on the shoulder of the candidate with the formula, "I dub thee knight." Other European monarchies have retained their orders of knighthood but have dropped the accolade.

The Order of the Bath is not as ancient as is often claimed. It was founded by George I. in 1725 with a pretense of reviving an extinct order created in 1399. The Encyclopedia Britannica says flatly, "No such order existed." In age it must yield precedence to the Orders of the Garter, the Thistle, and St. Patrick.

It started with a membership of the king, the grand master and 36 knights companions. It was expanded in 1815 to commemorate the defeat of Napoleon, and again in 1847. Its present membership is large. In 1929 the roster contained: Sovereign, grand master, various royal princes and distinguished foreigners, 55 military knights grand cross, 27 civil knights grand cross, 145 military and 108 civil knights commanders, 705 military and 298 civil companions.

• • •

The letters that Generals MacArthur and Eisenhower might use after their names to designate their membership are G. C. B. [Grand Cross of the Bath.]

EVERYBODY'S YANK.

He drives a "jeep"; he's a company clerk.
He's pitching a pup tent or hand grenade.
We know he's wherever our enemies lurk,
His head held high and unafraid.

And whatever may be his branch or rank,
He's somebody's favorite Yank.

He's on convoy duty; at some lonesome pier,
He can man a gun or repair a sub.
The sea is his home and he holds it dear,
And he calls his ship a tub.

And whatever may be his particular job,
He's somebody's favorite "gob."

He mans a ship, a plane, a tank,
He's several million strong, man and boy,
He's in every service, of every rank,
And he's all America's pride and joy. . . .

Somebody's favorite bluejacket,
And somebody's favorite Yank!

On the Trail of the Ricksha.

What is C. S. Adelman's authority for his assertion [May 25] that Jonathan Goble, a marine who visited Japan with Commodore Perry in 1854, invented the ricksha? My limited but persistent research in this subject, during a longish residence in the orient, failed to disclose anything that could be stated that simply.

Such an authority as the great Dr. Giles was content to say that the vehicle was "invented about 1872." L. C. Arlington found relatively few rickshas when he arrived in Japan in 1878. He was told by a Japanese at that time that the thing had been invented in the early '70s by an American missionary named Hammond, who had an invalid daughter. The Chinese concede the Japanese origin of the ricksha, I believe.

Mr. Adelman may have something, I don't know. But I am very much interested. The word jinricksha or jinrikisha comes, of course, from the Japanese pronunciation of three words meaning "man's strength cart."

SOLDIER'S MOTHER.

Her fingers were but plodding implements
That held a needle for her soaring mind,
That sewed all day in blind obedience
Yet always limped a little way behind.
They never overtook the laughter on
Her lips, bright arrow that too swiftly flies,
Nor caught the light that lit her kindly eyes—
Hope shining softly when the boy was gone.

Yet when the message came about her son,
Her mind, a bird lamed instantly, not knowing
Where hurt things go to die, let long days run
Until at last her fingers found the sewing . . .
The needle, silver-winged, was like a star
That leads to where peace is—to where tears are.

Does War Make Rain?

Rain often falls after cannon fire, as noted in "Weather for Warlocks" [May 25], and the fishwives' solution of this meteorological sequence is probably confusion of cause and effect. Rain often comes after battle because military leaders of sound judgment try when possible to go into battle under the best of weather conditions. Since the fracas started in dry weather, the only kind of change that can occur after the gunfire is wet weather.

However, you haven't touched on the question of why rain always follows washing your car, or on the day that you wear a newly pressed best uniform. Gim.

Why does the cat wash her face? Because "company is coming." This was a common saying among farmer folk in Indiana 50 years ago. William Lyon Phelps found it in the Russian poem, "Eugene Onegin."

Clyde D. Foster.

The heaviest rainfall on earth is said to be in the village of Cherraponjee, India, where the average annual precipitation is 493 inches. Look to your laurels, Cherraponjee! Hig.

OLDSTERS NEED PLENTY OF FOOD.

MANY physicians are wondering just what rationing will do to our elderly friends. With those who have passed the meridian of life, absorption and assimilation may be substantially below par. This explains why many a 75 year old man or woman will require half again as many calories as the youthful, vigorous members of the family.

In other words, additional quantities of nutriment will be necessary if well being is to be maintained. The basic fault may lie with the circulation. Arteries in general have decreased in caliber and are thus unable to supply vital organs with lifegiving fluid. In consequence, the output of the various secreting factories, including the endoctrine glands, may be deficient. With fewer ferments and hormones [dissolving materials], food may fail of solution. As the body loses its efficiency it ceases to be an economical machine. To generate a given amount of heat, more fuel will be demanded.

Some years ago a study was made of a sizable number of aged persons. It was found that the volume of saliva, and hence of starch digesting enzyme, was diminished. In addition, there was a drop in the manufacture of hydrochloric acid, and the proportion of pepsin contained in the gastric juice was lessened sharply. The product of the pancreas was definitely lowered and many of the substances hitherto depended upon to whip up this gland were absent. The very fact that the percentage of sugar in the blood was below normal proved that starches, particularly, were poorly utilized.

We now realize that we cannot depend upon vitamins to either provide or substitute for the powers of absorption. As many of us have observed, mature individuals, despite voracious appetites, may lose strength gradually. This indicates that we cannot compensate by employing these accessories, important as they are.

The answer, of course, does not lie in punishing these oldsters unduly by artificial limitations which will be tantamount to starvation. It is wholly unwise to take away coffee and tea, for example, after a lifetime of use. Deprivation may mean the appearance of symptoms such as severe headache and intensified restlessness.

While weight reduction may be highly desirable for some, it must be accomplished on a well planned nutritional program. Should such an end be sought, our main dietary reliance will be lean meats, which may consume so many "points" that there will be little else for a balanced ration. For this worthy group, there is reason to fear that many months on reduced standards may result in invalidism, even incapacity. Certainly we would not wish to drive our elder statesmen to seek solace in alcohol. Basic edibles must include red meat, eggs, butter, milk, whole grain breads, fruits, and vegetables.

Finally, we must not forget that the superannuated patient is subjected to quite too much solitude. The one bright spot in the day is meal time. Confronted with loneliness, due to disintegration of the family, we must not make food so unappetizing that satisfaction will be lost.

CONFIRMATION.

SCHOOL LUNCHES.

Chicago, May 25.—Sen. Lucas recently introduced an amendment to the agricultural act to continue federal subsidization of school lunchrooms. Does the senator know how needlessly the taxpayers' money is being squandered in the school lunchrooms of the city of Chicago under the guise of this otherwise well intentioned program?

Milk is being sold in all high schools for 1 cent and Victory lunches for 10 cents to students and teachers who have ample funds to pay their way. Many high school students are gainfully employed after school hours at good wages. Parents are earning more money than ever before. Would not a program whereby the board of education would sell milk and hot lunches at net cost be sufficient for students and teachers who are not in need of federal subsidization? Is not the tax load heavy enough without saddling the American taxpayer with useless expenditures?

If there are unemployable or marginal working parents left, whose children should be fed, they should be furnished with free meal tickets to be honored by the school lunchrooms and paid for thru local relief agencies. In this manner only those students who actually need free lunches would get them. To this kind of program no decent American citizen would object. The C. R. A. is an efficient organization. It has or can have a record of every needy school child in Chicago and can make free meal tickets available to them silently and efficiently.

Due to ample employment, the relief rolls dropped to low levels. As a result the Illinois state treasury is bulging with millions of dollars of unused funds. A small fraction of this idle money would be sufficient to pay for free milk and lunches for children whose parents are unable to finance a decent lunch for them; but not for thousands of students who do not need nor want subsidized feeding. ANNE ALLEN.

$53 A WEEK OR $50 A MONTH.

Camp Stewart, Ga., May 23.—The morning paper greeted us with headlines regarding some 9,000 rubber workers who are crippling production schedules by striking over a matter of a few cents salary increase. Their present average wage was quoted at $53 a week.

Most of the soldiers are of the opinion that a sure cure for such uprisings would be to draft these men into the army where they can really work, for less than one-fourth of their present salary. Incidentally I think our army could use those men and would be indeed happy to have them. A few moves in that direction should tend to correct and stop any further demonstrations of this kind. PVT. W. L. A.

A GENERAL FOR PRESIDENT.

Chicago, May 22.—In the event that the war is still going on in 1944 when the Presidential election is due, is it not logical that we select an able military leader? Inasmuch as Mr. Roosevelt has stressed the fact that the Presidency also entails the position of commander in chief of the army and navy, the election of a man like Gen. MacArthur would seem to be the answer.

It would certainly produce unity in the country. There is no question that the voters would support the candidacy of a man who has proved his greatness not only as a military leader, but as a patriot who thinks only of his country, never of his party. S. N. S.

THE RUBBER STRIKERS.

Chicago, May 25.—Hurrah for the United Rubber Workers' union. They asked for an 8 cents an hour raise and only got 3 cents, so 45,000 go on strike. What does the extra 5 cents get them? If they worked 12 hours a day, seven days a week [to even mention hours like this would bring screams of "slavery" and "tyranny"] the extra 5 cents would mean $4.20 added to their pay check.

For a slight monetary gain they hold back war production, give the morale of the fighting man a kick in the teeth, give the axis food for propaganda, force congress to entertain seriously thoughts of anti-strike legislation, and arouse the question in many minds of what form of government the leaders of the strike espouse. All this besides the obvious fact that the higher the wages go, the higher the cost of living goes.

A WORKER.

LITTLE OLD LADY.

Chicago, May 24.—Have any of you who ride the North Western trains seen the little gray haired lady who takes umbrellas? She took mine last Thursday evening when she got off the 5:36 at the Park View station. At that time she was wearing a black hat and carrying a black umbrella in addition to my brown one, which she so cunningly concealed under her rose colored raincoat. If you see her will you be good enough to tell her that I have a better umbrella at home which I will be glad to give her provided she delivers the one she took to the lost and found department. The reason it has a very special value to me is that the lad who gave it to me has recently been killed in North Africa. P. L. MUNDY.

DEPENDS ON THE BATTLE FIELD.

Chicago, May 22.—If the Yanks in Africa had been sent to the Pacific to fight the United States' "first" enemy, Hanson Baldwin would have found no lack of fighting spirit in them. They would have fought as fiercely as did the boys at Bataan and Corregidor. G. S.

OKLAHOMA SAMARITANS.

San Antonio, Tex., May 19.—I'm a Chicago boy and always heard and read with pride about Chicago's hospitality to service men. Today we received hospitality from the people of Dewey, Okla., [population about 2,500] which shows the unity of the people of this country. Two trains having at least 15 full passenger cars were stranded at Dewey because of floods. Immediately the population offered coffee, soup, and doughnuts to the passengers, altho it put a terrific strain on their supplies.

SOLDIER.

BUY MORE WAR STAMPS.

Chicago, May 19.—Chicago prides herself on being war-conscious and we Chicagoans pride ourselves on doing "our share." But I wonder if we are?

I'm a mother and my only son is perhaps at this very moment on his way over to join the millions of other boys who are on many fronts out there fighting our battles for us. And I am ashamed of the nonchalant indifference of the great mass of Chicagoans who nightly march past war savings stamp booths in theater lobbies.

How well do you think we are backing up our boys when in four hours in a well attended theater receipts at the stamp booth amounted to exactly one $25 bond and $22.85 in stamps, purchased by a total of 13 customers out of several hundred that passed by that booth. I think every stamp booth should fly the slogan: "If you can afford a movie tonight you can buy a war stamp. Let's back up our boys."

WAR MOTHER.

NOISY NEIGHBORS.

Chicago, May 4.—One day, about two months ago, my brother and I, both war workers, weren't able to report for work because the noisy people above us had kept us awake for three nights and we were very sick from lack of sleep. Last week my brother worked 10 hours each day and twice during the week we had to go to work with only four hours of sleep.

I have complained to my landlord and he tells me that rent control is the cause of people not observing leases. The answer he gets from them is, "You can't put us out." CITIZEN.

HAVEN FOR RATS.

Chicago, May 25.—[Friend of the People.]—I should like to call your attention to a very deplorable and unsightly condition in the rear of a property in our block. An old barn, full of papers and garbage, is about to cave in. It is not only a fire hazard and a haven for rats but children play there and the possibility of its collapsing is imminent. Anything that can be done to clean up this mess will be greatly appreciated.

The owner of the premises mentioned has been notified to remove the frame shed which is in a hazardous condition, and if the work is not done at the expiration of time allotted in our notice we will proceed according to law.

WMC DIRECTOR ADMITS FLAWS IN HIRING RULES

Requests Help in Making Program Work.

William H. Spencer.

William H. Spencer, regional director of the war man power commission, yesterday flung aside the gag imposed by Washington upon war time government officials and indulged in a frank, heart to heart talk with more than 500 Chicago business men and industrialists.

Speaking at a Chicago Association of Commerce luncheon meeting in the La Salle hotel, Spencer admitted the shortcomings of the government's year old man power program, but asked forbearance and coöperation from his listeners. Spencer is on leave from the University of Chicago, where he is dean of the business school. He is a prominent labor dispute mediator and a director of the Amalgamated Trust and Savings bank controled by the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America [CIO].

"The WMC employment stabilization program," Spencer said, "is not a panacea. It will not solve our man power problems. However, the program has tended to reduce wasteful labor turnover, labor piracy, and in-migration of workers."

His Reply to Criticism.

This was Spencer's reply to widespread criticism from labor and management of the hiring control plan which the WMC has urged its appointed labor-management advisory committees in local communities to adopt.

Recognizing this criticism, Spencer explained that labor leaders have opposed the program because they believe the WMC is giving employers increased authority over their workers and because it is coercive.

"Labor feels hiring controls are unnecessary and will revive the black list," Spencer said. "They suggest we try methods other than coercion of workers.

"Management feels that the situation does not justify the use of coercion and urges other means of dealing with the problems. If we had more time we might have experimented with other approaches. However, after the WMC issued regulation 4 [preventing essential workers from taking better paying jobs] it seemed desirable to provide temporary means of effecting job transfers. We did that to help employers hire workers without their running afoul of criminal penalties."

Skeptical of Prosecution.

Spencer was skeptical of the WMC's intention to prosecute violators of the regulation which provides maximum penalties of $1,000 fine and one year in jail. He said many conscientious employers have tried to abide by the regulation altho they doubt its constitutionality.

The regional job transfer program issued May 16 for Chicago and eight other communities in Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin which have not adopted local WMC hiring controls will expire July 15, Spencer said. He explained that he issued the order to protect employers and workers who found themselves shackled by the WMC job freeze order of April 18.

PREVENT FIRES, CORRIGAN URGES ON ANNIVERSARY

M. J. Corrigan.

Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan observed his 50th anniversary with the Chicago fire department last night by urging Chicagoans over radio station W-G-N to give more thought to the possibility of fire in their homes.

"Some people consider a fire a sort of spectacle or recreation," Commissioner Corrigan said. "Actually it's just like a bursting bomb, blasting away happiness and property. And it can happen to any one. Every one can prevent fires from starting by reminding others and remembering that a fire is no joke."

The fire commissioner advised his hearers always to close doors on a fire. "Keep it confined," he said. "If you open your bedroom door and discover a fire in the hall, blocking your escape, close the door. Rely on your windows for escape rather than go thru the fire."

CHILD'S CUSTODY HEARING STARTS COURT STRUGGLE

A mother's attempt to caress her 5 year old daughter, held in the arms of her husband, precipitated a struggle between the mother and father in Judge Joseph Sabath's Superior court yesterday.

The mother, Mrs. Evelyn B. Hack, 27 years old, of 5488 Hyde Park boulevard, had charged that her husband, Vincent, 30, a traffic manager, against whom she has a divorce suit pending, had "kidnaped" their small daughter when he left her on May 1.

Hack defended his action by telling the court his wife was unfit to have custody of the child. Mrs. Hack said she would bring witnesses into court to prove she was a fit mother.

Accompanied by 10 witnesses, the couple yesterday appeared before Judge Sabath, who ordered the case reassigned. Mrs. Hack attempted to caress the child, Marilyn, in her husband's arms. He jerked the child away. Then the mother snatched Marilyn from him.

"I want my daddy," the child screamed.

Hack agreed to his wife's obtaining a divorce and the court approved an agreement whereby Mrs. Hack is to have Marilyn 10 months a year.

MRS. DEMPSEY CALLED VICTIM OF A COLLAPSE

New York, May 27 (AP).—Mrs. Hannah Williams Dempsey, defendant in Lt. Comdr. Jack Dempsey's divorce action, was attended by physicians and a nurse in her hotel suite today, and her sister, Mrs. Dorothy Gomez, said Mrs. Dempsey was the victim of "a complete nervous collapse."

Dempsey's action and Hannah's counter-suit for divorce were adjourned until Tuesday on the application of her attorney.

2 DENY THEFTS OF RADIO PARTS AT WAR PLANT

Pleas of not guilty were entered yesterday in federal court by two more of the 13 testers of the Western Electric company who are under indictment on charges of stealing material being manufactured for the government. Trial date was set for June 14 by Judge Philip L. Sullivan.

Those who pleaded not guilty were Samuel F. Grossman, 29 years old, 3237 Le Moyne avenue, and John P. Berringer, 26, 3415 Ainslie street. A third man, Lyle Hoover, 23, 2105 South 51st court, Cicero, pleaded guilty and his case was referred to the federal probation office for investigation and continued until June 14.

Of the 10 other defendants, 6 entered pleas of guilty last week, while the other 4 pleaded not guilty.

The defendants, the government charges, took a total of $1,500 in radio parts. Those who pleaded guilty last week told the court that the parts had been taken from a rejection pile for home use.

ROUGH JOURNEY PREDICTED FOR PEGGED LEVIES

Democrats' Fight on Fund Bills Brings Warning.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 27.—Democrats continued to fight administration appropriation bills today as the state legislature session entered its final month, and Republicans began suggesting that the pegged levies of local governments in Cook county may be in for a rough ride. They offered no direct threat, but observers expected some retaliation.

State administration leaders have not yet decided what should be done about the pegged levies, which the Democrats request the legislature to make permanent.

Two Bills Squeak Thru.

Two G. O. P. appropriation bills today squeaked thru the house, where 77 votes are needed for passage. A bill to appropriate $32,221,160 to the Illinois public aid commission for relief finally won out, 78 to 20. A bare 77 votes was cast for a bill to appropriate $157,400 for Gov. Dwight H. Green's office and the executive mansion.

Rep. William Vicars [D., Pontiac], minority leader, assailed the administrations plan to merge control of old age assistance and aid to dependent children under the 10 man unpaid IPAC.

None of the Democrats objected to the bill appropriating $645,174 for the next general assembly, the Supreme court, and appellate courts. A bill to spend $107,400 for eleven organizations, mostly of war veterans, also passed without difficulty.

Republican house strength today was reduced to 83 when Rep. Robert M. Woodward of Chicago's near north side 29th district announced that he was leaving for army duty.

"From humble beginnings I have been able to come up the ladder because of the American way of life," Woodward said. "I regret leaving, but my greater obligation is to my country."

Seek a Post-War Fund.

Another piece was fitted today into Green's long range "help the veterans" program when Rep. Reed F. Cutler [R., Lewistown] introduced a bill to create a post-war planning and capital reserve fund in the state treasury.

The historic battle to keep monuments out of Grant park, fought thru the courts by the late Montgomery Ward, was recalled today when a bill was introduced to make an exception of the Marine Corps league. Under the bill the Chicago park district would be authorized to permit the league to erect a memorial building or monument.

16 YEAR OLD GIRL SLAIN BY CAR AT STUDENT PICNIC

The picnic was being held at the ski jump in Palos Park, and Miss Boele, with five school mates, was walking along route 83, when she was struck by the car. State police technically arrested the driver, Edwin F. Oeser, 44, of 416 South 2d avenue, Maywood, manager of the tool steel division of the Allegheny Ludlum Steel corporation, 4747 South Kedzie avenue.

Police quoted several of Miss Boele's companions as saying they didn't hear Oeser's car horn, but he asserted he sounded the horn and Miss Boele stepped in front of him.

Robert Copen, 8 years old, was killed yesterday when he was crushed to death by an 8 ton road grading tractor near his home at 2205 Sherman avenue, North Chicago. C. W. Norton, driver of the tractor and employed by the Meyers Construction company, told police he was unaware of the accident until witnesses called him.

Charles Rousett, 54 years old, died yesterday in the Edgewater hospital of injuries suffered last Saturday when his automobile struck a motor coach at 6100 Sheridan road. Rousett, a salesman, lived at 1503 Lunt avenue.

The Illinois Union of Telephone Workers, which represents 4,880 splicers, installers, engineers, and other craftsmen employed by the Illinois Bell Telephone company, was granted a union maintenance clause in its contract by the war labor board, Charles H. Formby, president of the union, announced last night. This is the first time that the board has granted the union maintenance provision to a telephone union and came as a result of the union's demand which has been before the board since last August, Formby said.

ASK QUARANTINE IN KANE COUNTY TO CURB RABIES

Arthur Johnson, Kane county farm advisor, said yesterday that he would ask the state department of agriculture to place a six months rabies quarantine on the county as the result of a recent outbreak in Campton and St. Charles townships.

A four year old child was bitten by a cat, later found to be rabid, and eight sheep died as the result of being bitten by a dog. Both cases were reported from the village of Wasco, Campton township, Johnson said. Another dog, on a farm in St. Charles township, was found to be rabid, and two members of a family that owned the dog are being treated.

Dr. F. A. Tornabene, representing the state health department in the county, has asked for the quarantine of certain townships, Johnson said.

BROOKS LEADS MOVE TO HELP FLOODED AREAS

Illinoisians in Congress Seek Federal Aid.

Led by Sen. Wayland Brooks, the Illinois delegation in congress moved swiftly in Washington yesterday to obtain federal assistance for rehabilitation and reconstruction in the flood devastated areas of downstate Illinois.

At the same time the flood itself, resulting from rain swollen rivers, generally eased, altho the danger had not yet passed. At Beardstown, center of the stricken area, the Illinois river dropped approximately three inches from an apparent crest of 29.78 feet.

The main goal of the Illinois congressional delegation in Washington is to prevent vast Illinois farm lands from being lost to the nation's food production program. Sen. Brooks told his colleagues that more than 1,000,000 acres of fertile soil have been inundated, and warned that unless quick recuperative action is taken great areas may be abandoned.

Farms May Be Deserted.

Brooks said that many farmers, whose crops have been washed out, may turn to war factory jobs and leave their farms idle. Also, without prompt aid, he said, considerable farm machinery may rust beyond repair.

Before the day was over the Brooks flood committee reported that the war production board was preparing to make new farm machinery available to stricken farmers; that efforts may be made to "borrow" mechanics from the army to help repair damaged machinery; that part of $750,000 worth of fencing and other critical materials will be available to Illinois farmers, and that field offices of the Reconstruction Finance corporation will be set up to make loans to flood-bound farmers. The Illinois delegation included many downstate congressmen and Sen. Scott W. Lucas.

Request $678,000.

They met with a delegation of state officials sent to the capital by Gov. Dwight H. Green. One, Dr. Roland R. Cross, Illinois director of public health, carried a request for a federal grant of $678,000. He was urged to take this directly to Chester C. Davis, war food director. The money is wanted to establish emergency health and sanitation stations.

Meanwhile, Gov. Green had visited Beardstown for the second time. He was accompanied by Adj. Gen. Leo M. Boyle of the state militia. They urged residents of the stricken areas not to return to their homes until all doubt as to possible health hazards had been removed. Barring heavy rains, it was felt yesterday that the worst of the flood was over. Crop damage in the Beardstown area alone was estimated at $1,000,000.

Sullivan to criminal charges of violating office of price administration ceilings on poultry prices. Their pleas will be considered by Judge William H. Holly, who was ill yesterday.

DR. CAROLINE MEIER.

SEEK $299,000 IN ESTATE LEFT BY REALTY MAN

Only $1,000 Is Found, Court Informed.

An investigation to discover what has happened to all but $1,000 of a reputed $300,000 estate left by Arno T. Roner, real estate broker, who died March 17 at the age of 79, was begun yesterday before Acting Probate Judge Fred A. Adams, Joliet, and a jury.

Arno T. Roner.

The action is predicated upon a citation filed by Lillian M. Price, administratrix, who was appointed by the court to collect assets of the estate so that provisions of the will, which was admitted to probate, may be carried out.

The will, which was not discovered until several weeks after Roner's death, bequeaths all of his property, which included three real estate and mortgage firms, to the Masonic hospital and the Independent Order of Odd Fellows.

Find $1,000 in Assets.

The citation ensued after it was discovered that not more than $1,000 of Roner's large estate could be found. It is directed principally against Dr. Caroline G. Meier, 60 years old, 2110 North Clark street, a chiropodist.

Dr. Meier's attorney, Frank T. Jordan, stated that Roner had transferred much of his interest in his companies to the chiropodist, whom he described as a close friend of Roner and of the real estate broker's two wives. Both wives preceded Roner in death.

Dr. Otto Schwartz, a physician who was called as a witness, testified that he had treated Roner in his last illness, and that two days before he died, Roner had told him that he had transferred all of his estate to Dr. Meier, and that she would pay hospital and doctor bills. She later did pay him $350 for professional services, Dr. Schwartz said.

Beneficiaries Are Changed.

A representative of an insurance company, another witness, testified that in 1941 Roner had changed all of his insurance policies, naming Dr. Meier as beneficiary. Roner was believed to have carried large amounts of life insurance.

Harold V. Snyder, an attorney representing the administratrix, then introduced a check for $2,400, drawn upon an estate of an insane woman for whom Roner was conservator, and made out to Dr. Meier. It was signed by Roner.

The case is unusual in two aspects, the fact that the beneficiaries under the will, the Masonic hospital and the I. O. O. F. were not represented, and its being heard by a jury. The Probate courtroom, a small chamber, was barely large enough to hold the jury, judge, and litigants.

[This department answers questions covering problems related to the social welfare of relatives of service men, both in the column and by mail, if stamped, addressed envelopes are sent with inquiries.]

Mrs. R. T. writes: "I have just received word that my son is now a prisoner of war in Germany. I am planning to send a package to him just as soon as I receive the necessary labels from the war department. He always has loved coffee, and I wondered if a pound or two could be included in my box. How about sugar?"

ANSWER: You may send one pound of coffee in a plain bag, and one pound of sugar in a paper bag or cardboard box. We have a complete list of the items which may be included in gift parcels to prisoners of war which you may have by sending in a stamped, addressed envelope.

Mrs. C. A. P. asks: "Could you tell me whether a mother who has one son in the army and from whom she is receiving an allotment every month can continue to receive it if she secures employment?"

ANSWER: If you actually mean an "allotment"—which is paid entirely out of the soldier's salary, with no government contribution—there is no reason why she may not continue to receive it even tho she is employed. However, if you are referring to an "allowance"—which is made up of a contribution from the service man plus a contribution from the government—she may not continue to receive it if her employment provides an income sufficient to maintain her. A mother is a class B dependent, and as such must prove both relationship and dependency in order to receive an allowance. Any change of status must be reported to the office which issues the checks. Persons who do not report additional income are liable to fines and imprisonment, or both.

Mrs. G. A. writes: "I notice that you have a bulletin explaining the new plan for maternity care for wives of men in the four lowest pay grades of the armed forces, but that it covers only the state of Illinois. My home is in Michigan. Can you tell me if the plan is in effect here and where I can obtain details concerning it?"

ANSWER: Michigan is one of the 23 states whose program for such care has been approved by the labor department. Write to the state health department at Lansing for details. Plans submitted by Indiana, Michigan, and Wisconsin health agencies have also been approved.

CITIZENS UNITE TO RENOVATE TRACTION PLAN

A citizens' committee headed by Frank A. Hecht, president of the West Central association, announced yesterday an intention to appeal for coöperation of city and state officials in reconstructing the old traction unification plan, turned down by the Illinois commerce commission on May 3, into some acceptable form.

A larger meeting to adopt definite plans will be held soon, said Hecht, who emphasized that his group wanted to keep politics out of the unification scheme. He said assistance would be sought from Gov. Green and Mayor Kelly.

"We don't want municipal ownership or political management; we want those who can unify to get together and do the thing right," Hecht added. He named as members of his group Oscar G. Mayer, E. L. Ryerson Jr., Philip F. W. Peck, Homer Hartz, Homer J. Buckley, E. L. Mansure, Julian T. Fitzgerald, Gilbert Scribner, Wallace J. Stebbins, and Hampden Winston. Others are to be added later.

THIS FELLOW'S NO RESPECTER OF RENT RULES

The bird hammered away for 12 minutes yesterday at the brick wall of the seventh floor at 222 West Adams street which houses the rent office. Harry Grayson, a rent office employé, was attracted by the machinelike racket and found the woodpecker boring a hole in the brick.

Truck Containing 1,000 Fiction Volumes Stolen

REPORTS PURSE STOLEN.

Her purse, containing five ration books and $30 was stolen yesterday from a photographic studio at 64 West Randolph street where she is a clerk, Mrs. Ruth Wilkins, 6232 North Hoyne avenue, reported to police.

PROFESSORS BAR WORLD PATTERN FOR EDUCATION

Chicagoans Challenge Commission Report.

Dangers inherent in any plan to place the control of any aspect of education in the hands of a small group of men and the impossibility of imposing on foreign nations alien ideas on how their schools should be run were emphasized yesterday by several prominent Chicago educators asked to comment on the report issued Wednesday by the Educational Policies commission.

The report proposes the establishment of an international agency in the post-war world to prevent indoctrination of youth with militarism and plans for national aggression. This agency would examine educational systems and text books in various countries and report its findings.

Opposes Uniform Pattern.

"It would be highly unfortunate if any central agency which thought that it knew all the answers attempted to impose a uniform pattern on the educational systems of all countries," said Shirley A. Hamrin, professor of education at Northwestern university and director of the university college.

Rollin B. Posey, professor of political science at Northwestern university, conceded the proposed agency might represent a step toward eliminating indoctrination of youth of war, but pointed out it could be misused to compel the teaching of propaganda on any aspect of life.

E. T. McSwain, professor of education at Northwestern, welcomed the idea of an international committee rendering service thru research and in an advisory capacity, but said that the educational program of any nation should emerge from the thinking and the planning of all its citizens.

Condemns Educational Censor.

"It [the proposal] savors a great deal of the thing we are fighting against now," said Aaron J. Brumbaugh, dean of students of the University of Chicago. "Any attempt to censor education in all countries is a preposterous idea."

Henry C. Morrison, professor emeritus of education at the University of Chicago, declared there was no generally accepted theory of education under which the suggested standards could be made to work.

CANADIAN DELEGATES ASK PROTECTION ON WHEAT AGREEMENTS

Hot Springs, Va., May 27 (AP).—Apprehensive over the possibility that a new wheat surplus problem might arise out of expanded acreage due to the war, Canadian delegates said today they hoped the allied nations food conference would take no action which might upset the world wheat agreement signed in Washington last year.

That agreement was designed to cure the economic ills of wheat by the adoption or maintenance on the part of the world's four major exporting countries of measures to control production, with the objective of preventing accumulation of excessive stocks and consequent low producer prices. Parties to the agreement are Canada, the United States, Argentina, and Australia, —the worlds major exporting nations—and Great Britain, one of the larger importing countries.

Earlier, the Canadian delegation called for a post-war era of freer international trade, declaring tariff barriers would imperil food distribution on an equitable world basis.

LONG TIME PLAN FOR CITY SEEKS TO ERASE SLUMS

The Chicago plan commission yesterday formally adopted four fundamental proposals which will form the basis for the development of a master plan for residential land use in Chicago during the next 25 years.

The main proposal accepted calls for the demolition of 242,000 dwelling units in slum areas thruout the city and for eventual construction of modern homes.

In areas which are classed as semi-slum the plan calls for destruction of about 108,000 dwelling units and construction of 500,000 new ones.

DAY BY DAY ON THE FARM

The FARM by Gail Compton

May 27, 1943.

A FEW warm days and a drying wind have revived hopes at the farm that working weather may be in sight. The excess water did little damage to the fields and crops, but caused an expensive and discouraging delay.

At one point the farm came close to being able to oblige the United States fish and wildlife service in its desire for a fish pond for every farm. Certainly a little more water and the entire farm could have been used for a fish hatchery.

During the days when it was not raining the men spent their time building and repairing fences. Almost every farmer in the midwest was doing the same thing, and the farm workers are willing to bet that corn belt fences are better than in many years.

Long Hours Ahead.

While the rain was sluicing over the fields the men spent their time in the machine shed cleaning and repairing the field equipment. Everything is in top condition now and ready to roll the minute the fields will bear the weight of the tractors.

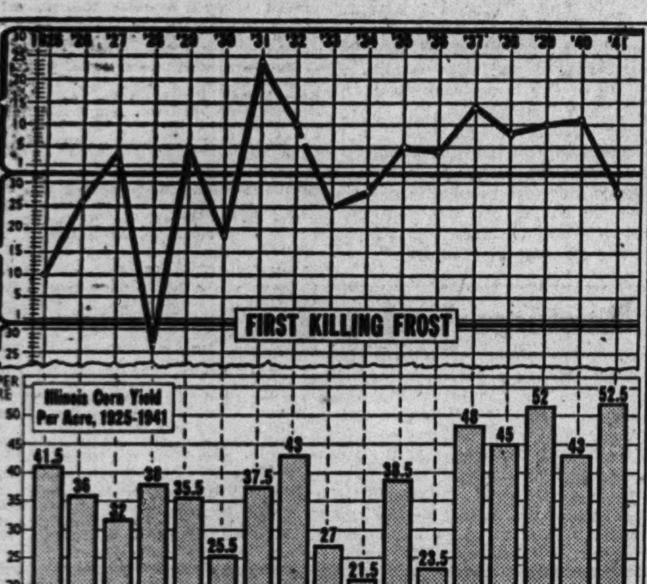
The manager has grimly promised his men that when the day comes they will be working in the fields from dawn until dusk to make up for lost time. The tractors will roll constantly, stopping only for gas and water. Relays may be used to keep the machines going every minute.

It still will take a week for the fields to dry completely. Then, with only a small part of the corn land plowing done, it will take almost another week to get the land in shape for seeding.

Race Against Frost.

After the corn is in it will settle down to a race between the corn and the fall frost. If the crop matures before frost little harm will have been done. If the frost catches the corn while it is in the milk, however, the farm will face a serious feed shortage. Also there will be the problem of storing soft corn—in itself a troublesome one.

The accompanying chart shows what has been the correlation between frost and corn yields in previous years. In 1935 planting was delayed by heavy rains, and only a late frost enabled the country to get a below normal corn yield. The average frost date for this area is Oct. 19.



The GARDEN by Ben Markland

THE final planting of the small sample garden on the Wheaton farm was completed Wednesday, when the last two rows were planted to peppers, eggplants, and tomatoes. A half dozen pepper plants were put in next to the same number of eggplants in row 14, and 12 tomato plants were placed in the final row. The varieties were Large Bell peppers, Black Beauty eggplants, and Crimson Cushion tomatoes.

The gardener now is getting more radishes than his family can use, and the first green onions were picked early in the week. In addition, the main farm home is receiving abundant portions of asparagus and rhubarb. A bushel of each crop was harvested early this week.

The gardener also has been able to give both of the farm gardens extensive cultivation this week. The small plot was cultivated with hand tools, and an engine powered rotary tiller was used in the large plot.

Use Tolerance with Children, Parents Urged

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.
[Copyright: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"My sister has three children, and we all got along together while they were small. I go to business every day, so I really only see the youngsters for any length of time on Saturdays and Sundays.

"I'm fond of the children and they are of me, and so they have fallen into the habit of coming to me with their joys and sorrows, but this doesn't set well with their parents. Unfortunately, both their father and mother are strict and are scandalized at some of the things the children do and the tales or jokes they tell. I am accused of aiding and abetting them because I overlook or laugh with them instead of being properly shocked and reproving. I contend that my way is the best because it's useless to make mountains out of molehills, and I find the youngsters forget what they say or do if you're careful not to be heavily serious and upset."

This letter comes from a loving and intelligent aunt who really knows the value of being shockproof and tolerant where children are concerned.

I am wondering how many fathers and mothers can keep their countenances as they listen to recountings by their sons or daughters of almost anything under the sun. If you can, you have one of the first requirements for being a father or mother, particularly to your 8, 10, and 12 year olds, and to your teen age boys and girls. This control over their emotions is a valuable asset to the mother and father who not only want to be good friends with their children but want to know all about them.

And by that I don't mean prying into their actions away from home, their companions, and even their thoughts. I mean parents should know all about them as an interested friend should, because it is in this kind of knowledge that you often discover what they are really like and what influence and experiences are brought to bear upon them.

They should enjoy a feeling of freedom with you; a feeling that you will not be horrified or too amazed; or blame, or sit in judgment; or be shocked at what isn't to them at all shocking. This freedom will open you to real confidences from your son or daughter, confidences that involve not only external acts but confidences that are often revealing of his or her inner life.

If you value the close comradeship of your children, always leave the door of friendly intercourse open to them. You can't keep your boy or girl from contact with the outside world and what takes place in it; and it's far better to discuss and explain everything and anything as it comes along.

Women in War Work

—By Kate Massee

Miss Minnie Otto, 51 years old, who operates a bank of textile machines at the Belden Manufacturing company, 4625 West Van Buren street, is the second woman war worker to receive a $25 war bond and a certificate of merit from THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, under a monthly plan started in April. Ceremonies of the presentation of the award will be broadcast tomorrow from 1 to 1:15 p. m. over station W-G-N.

Miss Otto was chosen by a committee of Belden company executives—Charles O. Roberts, plant superintendent; Frank Kiss, personnel manager, and Christine Watson, plant nurse, with the coöperation of Whipple Jacobs, president of the company.

In making the selection, the committee asked the foremen of all departments to submit the names of two or more employés whom they felt would qualify for the award. From this group the committee made the final selection.

Many factors entered into the selection of Miss Otto, among them being the fact that she is producing only work of the highest quality. Her record also disclosed that thruout her 20 years of service, she always has made an effort to be on the job when needed and to perform each assigned task to the best of her ability and has stood ready to do her utmost in meeting any emergency in connection with her work.

Miss Otto's job is a precision one, in that the machines she operates apply silk, cotton, or synthetic coverings to enameled, insulated, or copper wires. She and her co-workers make component parts for airplanes, communications wiring, magnet wires, and other military equipment. The plant operates 24 hours a day, six days a week, closing on Sunday only for machines to be checked. In peace times the plant's output was electrical wiring for civilian consumption.

Aside from her job Miss Otto's chief interest is her home, which she shares with her mother, Augusta, 88. She's especially determined to keep the wires of war rolling, because she has four nephews in the army, three of them in radio communications or engineering. She says she feels she is sending the wires directly out to her own boys in service. She does all the housework, attends church on Sunday morning, and in her spare time crochets and does fancy work.

Asked what she liked best in the way of outdoor recreation, Miss Otto promptly said: "Baseball." So, thanks to the coöperation of James T. Gallagher, general manager of the Chicago Cubs, she will receive two tickets to Sunday's double header between the Cubs and the Boston Braves. The tickets will be presented, along with the war bond and certificate, in tomorrow's broadcast.

THE TRIBUNE woman war worker award for June will be given to an employé of the Bastian-Blessing company, 4201 Peterson road.

[This department reports on women's war activities and answers questions regarding such activities.]

Women's Clubs Seen as Force in Peace Plans

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

The newly elected president of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs sees in the union of women's organizations the greatest potential force for the shaping of a just and enduring peace. Mrs. Walter M. Rennie, addressing the 48th convention of the state federation which had elected her at the closing session last night in the Hotel Sherman, told the assembly that, thru lack of knowledge and understanding, women had failed after the last war to insure the victory which their husbands, brothers, and sons had won.

"We cannot let it happen again," was her challenge. "This time, when the battle is over, we must recognize our opportunity and our responsibility. We must study and think and know what we want, and then insist that we get it—a peace grounded on the bedrock of Christian principles of justice, understanding, and good will toward all men."

Mrs. Rennie, who was elected in a three way contest, was the 3d district candidate. Her home is at 1716 West 100th street, and she is a member of the Beverly Woman's club.

She has three sons in military service.

Other successful candidates were Mrs. Burton A. Noyes, vice president of the northern region; Mrs. Raymond R. Fairfield, vice president of the central region; Mrs. Harry M. Daughtrey, secretary, and Mrs. Preston L. Wettaw, the retiring state president, who becomes Illinois director of the general federation board.

One of the guest speakers yesterday was Mrs. Jefferson D. Atwood of Roswell, N. M., general federation chairman of the department of American citizenship. She warned against excessive relaxation of constitutional procedures under stress of war which might "permanently impair" the rights and principles essential to democratic government.

Particular vigilance should be exercised, she warned, in safeguarding the right of freedom of speech, "one of the surest guarantees to the preservation of our inalienable rights."

"There has been a marked tendency on the part of 'some in high authority,'" she said, "to suppress any criticism of the conduct of the war on the basis that such criticism might give comfort to the enemy and jeopardize victory. That attitude implies a threat to free speech."

In a discussion of the impact of war upon public welfare institutions and services in the state Rodney H. Brandon, director of the state welfare department, said that Illinois "is sitting on a volcano" with 30,000 insane persons in institutions insufficiently staffed.

Two Moods of Fashion

Two fashion moods are represented in today's patterns. One design makes a simple but dressy frock with self-ruffling or contrasting trimming. Prints and plain shades are equally smart for this model. The other pattern creates a shorts-and-shirt combine with a companion skirt.

Style No. 2680 is designed for sizes 12 to 20. Size 16 requires 3¾ yards of 35 inch material with 2 yards of ruffling.

Style No. 2729 is designed for sizes 10 to 20 and 36 to 40. Size 16 requires 2¾ yards of 35 inch material for playsuit; 2⅛ yards for skirt.

Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing.

Council of Baptists Votes to Continue Post-War Planning

The Northern Baptist general council yesterday voted to adopt the program of the post-war planning commission and to continue the commission at the closing session of a three day meeting at the Hotel La Salle. The commission, which is headed by A. J. Hudson of Cleveland, has been meeting for six months and will act as a church surveying and counseling body.

The Northern Baptist convention, originally planned for Denver next month, was canceled because of transportation difficulties. Instead, the convention will now be taken to local church groups in a series of "World Parish" days, the council decided. Churches in different areas will agree upon the dates and programs will be arranged to present important denominational issues. A missionary or other denominational representative will attend such sessions.

The executive board of the Baptist Youth fellowship voted to include the church's World Emergency Forward fund in the youth program and to enlist 100,000 young people in a pledge to sacrificial giving and living.

More than 200 Baptists, representing 37 states, attended the meetings. Prof. Joseph C. Robbins of Andover-Newton Theological seminary, Newton Center, Mass., will continue as president thruout 1943-'44. Other convention officers and committees also will continue.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY

Office Daydream.

[For Marje and Jerry.]

On days when chilly, drizzling rain
Thrums dully on the window pane
With cadence like a sad refrain . . .
It doesn't bother me.
I time my fingers to its beat
And then across the snowy sheet
My thoughts march on, serene and neat,
To fly across the sea.
I do not tell him that I'm sad,
The weather deadly—business bad—
For that's no way to treat the lad—
I'd rather have him dream.
I tell him of the gardens bright,
The river under moonbeams light,
The silly song I heard last night. . . .
That spring is on the beam.
I fib a bit and say I'm swell,
The lilac bush is doing well . . .
The way we miss you, dear is . . . heck!
Our thoughts are all of you.
And as I pause and gaze in space,
A ray of sunshine strokes my face,
The storm is gone and in its place
Well, daydreams DO come true!

O. K.

From Dr. Bruce T. Best: "The origin of 'O. K.' arises in your column and I offer an explanation which was current over 50 years ago. Klaus Spreckels, 'Sugar King' of America, when a young man, personally inspected each barrel of sugar before it was closed. If found perfect, he stamped it 'O. K.' the initial letters of two words which he spelled Oll Korrect. Thus 'O. K.' became a synonym for perfection and was rapidly copied by manufacturers in all lines as a guarantee.

"Its present day use by the young as an affirmative is a logical outgrowth. My two year old granddaughter uses it because her time is so valuable."

Scoop.

"Thought you might like this scoop on the air raid casualty list in our block on Bombing Day—embarrassing as it is.

"Unfortunately the lady warden who was so much interested in her list of various colored bombs [so she could identify them] apparently wasn't much of a Tom Girl in her youth, and stumbled over one of the many obstacles on the roof.

"Far be it to run down my sex. But, we gals should all do our part without letting the excitement result in a mouth-full of sand, a fractured nose and two missing teeth. If this can happen in a mock raid, what would happen with the same number of real bombs whistling, bursting and burning all around!

"One bomb landed in our back yard and remained there for at least a half hour before being attended to by a warden because every one was in the front yard. Many bombs landed on roofs not watched by attendants while people in these very buildings were hanging out of the windows! And all the while our warden was busy applying first aid to his otherwise able assistant."

Presbyterians Choose Coffin as Moderator

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., May 27.—Recruiting and training of ministers for war time and post-war conditions will be the focus of attention of Presbyterians of the country. This was indicated by the opening day's events of the 155th general assembly of the Presbyterian church of the United States. The program for the convention's six day sessions also confirmed that emphasis.

In the first place, a president of one of the notable seminaries of the country, Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin of Union Theological seminary, New York, was elected moderator of the assembly to succeed Dr. Stuart Nye Hutchison of Pittsburgh, Pa. Dr. Coffin was elected on the first ballot over Dr. George H. Talbott of Passaic, N. J. First ballot elections of moderators are rare in general assemblies.

Dr. George A. Buttrick of New York nominated Dr. Coffin, and the nomination was seconded by Dr. Harrison Ray Anderson, minister of the Fourth Presbyterian church of Chicago and president of the Chicago Church federation.

The emphasis on the ministry also was confirmed in the sermon this morning of the retiring moderator, Dr. Hutchison, as he pointed to new demands on religious leadership thruout the world.

"Not only is God clearing the way for the church to advance," Dr. Hutchison declared. "He is setting milestones along the road into the future, each one of which is a challenge to the church.

"One of these is the call to all of us to a better citizenship. As the casualty lists come in we are beginning to realize what the cost of war is. There must come to us the determination to live for these things for which our men in our armed services are dying."

These things Dr. Hutchison listed as political and religious freedom and equality of races and privileges. Development of work in new war industrial areas and a new emphasis on foreign missions were included in the retiring moderator's special appeals.

A report on theological education to come before the assembly calls for the strengthening of Presbyterian Theological seminary [formerly McCormick seminary] in Chicago, along with further development of seminaries at Princeton, Western seminary, Pittsburgh; San Francisco seminary, and Louisville seminary. It recommended that the University of Dubuque seminary "be continued under certain conditions and that the [Presbyterian] seminary at Omaha, Neb., be closed."

The report said that "the two seminaries [Omaha and Dubuque] have not been major factors in the training of men in that [central west] area" and "have not been supported financially in their own area to any appreciable extent."

As the first formal act of the assembly, a resolution of sympathy was adopted for the parents and family of the late Edsel Ford. The assembly "pauses in its deliberations," the resolution said, "to pay homage to the life and memory of the late Edsel Ford, for whom this city is now in mourning. We extend to his father and mother, to his wife and children the sympathy of the Presbyterian church."

Jean Hammond Is Betrothed to Aviation Cadet

BY JUDITH CASS.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT STEVENS HAMMOND of Winnetka are not giving a party at this time to announce the engagement of their daughter, Jean Sterling, to Arthur Lewis Sarvis, as both young people are busy with their studies at the University of Chicago, but some time next month there probably will be an informal gathering to celebrate the event. Miss Hammond and Mr. Sarvis met at the university, where she is a junior and he is studying meteorology as an aviation cadet. The wedding will take place early in September when Mr. Sarvis has completed his course.

Miss Hammond attended Sarah Lawrence for two years before transferring to Chicago. Her fiancé, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Sarvis of Flint, Mich., was graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. At present Miss Hammond's sister and brother both are in California, Mrs. Thomas A. Rodman in Fresno, where her husband is stationed as a sergeant with the army air forces, and Corp. James Wright Hammond in Pomona with the Presbyterian hospital unit.

Constance Potter's Troth Announced in California.

From Carmel-by-the-Sea, Cal., comes word of the engagement of Miss Constance Potter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Zenas L. Potter of that city and Washington, D. C., to Alan Bruce, son of Mrs. Harold Lawton Bruce of Berkely, Cal. The Potters formerly lived in Evanston, and at present Mr. Potter is in charge of civilian supply, division of operations, in the office of the rubber director in Washington. Miss Potter and her fiancé are students at the University of California, where his father, the late Mr. Bruce, was dean of the summer session.

Mr. and Mrs. Reginald C. Hammand of Glencoe have announced the engagement of their daughter, Joanne, to John H. Warton, son of Mrs. Heath Warton of Chicago and of Frank R. Warton of Rockford, Ill. The wedding will not take place before next December, when Mr. Warton will be graduated from the engineering school of Northwestern university. Miss Hammond attended New Trier High school and Lake Forest college.

Old Fashioned Entertaining in Prospect This Summer.

This summer promises to be a season of good old-fashioned entertainments, with bicycling [for those who have bicycles], picnics, and baseball high on the list of nonrationed, nonpriority forms of amusement. A holiday week-end party that will combine picnicking, bicycling, and baseball has been planned by the Daniel Leonards for tomorrow evening west of Winnetka.

Their guests, mostly members of the "35" dancing group, will gather by wheel for beer, baseball, and square dancing, to the tunes of an accordionist. Each feminine guest will bring a box supper for two, which will be drawn for by lot to determine her supper partner.

A simple benefit party in which Mrs. Leonard has a hand as a member of the Winneka Garden guild is a dance to be given on Saturday, June 5, at the Sheridan Shore Yacht

Notes on Marching Men.

A west side mother has three sons in the army. They address letters to her as Queen Petrone, You're the One Rose Petrone, and Three Star Petrone. . . . A Red Bud [Ill.] farm mother wrote of her son: "Johnnie graduated from officer's training school and looks wonderful in his uniform, but I'd rather see him in overalls." . . . The instructor at Camp Robinson was lecturing on blood, pulse, and blood pressure. Suddenly he asked a trainee, "What exactly would you feel if your girl friend walked into the room at this moment?" "Not a thing," snapped the trainee. "I'm married." . . . Maybe you saw him on the Pulaski road street car in the early hours of Monday morning, an older man with a much married look on his face and a memorial poppy in the lapel of his gray suit. "Well," he said, "I won't be seeing you again. I'm off to war."

In the Mail.

"Our plant has hired a guy that should have a government medal. In two weeks he has not made a single pun about the WAACs."

Labor Shortage Note.

A Michigan avenue restaurant has no orchestral din, but it punctuates its courses with the cozy sound of baby cries. One of the waitresses brings her baby and parks it in a buggy in the restaurant. Another brings her dog.

Home Front Casualty.

If by any chance you get a glimpse of a blond bearded giant in khaki rushing down Michigan avenue you will be seeing a gentleman known in the privacy of the Tribune Tower as its Oberammergau division. This is Jack Thompson, THE TRIBUNE's paratrooper war correspondent, the like of whose African nurtured beard has not been seen around here since the G. A. R. marched home from Gettysburg. He is back from Africa on brief leave, and during seven and a half months in the thick of the Tunisian fighting he was blessed with magnificent health. The day he came home he acquired a heavy cold.

The Other Eisenhower.

Milton Eisenhower, brother of Dwight and associate director of OWI, was in town the other day talking about the scarcity of food and clothing he found on a recent trip in North Africa. The Nazis had stripped every shop, he said, leaving only wooden stools and straw brooms. One Arab who had two wives told a friend of Eisenhower's he had to keep one wife at home while the other went shopping. "Not enough clothes for both," he explained.

Optimism . . . (or Clairvoyance?).

That merry topic of dinner table conversation, red and blue stamps, came up the other day at the table of a family with a 5 year old daughter. The mother said wearily that she had used all her blue stamps, but thought she would have a few red ones left at the end of the month. Her daughter pondered this a while and then suggested, "If you have extra stamps, Mommie, why don't you save them and use them for the next war?"

Director of WAVES Spends Busy Day in Her Visit to Chicago

Lt. Comdr. Mildred H. McAfee, director of the WAVES, spent a crowded day in Chicago yesterday on her second official visit to the city.

Between conferences with navy and WAVES officers, a tour of Navy pier, a tea at the Cordon club, and a radio broadcast, the former president of Wellesley college said that recruiting is progressing well, but that there just couldn't be too many WAVES to meet the many calls for them. Chicago, she said, has contributed more than 2,000 recruits, and by the end of the year the nation as a whole will have supplied 40,000.

Lt. Comdr. McAfee said she has found enthusiasm high for the women in navy blue and the work they are doing. Asked about the effect of the change in regulations which permit WAVES to be married to navy men, she said the result was an avalanche of marriages. Lt. [j. g.] Margaret Harding Cecil, senior WAVES officer in this area, showed the lieutenant commander around the city. Today she will visit Great Lakes and proceed on thru the middle west.

Designers Use Cotton as Ideal Summer Goods

BY REA SEEGER.

Dress designers have, this summer, tied all existing records for new fashion tricks with cotton. Daytime dresses that are crisp, cool, and simple top everything else in the shops for distinctive detail and color contrast. There are, for instance, some Quaker grey cotton dresses highlighted with frosting white that are ideal hot weather clothes for girls who stay in town, and the career girls headed for a sticky office day after day.

Both long streamlined slim coat dresses and the smart casual type dress are featured. One coat dress boasts tiny white buttons down the front and a delicate white lace edge to collar, front panel and cuffs of the short sleeves. Another has a gathered skirt and a simple bodice with half inch snowy white braid [cotton] scroll designs around neckline and cuffs of short sleeves. Both have belts of the grey.

White dresses emphasize the cool cleancut beauty of pique, eyelet embroidery, and butchers' linen, along with some most effective white men's shirting in a tiny self brocade pattern. One pique model has a deep band of either bright red or navy blue running thru the top of the bodice and a huge script initial effect embroidered on the left side of the blouse top. This is the coat dress model that buttons down the center front.

Clever white piques in other models have deep hip pockets and tailored buttonholes, while the two piece suit dresses in white feature cotton braid and cotton lace accents, also vivid color, like red and Kelly green, in the embroidered patterns and in details like fake pocket flaps, cuffs and collar and belts.

Thru the Looking Glass

Questioning some high school girls on what they'd like in the way of beauty gifts as graduation presents, we find that the answer is "just anything." They love sweet smelling perfumes, and fragrant soaps and lipsticks in pretty shades.

But above everything else they adore bath fripperies. And one of their very favorite fragrances, as they put it, seems to be apple blossom. Unlike the flappers of two decades ago, who liked their evening dresses of black satin and their perfumes simply dripping with oomph, today's school girls try to point up their freshness and youthfulness. Which is a good trend, if you ask us.

And, if you're a shopper for a girl graduate, you might be glad to know that there are plenty of exquisite bath trimmings to be had in the lovely scent of apple blossom. One of the great beauty specialists, who recognized the charm of this lilting fragrance long before any one else did, has a whole family of beauty aids all keyed to the airy perfume.

There is straight perfume, for example. It's the breath of spring, literally. And, though it is of fine quality, it is not frighteningly expensive. Neither are all its companion pieces. All are beautifully packaged. There is pretty soap, for example . . . and bath stuff that makes billions of bubbles. This last is a special favorite of the youngsters. You can round out the ensemble with body sachet or talc or cologne, as you like.

These have special appeal to youth. The fragrance itself is youthful—and pretty and fresh as a subdeb herself.

BY MARY MEADE.

I was amazed at the breakfast served me recently while I was a guest in a southern home. First we had halves of grapefruit, my favorite way to start a morning right. Next came big dishes of cereal with cream and sugar, followed by bacon and eggs and sweet rolls. Even this was not all. Then came waffles and sirup, with coffee!

"I've got to have a good breakfast," remarked the man of the house when I expressed surprise at the heartiness of the morning meal. "Breakfast is the most important meal of the day to me, and if I don't eat well in the morning I feel terrible all day." He is a "white collar" worker, too, not a person engaged in heavy labor.

The kind and size of the American breakfast is a matter of habit, frequently of bad habit. Too many men and women, too many school children, get up so late that their breakfast must be hurried and skimpy. Far too many business girls, especially, eat nothing except a roll and coffee for the morning meal.

These persons are being unfair to themselves. Seldom is the person who slights his breakfast able to function at maximum efficiency during the morning. Often his disposition suffers and he may be unaware that an inadequate breakfast caused the morning grouch.

Omission of the morning fruit is almost inexcusable. Few persons are unaware of the importance of a quantity of vitamin C at the start of every day, thanks to the effective spread of the gospel of good nutrition thru such media as the press, radio, and Red Cross.

Omission of the breakfast cereal is a mistake. The pattern of even a light breakfast, nutritionally balanced, almost always includes cereal. Fruit, cereal, breadstuff, and beverage—that's the light breakfast recommended for sedentary workers. More active workers, or sedentary persons who eat light lunches, should include an egg in that meal.

The heavy breakfast recommended for workers in war plants contains cereal, too. Fruit, eggs, and one other hot dish like bacon, sausage, or codfish cakes, breadstuff, and beverage make up the rest of the hearty breakfast pattern recommended by nutritionists.

Cereals are our most abundant food now and can well take over some of the functions of scarcer and rationed foods in our diets. They also are a cheap source of energy. The variety is almost endless so that there need be nothing monotonous about a breakfast containing cereal. Oatmeal, farina, corn meal mush — these are old favorites among hot cereals. There are many breakfast food preparations of several cereal grains in combination.

Ready to eat cereals seem more popular than the hot ones for warm weather use. They save preparation time and are available in many shapes and flavors, good reasons for their popularity. Many of them are "restored," that is, fortified with minerals and vitamins to bring them to a whole grain level of food value, or "enriched" with thiamin, niacin, and iron.

It seems to me that the homemaker, in her efforts to build up the nutritional level of her family's meals, would do well to emphasize the first menu of the day a little more. "Build up the breakfast and you build up America."

"Rationing doesn't worry me!"

Main dish and dessert for 6 take less than 2 red ration points

Strawberry Shortcake

2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar (optional)
⅓ cup Spry
⅔ cup milk
1 quart strawberries, hulled, sliced and sweetened to taste

Sift flour with baking powder, salt and sugar. Cut in Spry fine. Add milk, mixing to a soft dough. Knead lightly 20 seconds. Divide dough in half and roll into two 8-inch circles about ⅜ inch thick. Place one circle of dough on cookie sheet and other circle on top. Prick several times through dough with fork. Bake in very hot oven (450°F.) 25 to 30 minutes.

Separate layers. Cover one layer with ½ of berries. Place other layer on top of berries, underside up. Cover with remaining berries. Serve with cream or top milk. Serves 6. Try with other fruits and berries.

Asparagus Egg Casserole

4 tablespoons Spry
6 tablespoons flour
1½ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
3 cups milk
2 cups cooked asparagus, cut in pieces
4 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
1 cup crushed cornflakes or dried bread crumbs

Melt Spry in saucepan; add flour, salt and pepper and blend well. Add milk gradually, stirring constantly, and continue stirring and cooking until thickened. Add asparagus and eggs and place in Sprycoated casserole. Cover with crushed cornflakes or crumbs. Bake in hot oven (425° F.) 30 minutes. Serves 6 and see how everyone relishes it! Delicious with cottage fried potatoes, cole slaw and bran muffins.

Yes! Spry stretches ration points 6 ways

1 Spry is an all-purpose shortening. No need to use extra ration points for two kinds of shortening. Spry is grand for cakes, pastry, cookies, frying—everything!

2 You need only 5 points to get a pound of Spry. Butter takes 8—costs more than twice as much, too! Save it for table use only. Do all your cooking with Spry.

3 Spry is ALL shortening—yes, 100%, unlike butter or margarine that contain up to 15% moisture! Thus Spry gives you the utmost shortening value per ration point.

4 Spry goes a long way! You can use it over and over for frying. No smoke or odor when you fry.

5 No cooking failures to waste precious ration points! Don't take chances with makeshift shortenings. With Spry and Aunt Jenny's tested recipes you can get perfect results every time you bake or fry.

Spry rich in food energy!

A well-balanced diet must include energy foods. Harder work and longer hours, due to wartime demands, increase our need for such foods. Spry itself is one of the richest sources of food energy. Spry cakes and pies are not only a delicious treat; they fill a real nutritional need as well, so have them often.

They go with ANYTHING

at every wartime meal ... and between meals, too!

Italian squash, or zucchini is the first member of the summer squash family to step into the market each year. You'll find this green, cucumber-like vegetable at groceries now, while the white, scalloped patty pan and yellow crookneck squashes are still waiting to make their appearances.

Zucchini may be sliced crosswise into pieces or split lengthwise into boat shaped halves for cooking. It isn't necessary to peel the squash. Cook in boiling salted water, or steam until barely tender. Season with salt, pepper and butter or serve in one of the following ways:

Fried Zucchini.

Cut the squash into thick slices and dip in seasoned flour. Fry in butter or margarine until tender, about 15 minutes. Or drop into deep hot fat for a minute or so, only long enough to brown the coating, after which time the squash will have sufficiently cooked. [Squash may be sautéed in fat without the coating of flour, if preferred. In this case, season with salt and pepper before serving.]

Steamed Stuffed Zucchini.

[Serves six.]

Cut three zucchini in halves lengthwise, remove seeds and stuff with cooked rice mixed with grated cheese. Steam until tender. Or if more convenient, cook until tender before stuffing, and bake until lightly browned under a moderate broiler.

Scalloped Zucchini.

[Serves six.]

1½ pounds zucchini
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup water
6 slices bacon
2 tablespoons bacon fat
3 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup evaporated milk
½ cup grated cheese
1 tablespoon minced onion
1 cup buttered crumbs

Wash and slice squash. Cook with the teaspoon of salt in the cup of boiling water. Cover and cook until tender, about 15 minutes. Drain and save liquid. Pan fry bacon until partly done and make a white sauce of the 2 tablespoons bacon fat, flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, milk and liquid drained from squash. Place zucchini and cheese with grated onion in layers in greased casserole. Pour white sauce over top and cover with bacon strips and buttered crumbs. Bake in moderately hot oven, 375 degrees, until crumbs are brown, about 25 minutes.

Squash in Creole Sauce.

[Serves four.]

4 tablespoons chopped bacon
2 tablespoons chopped onion
2 cups sliced zucchini
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon minced parsley
½ cup tomato juice

Heat bacon in frying pan, add onions and squash and cook five minutes. Add remaining ingredients and simmer 10 minutes, until sauce is somewhat thickened. Stir lightly with a fork to prevent sticking.

Honey Reconditioning.

Honey is likely to crystallize if it's kept in too cool a place, but if the damage is already done, set the jar in a pan of hot water to melt the crystals.

Strawberries in Wine

Serve strawberries often while they are in season. For a flavor, try marinating strawberries in wine! It saves sugar and cream and will please the taste of strawberry fanciers. After cleaning and hulling berries, pour wine over fruit and place in refrigerator for about 20 minutes. Use 1 cup domestic port wine for each pint of strawberries.

"... a Wife to Raise"

INSTALMENT XI.

CLOSER TOGETHER.

"All right, Paul," said Isabel, "I won't argue with you. But Mary Ellen doesn't even like Sue to go about with me—so how do you think she feels about you?"

"She'd be glad I had a girl," said Paul heartily, but he remembered what Mary Ellen had said in the kitchen. "Even if what you say were true," he argued, "do you think I would change because of her objections? I don't pick my friends to please Mary Ellen. I work there—that's all!" This was outright disloyalty to Mary Ellen but Paul didn't care! And he insisted: "It seems to me that's only another reason for telling them—we're both young and free."

"We aren't really engaged, so why should we tell any one?" asked Isabel. "I'd love to get married—but if we can't do that then let's just let everything stay as it is now."

Paul took this in silence. He couldn't talk about getting married.

Isabel said, her chin quivering: "Mary Ellen's mad because Sue loaned me ten dollars. I didn't ask her for it, either, Paul. She offered to lend it to me when mother died. I wish now I hadn't borrowed it from her. But I'll pay her back. Only—she told Mary Ellen——"

"Why don't you pay her?" cried Paul. It was by such things that one lived or died in Hilltown.

"I thought I could," she said, "but I had to help Granny. Don't be such a bear, Paul." Paul thought of the clothes she had bought. It hurt him peculiarly that she should owe Sue.

"I'll give you the money," he said, "and you pay her."

"O Paul, no! I don't want to take money from you. You're as hard up as I am."

"No. I've got a little extra. You pay Sue—there's no hurry about me, but pay her." Paul gave Isabel ten dollars and she thanked him and kissed him.

"It was for new shoes and gloves for the funeral—to go with the stuff Sue loaned me," she said.

"We'll work things out," Paul told her stanchly. She grew happier, laughed and kissed him warmly.

Paul resolved that the next word Mary Ellen said about Isabel he would tell her right out that he was in love with Isabel and didn't want to hear anything against her. He braced himself for this tiff, planned and rehearsed what he would say.

When the blow came Paul said nothing, for he did not know what to say. Mr. Anthony Palton had been at Lockerbies' for supper. Mary Ellen asked Paul to go get Sue to stay with the telephones for an hour or so, as she wanted to go to the hospital with Mr. Palton. Paul brought Sue back and they were in the office together. Sue and Mary Ellen and Paul, and Sue said, her air althogether too innocent: "How does Isabel like Craig now, Paul?"

"Craig?" said Paul and then he remembered. The young man in the wreck. The blood rushed up in Paul's face. "Why—she hardly knows Craig—what should she think of him?"

"O," said Sue, "excuse me—I guess I'm speaking out of turn." Paul looked from Mary Ellen to Sue and back again. They turned their smooth unrevealing faces from him and he went out shaken with sudden terrible doubts and filled with black anger.

Paul went out of the house and started for Richard's. Almost at once, however, a sensible question presented itself to his mind and slowed his step.

Why should not Craig court Isabel, if he liked? Why should she not accept his attentions? What claim had Paul upon her? He was not her husband.

He was just a friend who wanted to take all and give nothing. He wanted her love, her kisses, her devotion, while he held his own part of the bargain in abeyance for his own time and convenience. The logic of his mind stilled his haste, but it did not take the sting or urgency from his jealousy. He faltered and stood still on the walk in the winter evening. He could not remember any more what it was like to be at peace.

In the end he did not go to Richards's, but went downtown instead. In the restaurant Paul came upon Johnny Henkle and they had a glass of beer together. Johnny, one of the friendliest lads in the town, was, as usual, full of chatter, and Paul let him talk. Paul asked him how Isabel got on with his other passengers.

"Fine—fine!" said Johnny. "All the others like her. She's always friendly and obliging. Say, Paul—that Craig—you know, the guy that I asked to bring Isabel home that day my mother was over there—the one that had the wreck——"

"I know him," Paul said. "I sewed him up." His pulse quickened.

"Well, you should have sewed him crooked instead of giving him that nice interesting scar," said Johnny. "He's gone off his head about Isabel. Nearly every day he comes around and wants to bring her home—but she rides with me. He comes over here, too, and hangs around—goes up to the house. She asked me what I thought about her going to a dance with him but in the end she didn't go because she didn't have a formal dress."

Paul drew a deep breath. The story Isabel had told him about why she was in Craig's car was exactly correct, then. Had he doubted it? He felt a hot flush of shame that he could sit there and let Johnny furnish Isabel with alibis. Well, Sue and Mary Ellen had the reaction they wanted from him. Just a word and he was wild with jealousy and distrust. If he were going to be a friend of Isabel the first requirement was simple trust.

Little Elaine, in Mary Ellen's care, asked for her mother less and less. Paul could not but notice how kind every one was with this child. Isabel's little sister, Betty, was the same age as Elaine but she was not favored. No one but Isabel bothered about Betty. Mrs. Richards was so absorbed in Lem's troubles that she was inattentive to the girls. And Paul was so absorbed in Isabel that he could scarcely hear what other people said to him.

Christmas was approaching, to Paul's dismay. Then, early one Saturday morning, Elaine's mother died in the hospital and Lem Richards died in the jail.

Paul went at once to the jail, to Dorsey's, to Mrs. Richards'. He did everything he could to help. Mary Ellen, too, seemed anxious to help in every way. In the Lockerbie kitchen, discussing with Paul the arrangements for Lem's funeral, Mary Ellen told him, "Elaine is going to be ours now, Paul. Mr. Palton and Mr. Hoke made all the arrangements necessary today for us to start the adoption proceedings. O Paul—a little girl of our own!"

"I'm glad," Paul said, "and she couldn't be luckier!"

"It's certainly terrible about her mother," said Mary Ellen, "Poor Mr. Palton is all broken up. He's taking Mrs. Hartsdale's body back to her old home in Ohio for burial."

Paul went to the florists to order flowers for Lem. He wished he had a pocketful of money. On the street he met Will Presser who seemed unusually animated and friendly.

"Looks like the county will save a little money on Lem," he said, falling into step beside Paul. Paul felt his dislike for Presser rise up in him. "That case is closed," Presser said.

Paul increased his stride and left the lawyer quickly behind him. He could never like the man! Back at home Dr. Lockerbie called Paul into the office.

"Paul, would you be willing to make this trip to Ohio with Mr. Palton? He's so feeble and distracted and deaf and all—I hate to see him start out alone on this journey. He wants you."

"I'll be glad to help him if I can," said Paul. "The only thing is Lem's funeral. I'm to be pallbearer."

"You won't have to stay over there—his friends will meet the train and you can get another train right back and be home tomorrow afternoon. Lem isn't to be buried until Monday."

"I'll go," said Paul. "I'll go now and tell Isabel."

Within Mrs. Richard's house was none of the drama and tears of the death of Isabel's mother. Mrs. Richards herself was sad but resigned; and Isabel was in a queer mood as tho she had resolved not to gr e. Betty sat listlessly beside the stove. She looked up at Paul, a shy little girl with big black eyes, unbearably forlorn. Paul lifted her up and put her on his knee, pressing her head against his shoulder.

"I'm going to get you the prettiest doll I can find for your Christmas," Paul told her. "Would you like that?"

"Yes," she breathed. Isabel was sewing.

"Say, 'Thank you, Paul,'" Isabel prompted.

"Not until she has it," Paul replied.

Good Morning!

[Well, I've discovered a new breed of cat! People who find amusing the tortured grimaces and hobblings of exhausted and crippled soldiers carrying on under terrible stress. . . . I wish I could have seen the faces of those chortlers in the darkened theater. . . . Perhaps the FBI might have been interested, too.]

Kelly is a grand old name, and Kelly is the name of "The Immortal Sergeant." . . . Kelly, raised in the slums, educated in the army—he'd been in the first World war. . . . Kelly, whose body dies in action but whose influence and remembered voice live on to spur a timid corporal, lost in the Libyan desert with his patrol, on to successful military maneuver—and mastery of himself.

"A leader isn't just a guy who blows a whistle and takes his men over the top," Kelly had said. "He's some one you can trust to do jobs. . . . Of course you're scared—everybody is. It's the getting over being scared of being scared that does it. . . ."

Considerable of this story is shown in retrospect—the thoughts of Corp. Spence who, after enemy bombs and gunfire have wiped out most of a desert patrol and its commander, Sergt. Kelly, finds himself in charge—of the three remaining men—and hopelessly lost. . . .

As he and the others plod and thirst and starve, his memory travels back to a past of which he isn't proud; to the girl he loves and believes he's lost to a more aggressive rival.

Thinking is interrupted by the landing of a "Jerry" near an oasis the patrol had sighted and toward which they had been stumbling in search of water. . . . Corp. Spence suddenly knows himself to be a man and—with Kelly's bluff encouragement—acts like one. . . . SWELL what happens, then!

See you tomorrow.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1943: By Ely Culbertson.]

Average players find it difficult to understand that, under countless circumstances, it is better to have an opponent make the first lead in a suit than to "start" that suit, themselves. This can apply even to the trump suit, as in today's hand.

East, dealer.
East-West vulnerable.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 diamond	1 heart	1 spade	3 hearts
Pass	Pass	Pass

South's one heart overcall was decidedly weak, but at match-point duplicate, not vulnerable against vulnerable opponents, it probably was defensible along strategic lines. It must be noted that South, despite North's double raise, did not bid again. I emphasize this point because many readers will probably feel that South violated a "rule"—that North's double raise was a force. South didn't, and it wasn't. The double raise of an opening bid made in first or second position is a force, but there is a sharp distinction between opening bids and overcalls. Thus, South was quite within his conventional rights, and exercised sound judgment, in passing short of game. This opinion may sound strange, in view of the actual result, but South could scarcely count on the "breaks" he was to get.

West opened the diamond ten. Declarer won and immediately ruffed a diamond. He led to the club king, back to the club ace, ruffed a club, then ruffed a second diamond. Now, when the last club was led from dummy, East discarded a spade. [It would have done him no good to trump.] Declarer ruffed the last club in his own hand and his last diamond in dummy, West discarding a spade.

Now with diamonds and clubs eliminated from the North and South hands, declarer merely exited from dummy with a spade. East put up his ace and returned the spade queen. West overtook the latter and cashed another spade trick, but then was forced to lead from his heart king. Dummy ducked, East's jack was captured by the queen, and West's king went to the ace.

By letting the trump suit severely alone [except to use it for ruffs] declarer had avoided the loss of a trump trick.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—SOMEBODY LOSES—SOMEBODY WINS

Looking at Hollywood . . . . By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., May 27.—The son of Fibber McGee and Molly, James Jordan, plays Pat O'Brien's son in "The Iron Major." Jimmy, who wanted to be an engineer, recently was released from the army because of physical disability, went out and got this job on his own. . . . The McGees' friends are bursting with pride over their success. They're tops in radio, deservedly so. Yet in the last war Fibber was a private, and Molly just managed to keep body and soul together by working 20 hours a day. Yes, they're nice folks. . . . If they want a nonactor to play the life of Will Rogers, why not sign up Nelson Rockefeller? He's the spitting image of young Bill.

Looking Before Leaping.

Alfred Hitchcock is using "Stage Door Canteen" as a test to cast his picture "Life Boat." Well, from a photographic standpoint, New York stars didn't do so well in that one. . . . The friendship between Gregory Ratoff and Joe Pasternak is at the straining point. . . . Ginger Rogers is so happy at her La Jolla home she's put on 12 pounds. . . . Shy little Diana Lynn has fallen so hard for Cornelia Otis Skinner she went to Producer Sheridan Gibney and begged for a rôle in "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay," and she's being tested for it. . . . Bette Davis' "Now Voyager" has been retitled "Tears of Yesterday" in Mexico.

Different Now.

Since Carey Wilson wrote Keye Luke into the Dr. Gillespie pictures, he's in such demand that Metro's got him in two at once. Every studio wants to borrow him. Yet only a few short years ago, Keye, who was just as fine an actor, couldn't get an acting job, but made wonderful screens for "Shanghai Gesture" and did the illustrations for "Marco Polo." . . . Betty Grable is off to make headlines with Harry James in New York and probably commit matrimony. . . . Those noonday crowds waiting along Hollywood boulevard aren't for the movies but for candy shops to open, which they do two hours daily. . . . Arthur William Brown arrives Sunday to sketch "Claudia." . . . Philip Dorn is making himself new friends at Twentieth Century, where he's doing "Night Is Ending."

Result—Laughter.

Women at Work and Play.

There's quite a race on to see who gets the one male rôle in "Cry Havoc." I doubt whether he'll get anything except his voice into it. They had the same trouble when they photographed "The Women." I think they got a pair of male legs in that—I'm not sure. . . . That little theater in Westwood, which is being run by Laraine Day, Jill Esmond, Beulah Bondi, Philip Merivale, and others, was minus its audience of soldier boys the other night, and for the strangest reason. WAACs were sent to Hollywood Canteen to bring 'em. They arrived at 10:30, when the show was nearly over. . . . The Dave Epsteins celebrate 19 years of wedded—shall we say—bliss Saturday.

Your Stars Today

By WYNN

Friday, May 28.

Need for constant discrimination today. Follow lead of those in superior positions. Curb tendency to act first and try to justify later—reverse this for best results. Evening calls for poise, self-control—nothing hasty or risky.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead from today, your anniversary, brings new emotions, new aspirations, artistic urges; but curb desire for novelty, change, unless sure. More responsibility, work. Danger: Aug. 19-Sept. 6; Nov. 28-Jan. 29.

Tomorrow.

Outing Club Hike.

The Englewood Outing club will take a six mile sunrise hike on Sunday, followed by breakfast at the Jackson Park Promontory. Participants will gather at 4 a. m. at the I. C. station.

club. There will be good music, but no dinner or supper, and the proceeds will be used for the work the guild does under Mrs. Hill Blackett, who is chairman of collecting and distributing flowers at army and navy camps and hospitals for the Garden Club of Illinois. The guild helps to keep flowers in the 27 wards of the hospital at Great Lakes.

Five Groups in Winnetka Planning Flower Festival.

A more pretentious benefit for this purpose is a flower festival in which all five Winnetka garden groups are participating, to be held from 2 to 9 p. m. on June 15 at the Winnetka Woman's club. In addition to the guild, they are the Winnetka Garden club, the garden department of the club, the Winnetka Weeders, and the Woodley Road Garden club.

Mrs. Warren Lamson, general chairman, is holding a meeting of the committee today at her home. Mrs. George S. Parker is the chairman of the service men's flower committee of the Garden Club of Illinois. The festival will have an allied nations theme, with the various allied countries represented in the table setting exhibits, and pretty young women in allied nations dress assisting. Among the contests will be individual salad settings, arrangements using a favorite picture as a background, and an exhibit of hats, using fresh flowers or vegetables, which should bring to light some amusing head ornaments.

Sen. Wheeler Will Speak at U. of Michigan Dinner.

The University of Michigan Club of Chicago's annual spring dinner tonight in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer House will draw a larger crowd than usual, for the speaker will be Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, who arrived this morning from Washington, D. C. The visitor will speak on "War and Peace" before alumni and a limited number of nonmembers of the club who are being admitted because of the prominence of the speaker, who is a graduate of the university.

While the group is meeting Mrs. Leo T. Norville, wife of the secretary of the club, will entertain for Mrs. Wheeler at dinner in the Pump room, taking her guests to see "The Doughgirls."

Unusual Crocheted Hat

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

A becoming crocheted hat which is a modified fez has a cuff brim. It is ideally styled for young girls, and may be trimmed with a tassel or worn plain. A choice of materials may be used in creating this hat, ranging from synthetic straw to double strands of carpet warp. The stitches and directions are easy to follow.

For instructions in crocheting the modified fez, No. 1114, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Here's Attire for Relaxing This Summer

(Sketches in adjoining column.)

Summer sleeping and lounging comfort is no problem when one is attired in sheer batistes and light cottons. These are highly styled, easy to launder, and as cool as a breeze.

The short pajama of sheer white batiste, sketched at left, is decorated with a dainty floral print of blue and clusters of roses. The bodice is trimmed with white eyelet embroidery. Narrow shoulder straps fasten in the back at the waist, and a bow ties across the back waistline.

The pinafore type of short pajama in center is created in a delicate pink batiste print, smoothly fitted at the waist. The top has becoming fullness which meets a flat band of the material, outlining the square neckline. Butterfly wings over the shoulders create a carefree air, and a full bow ties across the back. This model also is available in blue with tiny pink bow and floral motifs.

The popular red print, midriff lounging pajamas at right serve many purposes and offer a chance to mix or match the tops and bottoms with other outfits. The top may be used with a pair of white shorts, thus accenting the white print in the red top. The bottoms may serve as an unusual pair of slacks when worn with a jacket of solid color. The outfit also is available in blue.

PIRATES WHIP DODGERS, 9 TO 5; FOUR BANNED

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

FROM time to time this space has been devoted to a discussion of the conduct of intercollegiate athletics. . . . Before the war we repeatedly spoke out against subsidization and excessive recruiting that were threatening the life of college football. . . . We are even more strongly opposed to the element that now can find no room for competitive games. . . . If amateur sport, founded on the theory that it provided a means of physical development, was good for participants in any period, how can one logically conclude that it is undesirable now? . . . The men directing intercollegiate athletics must come around to a policy of moderation, in peace or war. . . . Not long ago some of them were making college football too important in undergraduate life. . . . Now some of them, unbalanced by wartime excitement, would swing the pendulum the other way and abolish the game altogether. . . . There should be a reasonable middle course. . . . The Big Ten conference in relaxing its rules to permit any student an opportunity to compete in athletics probably has come closest to that policy. . . .

President Rufus Carrollton Harris of Tulane university, whose institution is a member of the Southeastern conference which a few years ago legalized the subsidizing of athletics, has an interesting point of view on the conduct of wartime intercollegiate sport. . . . He recently submitted the following statement to the university newspaper: "Among the hundreds of young men who will be at Tulane beginning July 1 there will be many who will desire to engage in games rather than in calisthenics classes for their prescribed physical training. . . . All students are required by the military services to engage in several hours a week of physical training. . . . There will be some, no doubt, who will want to play games in some seasonal sport for an hour or two a day rather than to participate for a like period of time daily in a program of calisthenics. . . . It would be advantageous from the standpoint of morale, if the students could have their choices in the matter. . . . The university will provide coaches in these sports just as it provides instructors for each calisthenics class. . . . Baseball, swimming, track, tennis, and like sports should be made available in the warm months, and football, basketball, and boxing should be afforded in the fall and winter. . . . If students desire to organize formal teams in these sports to play other institutions and service organizations, I can see no reason in sense or policy why they should not be permitted to do so. . . . I feel that they should be actively encouraged to that end. . . . Their fun and happiness will be meager enough at best. . . . I am compelled to feel that Tulane and the universities engaged in the navy college training program should make available a schedule of intercollegiate games as long as it is possible to arrange them and as long as there are students desiring to play. . . . There is no question of carrying on big time subsidized sports. . . . It is a matter of wartime physical training thru sensible intercollegiate play at appropriate times. . . . The circumstances will scarcely permit overemphasis of any game. . . . There should be no athletic scholarships unless there are some poor boys who are rejected by the military services."

Things That I Miss.

These are the things I want to do
Often before I die:
Walk in the rain with a song on my lips
Instead of a sigh;
Stroll by the lake while a silvery moon
Shines radiantly down;
Take the old lover's lane that winds out of sight
Of the teeming town.
I want to do the trivial things
That lovers like to do,
Smile at you over sherry wine,
Exchange bon mots with you,
And share a match to light cigarets—
Snatching a kiss;
These are the things, heart happy things,
That, without you, I miss.

Ode to a Key Ring.

What stories on a key ring hang,
What secrets—how much gold;
What joys these little tools unlock,
What mysteries they unfold.

There's one that fits the outside latch,
And one the letter box,
Another opens the garage,
A third the car unlocks.

Most likely there's a luggage key
That's usually hard to wrest;
There might be one to ope a vault
Or attic cedar chest.

Altho you are a nondescript,
Your keys are much the same
As any man of countless wealth
Or cynosure of fame.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., May 27.—The White Sox tonight threatened to escape from sixth place, but the Athletics, who themselves have an interest in the compressed American league percentage column, refused to coöperate. Twice the Chicagoans fitted out their electric light specialist, Johnny Humphries, with leads, only to have him fall apart so disastrously that he was shelled off the scene during a four run sixth inning. The final score was 7 to 5.

Humphries, who had won two 1 to 0 decisions and one by 2 to 1, was handed a two run edge in the opening inning, this piece of enterprise being due mainly to Thurman Tucker, who had a large evening for himself with four safe hits, a pass, and a stolen base. Humphries lost this lead and a bit besides in the third when Roberto Estalella amused the 14,894 customers with a three run homer. Then the Sox tied it in the fourth and went ahead with a run in the sixth, only to see Humphries blown to bits a few moments later.

Rookie Leaves in Fourth.

Before Humphries was given his cue to leave, the Sox had shaken off Pitcher Orie Arntzen, a rookie, in the fourth, the vacancy being filled by Roger Wolff. When they got a run off Rog for a 4 to 3 lead in the sixth there was reason to suspect it might be sufficient for Humphries, who had just turned out two hitless innings. The first four men reached base against him in the sixth, however, and Freshman Gordon Maltzberger was called on to do what he could about easing a situation in which the tying run was already home and three men were on the bases with none out. The rescuer was frisked for two singles that accounted for the three other runs.

Altho he was on base five times, Tucker counted only once, but that's easily explained. The defects were in the bats of Luke Appling and Joe Kuhel. Luke singled in the first, but thereafter flied out twice and twice banged into double plays. Kuhel went hitless all evening, his only contribution being a pass.

Steal Produces Run.

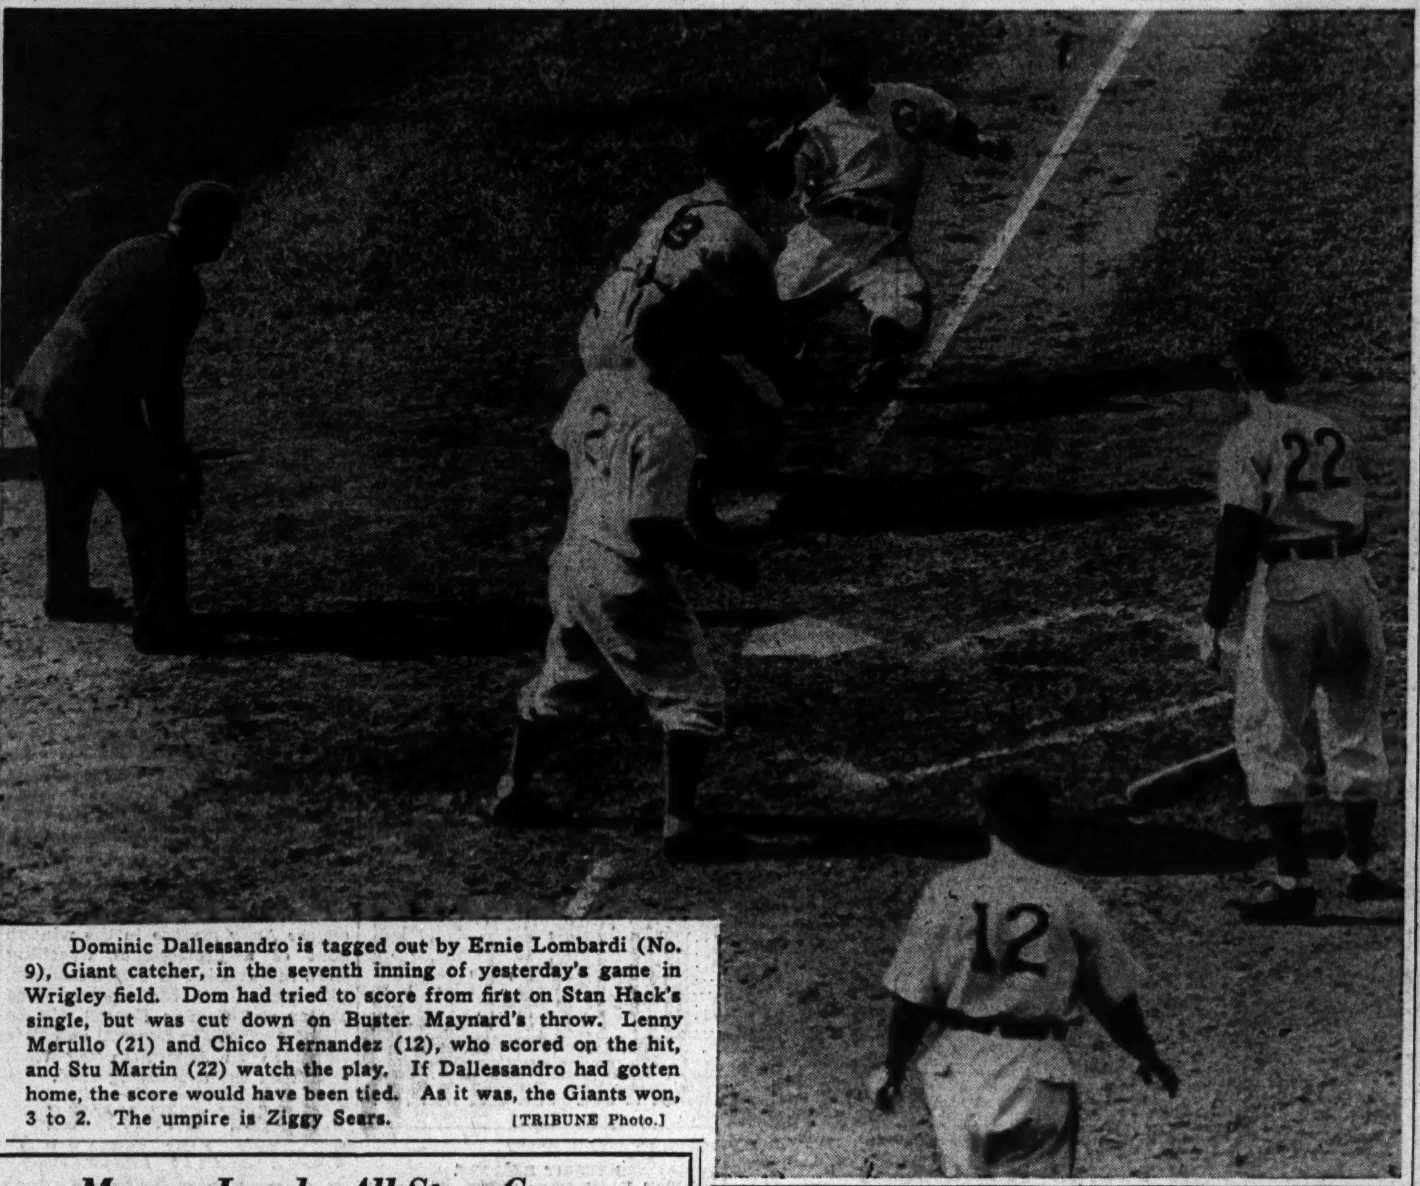
HOW THE CUBS COULD HAVE USED THIS RUN!



Dominic Dallessandro is tagged out by Ernie Lombardi (No. 9), Giant catcher, in the seventh inning of yesterday's game in Wrigley field. Dom had tried to score from first on Stan Hack's single, but was cut down on Buster Maynard's throw. Lenny Merullo (21) and Chico Hernandez (12), who scored on the hit, and Stu Martin (22) watch the play. If Dallessandro had gotten home, the score would have been tied. As it was, the Giants won, 3 to 2. The umpire is Ziggy Sears. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mayor Lauds All-Star Game

Announcement in yesterday's TRIBUNE that the 1943 All-Star football game will be played for the benefit of Chicago's Service Men's centers, brought the following message from Mayor Edward J. Kelly:

"Mrs. Kelly joins me in extending our deep appreciation for the generosity of Chicago Tribune Charities in making the Chicago Service Men's centers the beneficiary of this year's All-Star game. I feel we are voicing the thanks, too, of the thousands of soldiers, sailors, and Marines who enjoy the hospitality of the Service centers.

"The All-Star football game has been a tremendous asset to the good name of Chicago. Wherever I travel I have inquiries about sports' greatest spectacle. I regret that the game on Aug. 25 between the College All-Stars and the Washington Redskins will not be played at Soldiers' field, where 100,000 could attend, but I realize you have valid reasons for shifting to Dyche stadium in Evanston.

"I fully expect you will get enthusiastic coöperation from our armed forces in the presentation of the game, especially since the net proceeds will be used to make life a little brighter for young men who are making heavy sacrifices to protect principles we hold dear.

"I have no doubt whatever about the continued interest of the football fans. The All-Star game is the greatest attraction the sport provides. I predict every seat in Dyche stadium will be sold long before the night of Aug. 25."

N. U. TO BATTLE TWO BIG 10 FOES UNDER LIGHTS

Northwestern university's Wildcats will meet both Indiana and Michigan in night football games this fall in Dyche stadium, Kenneth L. Wilson, director of athletics, announced yesterday. The game with the Hoosiers is scheduled for Sept. 25, and the one with the Wolverines for Oct. 2.

In announcing the Big Ten floodlight contests, Wilson said that the lights used would be the ones installed for THE TRIBUNE'S annual All-Star game to be played in Dyche stadium the night of Aug. 25 between the collegians and the Washington Redskins, champions of the National Football league.

Macomb Breaks Even to Win I.I.C. Baseball

Charleston, Ill., May 27 (AP).—A split in its double header today with Charleston Teachers gave Macomb Teachers the baseball championship of the Illinois Intercollegiate conference. Macomb won the first game, 6 to 2, but dropped the second, 2 to 0.

Arch Ward to Address Signal Corps Graduates

The Illinois Institute of Technology tonight will graduate 2,000 members of the signal corps training program at exercises to be conducted in the Rosenwald Museum auditorium. Arch Ward, sports editor of THE TRIBUNE, will be the commencement speaker.

GIANTS CONQUER CUBS, NOVIKOFF 2D IN ROW, 3 TO 2

BY EDWARD PRELL.

The Cubs had the tying run on second base and the winning run on first in the ninth inning yesterday. Then Van Lingle Mungo, who always had been tough for the Cubs even in their good years, came in and threw six straight strikes to Pinch Batters Heinz Becker and Ival Goodman. Mungo's personal handling of the situation saved a 3 to 2 decision for Johnny Wittig and plastered Lon Warneke with his third defeat.

In the ninth inning, which caused a stir of expectancy among the 3,840 chilled spectators, Lou Novikoff finally advanced a teammate. He bunted Wittig's first pitch, advancing Eddie Stanky, who had walked. When the Giant right hander passed Stu Martin, the Cubs' first baseman for the day, Mungo came in and put on the quick finish.

He's Fielding 1.000.

Novikoff, whose .000 batting percentage equals Warneke's .000 pitching mark, didn't come close to a hit yesterday. Until his sacrifice in the ninth, he had failed five straight times to advance a runner. The boos were almost even with the cheers when the ex-holdout came up his last two times. Lou's fielding record, tho, got under way when he caught two fly balls.

Yesterday's painful ninth inning fadeout became the cellar team's 11th loss in 13 games and their fourth to the Giants without a victory.

Jurges Causes Trouble.

The Giants' first inning run was unearned, but the other two scored off Warneke, who has yet to win his first game, were legitimate. Dick Bartell opened the game with a walk, but was out stealing. Bill Jurges had more luck. He drove a single to left center, advanced on Buster Maynard's sacrifice, and took third when Stan Hack threw low to Martin after taking Mel Ott's roller. Ernesto Lombardi brought Bill home with a ground single into right just out of Stanky's reach.

Ott sent Novikoff and Peanuts Lowrey chasing after his double to start the fourth and scored on Sid Gordon's single to right. It became 3 to 0 in the next inning. Wittig doubled to left with one out and came in on Bartell's single to center.

Lou Fails in Pinch.

Wittig had shown his first signs of wildness by walking Lowrey and Stanky in the fourth. Novikoff, who flied to Ott in the second with Bill Nicholson on first base, then grounded out to Mickey Witek.

After retiring Stanky and Novikoff on infield rollers in the seventh, Wittig walked Martin, Chico Hernandez, and Pinch Hitter Dom Dallessandro. With the count three and two on Stan Hack, all the runners started going with the pitch. Hack hit a liner which Jurges slowed down. Martin and Hernandez scored easily, but Lombardi had the ball at the plate long before Dallessandro arrived.

Ray Prim kept the game close by retiring the Giants in order in the eighth and getting the first two in the ninth before Lombardi singled to deep short.

Central Track Meet Entries Raised to 22

BY WILFRID SMITH.

With the list of colleges and universities now at 22 teams, the Central Collegiate track meet tomorrow afternoon and evening in Marquette stadium holds promise of being one of the best competitively in the 18 year history of the games. Cornell college and Mission house of Plymouth, Wis., are the most recent team entries.

The Central this year may not produce new records—only two are believed vulnerable—but in most of the 16 events the competition is well balanced. Neither will the games be a parade for the Western conference athletes, for in at least five events the Big Ten champions will be hard pressed to duplicate their triumphs two weeks ago in Dyche stadium.

Shot Put Competition.

Fortune Gordien of Minnesota, who is conceded the discus championship, will have a fight to take the shot put for the double victory he accomplished in the Big Ten. In the group of shot putters is James Fleweger, Lawrence college's one man team who won the Midwest conference title. He has marks in excess of 46 feet which compare with Gordien's winning Big Ten put of 46 feet 9¾ inches. Leonard Zimny of Loyola university, who won the Elmhurst invitational meet shot put, is another possibility.

Fleweger also has a mark of 6 feet 4 inches in the high jump. Jim Milne of Michigan State, defending Central champion and winner of the Michigan State title, is favored to take the event.

The versatile Fleweger also figures in the low hurdles. He is the champion in both indoor hurdle events in the Central Collegiate conference. Arthur Egbert of Marquette also can run the 220 yard hurdles under 24 seconds, a time mark sufficiently fast to push Chicago's Whitey Hlad.

Dunn Enters Two Mile Race.

Clarence Dunn of Illinois won the Big Ten mile and finished second to Floyd Foslien of Minnesota in the two miles. Dunn probably is a better two miler than the Big Ten results two weeks ago indicate since he won the indoor race last March from Foslien.

John Liggett of Michigan State, who won the half mile race in last Saturday's Michigan State meet, adds strength to this race which Illinois dominated in the Western conference by winning three of the five scoring positions. Bob Kelley of the Illini is the Big Ten champion.

BALK ON ALLEN SETS OFF NEAR RIOT IN EIGHTH

Senators Win 4 to 2; Take A. L. Lead.

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 27 (AP). — After tying the score with a three run seventh inning rally the Pittsburgh Pirates added four more in a tempestuous eighth inning uprising tonight and beat the league leading Brooklyn Dodgers for the second straight time, 9 to 5.

A near riot occurred on the field during the eighth when Pitcher Johnny Allen rushed Umpire George Barr after he had called a balk. Allen, Freddy Fitzsimmons, Rube Melton, and Lester Webber all were banished from the game.

Geary Comes Thru.

Shortstop Huck Geary's single with the bases full in the eighth with the score tied sent home two runners. When Fred Walker's throw to the plate was wide, a third run counted and Geary reached third.

Allen passed Jimmy Russell when Barr called the balk. Geary scored and Russell moved to second. Buck Newsom relieved Allen and walked Bob Elliott. Max Macon then was called in. He fanned Johnny Barrett and Vince DiMaggio, and made Al Lopez foul out.

Allen Collars Umpire.

The umpire-player brawl was one of the worst in local history. The 14,724 fans stood up wide-eyed as Allen dashed toward Barr in the infield, collaring the umpire.

As Barr struggled, Brooklyn infielders rushed in to pull away the bulky pitcher. Allen finally was borne to the ground. All members of the Brooklyn team by then were on the field. Jocko Conlan and Lou Jorda, the other umpires, ran in to protect their comrade. For 10 minutes the mêlée continued.

Durocher the Pacifier.

Leo Durocher, Dodger manager, was so busy trying to shoo Allen from the field he had no time to join in the secondary verbal skirmish which sent the other three Dodgers to the showers with Allen.

Dodger Paul Waner was spiked during batting practice and will be out for several weeks. Score:

JEMAS COOLLY BOOTS 'EM IN AT LINCOLN FIELDS

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Nick Jemas, a little lad of 96 pounds who mixes cool judgment with riding skill, is the kind of a fellow who can be trusted to handle a well backed horse without making a mistake. When an owner has the horse and the spot in which he thinks he can win, he feels a lot more confident when he can sign up Jemas to do the riding.

This boy, who is well out in front in the battle for jockey honors during the current Lincoln Fields meeting at Hawthorne, hasn't given the long shot players much to cheer about. One reason, as above noted, is the fact that he can often get his pick of several good live horses. But he has been doing his bit in making the favorites run true to form and as a result he's mighty popular with the chalk players.

During the first nine days of the present meeting he brought in 13 winners, 9 seconds, and 11 thirds. Tho he wasn't able to win every day, he never was shut out of the proceedings, and sometimes he landed as many as five horses in the money.

Wins on Captain Fury.

Yesterday, the 10th day of the meeting, he began with a third place and a winner in the first two races—Princely Gift and Captain Fury, respectively, and then booted Purple Heart into place money in the fifth race.

Jemas, who is 22 years old, was born in Massachusetts of Greek ancestry, his home now being in Lowell. About four years ago he began his attempt to break into the race riding profession at Montreal but was unable even to get any horses to gallop in morning workouts.

Presently he gave up in Montreal and came to Chicago, having a bit of difficulty with the immigration officials on the way. At last he got a few mounts during the Sportsman's Park meeting three years ago and rode his first winner — a horse named Grey Flash.

Five Winners in One Day.

Since then he has been coming on steadily. Last year he rode five winners in one day at Fairmount. During the spring meeting of this season at Oaklawn he was the leading rider until he moved over to Churchill Downs. There he got a lucky break. When Ovie Scurlock, contract rider for Woolford farm, went into the navy, there was a good job open and there was plenty of competition for it. Trainer Ross Higdon decided on Jemas, who had been rejected for military service because of his light weight.

Jemas began the Lincoln Fields meeting a week ago Monday by riding three seconds and two thirds. The following day he won with Pig Tails and Rex Avis and brought Uncle Mose home in a dead heat with Bulrush. He also took a second and a third.

He brought in Mrs. Al Sabath's Colors up on Tuesday at a payoff of $16.60, his biggest of the meeting, and also won with an odds-on favorite, Say Miss. On that same day he took three thirds. He figured in Wednesday's program only with a victory on an even money favorite, Just For Fun.

Tim Dalton on Madison A. C. Card Tonight

Tim Dalton, 1943 Chicago intercity Golden Gloves lightweight champion, will make his second appearance in three days when he meets Lofton Mitchell of the Savoy Athletic club in a five round return bout in the amateur show in the Madison A. C., 4711 Madison street, tonight. Tim, who survived a knockdown to beat Mitchell in a previous meeting last Friday, scored a victory over Ted West of the Ringside loop gymnasium in Marigold Gardens on Wednesday. Another five round event on this evening's program will bring together Stanley Sheeley, Savoy club middleweight, and Harrison Shaw, Union park.

Sailor Chuck Fitzsimmons, this year's city Golden Gloves heavyweight finalist, will meet Marine Wally Klingele for the Navy pier in the featured bout on a card at the pier tonight. Klingele did not compete in the Golden Gloves competition, but he won the Catholic Youth organization title in his class last winter. He hails from Yakima, Wash. Fitzsimmons is a native of Brainerd, Minn.

Charles [Gorilla] Grubmyer will oppose Andy Rockne in the windup bout of a professional wrestling show this evening in Cicero stadium, 19th street and 52d avenue. Ned Taylor and Gordon Hessell will be pitted against Joe Dorsetti and Pete Bartu in an Australian tag team match on the supporting card.

YACHT OWNERS TO PLAN DRILLS FOR MIDSHIPMEN

Plans for the second season of training midshipmen from Abbott hall, naval reserve officer school, will be described tonight at Thorne hall, on Northwestern University's downtown campus to members of Chicago yacht clubs affiliated with the Lake Michigan Yachting association.

Seventy-five yachts have been volunteered by their owners.

FARRAGUT JOLTS GAGE PARK OUT OF SECTION LEAD

Genova Hurls One Hit Game for Lane.

Farragut High school defeated Gage Park, 10 to 9, yesterday in Douglas park and knocked the latter out of its first place tie with Harrison in the central section baseball race in the City league. It was the second defeat for Gage Park in 10 games, while Harrison, the defending league champion, has won eight and lost one. Farragut is in third place with eight victories and three defeats. Frank Nizick hit a home run for Gage Park and Ed Gorga had four straight hits for Farragut.

Marshall Hjerstedt's long double in the first inning provided Steinmetz with a 3 to 1 victory over Crane in Riis park despite the fact Gene Revell held the winners to four hits. Lou Possehl, the winning pitcher, scattered seven hits effectively. It was Steinmetz's eighth victory in nine games and enabled it to tighten its grip on first place in the west section.

Lane Wins 93d.

Nick Genova pitched a one hit game as Lane Tech defeated Waller, 6 to 0, for its 93d consecutive north section victory and 13th this season. It was the second day in succession a Lane pitcher had come up with a one hit game. Genova fanned 15.

CARDS DEFEAT BRAVES, 3-2, ON TOBIN'S ERROR

Musial Scores Winning Run in Eighth.

St. Louis, Mo., May 27 (AP).—Howie Pollet outpitched Jim Tobin today as the St. Louis Cardinals clung to second place with a 3 to 2 victory over the Boston Braves, but it was a fielding error by the Braves' hurler and not poor mound work that let in the winning run.

Two were out in the eighth, the score was tied and Stan Musial was on second after a single and a stolen base when Ray Sanders hit a hard grounder between first and second. All Connie Ryan could do was knock it down. Musial was rounding third. Ryan pegged home and Tobin tried to cut off the throw but the ball hit his glove and bounced away.

Ross Hits Home Run.

In the first inning Chet Ross hit a home run after Tommy Holmes singled for Boston's runs. After that only three men reached first against Pollet. Tobin held the Cards to three hits and no runs until the seventh when Whitey Kurowski's homer tied the score. Musial had tallied in the first on a walk, a stolen base and Ken O'Dea's single.

Lou Klein of the Cardinals doubled in the third to send his hitting streak to 17 consecutive games.

Walker's Ankle Sprained.

Johnny Hopp replaced Harry Walker in center field for the Cards when the latter turned up with a sprained ankle, injured last night when he stepped on a ball as he walked to the bench. Score:

Would-Be Cub

Boyd Bartley, University of Illinois shortstop, who hopes to become a big leaguer, takes a practice swing in a Cub uniform. Bartley reported yesterday for a tryout.

Wilson Views Illini Phenom with Pleasure

Boyd Bartley, the University of Illinois phenom, put on a Cub uniform yesterday and went thru dress rehearsal for Manager Jim Wilson. After watching the compactly built shortstop in the field and at the plate, Wilson expressed the hope the young fellow would sign.

Hi Bithorn, who shut out the Braves, 1 to 0, in the Cubs' double header sweep Sunday in Boston, will pitch today in the series final with the Giants in Wrigley field.

A's Beat Sox, Humphries at Night, 7 to 5

Hodgin cut in with a single that moved Appling to second. Luke went to third on Don Kolloway's force of Hodgin and then scored in a double steal.

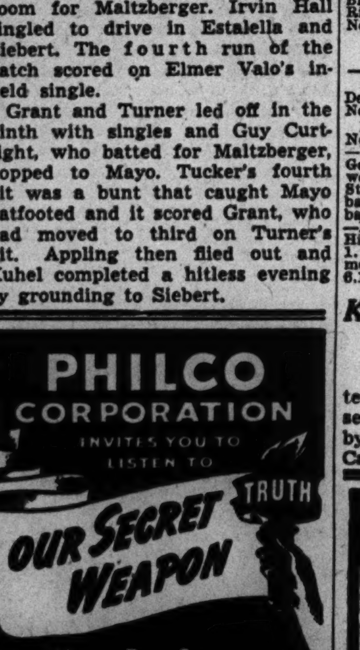
Arntzen had led off with a single in the third. The next two fellows were turned back, one because of a diving stop by Kolloway, but Humphries followed with a pass to Eddie Mayo and the gift set the stage for Estalella's three run homer into the left field seats.

Arntzen was requested to leave after he had walked Wally Moses with one out in the fourth. Moses stole second while Rescuer Wolff was serving a third strike to Jim Grant and scored the tying run on a single to center off Tommy Turner's bat. Then the party proceeded calmly until Kolloway blew open the sixth with a double, taking third on Moses' long fly. Grant punched a hit thru the infield which was drawn in for a possible play at the plate and Kolloway scored.

Oh, That Sixth!

Humphries' trouble laden sixth began with a single by Mayo and a pass to Estalella after which Dick Siebert doubled to register Mayo. Humphries purposely passed Pete Suder and was excused to make room for Maltzberger. Irvin Hall singled to drive in Estalella and Siebert. The fourth run of the batch scored on Elmer Valo's infield single.

Grant and Turner led off in the ninth with singles and Guy Curtright, who batted for Maltzberger, popped to Mayo. Tucker's fourth hit was a bunt that caught Mayo flatfooted and it scored Grant, who had moved to third on Turner's hit. Appling then flied out and Kuhel completed a hitless evening by grounding to Siebert.



RED SOX BEAT INDIANS TWICE, 2 TO 0 AND 4 TO 3

Tribe Bats Are Checked by Judd and Hughson.

Boston, Mass., May 27 (AP).—The Boston Red Sox defeated the Cleveland Indians twice today, taking the morning encounter 2 to 0 and following up with a 4 to 3 decision in the afternoon game.

Oscar Judd piloted the Red Sox to their victory in the afternoon game as he kept seven Cleveland hits scattered. It was his fourth victory against one defeat. Jim Bagby was the victim of an uprising in the second inning during which the Red Sox accounted for all of their four runs. Roy Cullenbine led off for the Indians in the ninth by hitting a home run into the left field screen for the first circuit drive of the season at Fenway park.

Tex Hughson limited Cleveland to five hits in the morning game. The Red Sox scored both their runs off big Mike Naymick in the fifth inning. After Eddie Lake singled and was forced by Johnny Peacock, Hughson drew a pass. Naymick fanned Culberson for the second out but the bases were filled when Pete Fox hit safely. Bobby Doerr's hit scored the Boston batterymen.

TIGERS, 3; YANKEES, 2.

New York, May 27 (AP).—Lefty Hal Newhouser pitched the Detroit Tigers into a tie with the New York Yankees for third place in the American league today with a 3 to 2 victory. Newhouser's four hit hurling was highlighted by 14 strikeouts. It was his second success of the year and his first triumph over the Yankees since 1941.

All of the scoring for both teams came on two home runs in the fourth inning. In the first of the fourth Dick Wakefield singled over short and Ned Harris drew the only walk given up by Atley Donald. Then Rudy York hit a home run into the left field bleachers. When the Yankees came to bat Charley Keller singled and Joe Gordon hit the first pitch into the left field stands.

Golfers Will Use Ingenuity on Problems

[This is the third of a series of articles on the war time status of golf clubs in the Chicago district.]

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Member clubs of the Chicago District Golf association, confronted by new hazards in this second war time season, again are adapting themselves to the situation with the same spirit of ingenuity that last year distinguished this section as the No. 1 center of the game in this country.

The willingness of a large majority of C. D. G. A. clubs to tackle the multitude of problems arising from transportation, help, and food rationing is evident in the replies to a special war time golf questionnaire recently distributed by THE TRIBUNE. These clubs got the GO sign from the enthusiastic winter meetings conducted by officers of their governing organization, and most of them rolled up their sleeves weeks ago and now are looking forward to a full season of activity, even tho it will be modified by war time conditions.

Eliminate Traps, Save Labor.

The questionnaire was forwarded to the presidents of each of the 62 member clubs of the C. D. G. A. Thus far, 36 have completed the questionnaire and returned it. It included a number of questions pertinent to the war-golf situation, such as, "Is your 1943 membership approximately up to 1942 par? How are you meeting the man power situation with regard to clubhouse, course maintenance and caddies? Will you hold your annual invitational tournament? Will you keep clubhouse open for all activities? How are you meeting the transportation problem?"

Car pooling has been the popular solution of transportation for those clubs which are not situated near public methods of travel. Several have eliminated a considerable number of traps in order to reduce maintenance labor. More women than ever before are being employed in clubhouses. High school boys also are popular for clubhouse help and course maintenance.

More Clubs Report.

Navajo Fields Golf club—Membership same as last year, but increase is anticipated. Twenty-seven new members have been taken in. Clubhouse open for all activities. Eddie Roman is the new professional. Expenses reduced to a minimum. Club is using "help yourself" system wherever practical in clubhouse. Caddies are helping on golf course and some help is expected from nearby farmers. Caddy situation still a headache, but there is a possibility of relief from sons of nearby subdivision residents. Transportation committee is arranging car pooling based on residence and teeing off times. A suburban bus line passes a half mile west of course. No invitation tournament will be held. William M. Georgen is president.

Aurora Country club—Membership is approximately up to 1942 par. Ten new members have joined. Clubhouse will be open for all activities. Serving meals is still club's chief problem. High school boys are employed in clubhouse and former caddies on golf course. Caddy situation is O. K. so far. Car pooling and public transportation within a half mile are being used. Club will hold its annual Stag tournament. Club opened May 19 and will remain open as long as any one plays. Aurora has a Victory garden.

Edgewater Golf club—The club is now in its 47th season. Membership is considerably increased, with approximately 30 new members. Clubhouse will be open for all activities. O. R. Smeltekopf is the new manager. On man power, the club is doing the best it can, but its proximity to city lessens this problem. The club has surface lines, rapid transit, bus, and railroad transportation within walking distance. No date has been set for the annual Hy-Jinx, but it definitely will be held. The club will remain open for 1943 play as long as weather permits. It will have a Victory garden. Frank M. Whiston is president.

Evanston Golf club—Club membership is up to 1942 par, and 25 new members have been admitted. Clubhouse will be open for all activities. Evanston has set up Victory garden for cultivation by members, and will make no change except those helpful to the war. The clubhouse staff has returned intact. High school boys are being used to help on course maintenance, and younger boys and carts are Evanston's answer to the caddy problem. The club is easily accessible via public transportation facilities. The annual Rodeo will be held.

ANGLERS THINK IN TERMS OF OWN TABLE NOW

Extra Fish Will Be Salted or Smoked.

BY BOB BECKER.

The Wisconsin muskie season has opened, the wall-eyed pike have been hitting in northern lakes, and the white bass still are running in the Wolf river valley, so fishermen are heading for their favorite lakes this long week-end in large numbers with the idea of bringing back some real strings of fish for table use. Judging by the letters we've received from anglers who are thinking about the food value of fish they catch this summer, some of the boys are going to either salt or smoke some of their extra fish for future use.

The latest report we have from the Flambeau reservation in Wisconsin tells how eagerly the wall-eyes have been hitting. This widely distributed species, one of the best for table use, apparently has been giving Chicagoans plenty of sport during the last week.

Chicagoans Catch Limit.

It's been a case of a limit of wall-eyes every day for some Chicago fishermen who have been tossing their lures around Gunlock and Fench lakes in the Flambeau country.

Bill Stimpson of Minocqua, in writing us about the coöperative attitude of the pike, says:

"Never have seen the wall-eyes bite any better in the month of May. The boys here have caught limits every day and also have shipped home what they could. They saw so many muskies while fishing pike some of the Chicago crowd stayed over to see if they could connect with a few muskies, starting Tuesday morning, the opening of the season."

Michigan Trout Biting.

If recent fishing is any criterion, the trout fishermen going into Michigan should connect with some good strings of fish. Ed Dreier of Grand Rapids advises us so far this year more big trout have been taken from Michigan streams, or seen and lost, than in recent years.

Dreier suggests Illinois trout fishermen going to Michigan consider the Platte [noted for its rainbows] near the town of Honor, a clear stream 10 to 30 feet wide; the Pere Marquette, a big stream with rainbow, brook, and brown trout; the Muskegon in Newaygo county, in which one may connect with fish up to 10 and 12 pounds; the south branch of the Pine, a rough stream [for strong men, as Dreier says], and the Little Manistee, which can be fished from Irons or Wellston.

LEON HENDERSON SIGNS CONTRACT FOR RADIO TALKS

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Leon Henderson, former director of the office of price administration who resigned last winter, has been engaged to become a radio commentator. A Winchester, Va., maker of rubber products has signed Henderson for a 15 minute discussion period Saturday evenings starting Aug. 14 over 70 stations of the Blue network.

Hildegarde, the Milwaukee songstress, has been engaged to fill in during the summer in the Red Skelton period. She starts this assignment on Tuesday, June 8. Bob Grant's orchestra will support her. . . . Bob Burns and his Arkansas Traveler showing are stealing away for a summer vacation after July 1. Fred Brady, young Chicago comedian, will take over his half hour.

In its next two Sunday broadcasts the NBC Summer symphony, directed by Frank Black, will coöperate with the Music Critics' Circle of New York in its annual quest for the best American orchestral composition of the 1942-'43 season. This series is heard at 4 p. m. over WMAQ.

Now that it is being presented under sponsorship, the New York Philharmonic Sunday broadcasts on CBS, emanating from Carnegie hall, issue studio tickets without charge. For the opening program 7,500 requests were received. The studio ticket plan will be dropped when the Philharmonic's regular concert season opens next Oct. 10.

WAR FINANCING JOB OF RESERVE BANKS REDUCED

Treasury Restricts Their Sales Field.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The federal reserve system will take a subordinate position in future war financing activities under plans announced yesterday in Washington, D. C., by Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau.

Morgenthau disclosed that he is scrapping the victory fund committee organization which has been under the supervision of regional reserve bank presidents. It is this organization that is credited in financial quarters with being primarily responsible for the success of the big April war loan drive in which 18½ billion dollars were obtained and the first war loan drive last December when more than 13 billion dollars were borrowed.

The responsibility for getting money from individuals and corporations will be returned to the 48 state organizations originally set up by the treasury. Chairmen of these organizations will report directly to Morgenthau.

Work Considered Mediocre.

State organizations of the treasury war savings staff on which the burden of the war financing is now shifted are considered to have done a mediocre job before the victory fund organization came into being. The big December drive was entirely the work of the victory fund organization. Recently the war savings staff has confined its activities to distribution of "E" bonds, designed for mass distribution among persons of moderate means. It is this phase of the war financing that has been lagging.

Morgenthau described the reorganization as a "consolidation" of the existing selling agencies.

Morgenthau also rejected summarily the recommendation that had been made by responsible financial authorities that the treasury replace the present discount bond, which is redeemable on demand, with a coupon bond of fixed maturity.

Eccles Presses Losing Plan.

This recommendation has been pressed with particular force by Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the federal reserve board, who has been outspoken in his criticism of the manner in which the war financing program is being handled.

The treasury has built up a huge demand liability thru the sale of bonds with the redemption feature. The treasury now has outstanding nearly 18 billion dollars of securities which are convertible into cash at the holder's option.

The secretary averred that the redemption feature "is a great protection for the people" and prevents them from being "gypped as they were in the last war." [Morgenthau apparently referred to the fact that government bonds floated during World War I sold later at substantial discounts when interest rates advanced.]

Apprehension Expressed.

"The knowledge that the people can get '100 cents on the dollar' has encouraged people to buy war bonds," said Morgenthau.

The chief criticism of this method of financing has been the danger that the treasury would be called upon to meet a heavy redemption demand in a period when individuals also were drawing on their cash balances with banks and borrowing against their insurance policies. Under such conditions, with the normal market for bonds impaired, it has been suggested that the treasury might be tempted to turn to the printing press.

Under the plans announced by Morgenthau the reserve banks will continue to act as fiscal agents for the treasury to handle sales of government bonds to banks, insurance companies, and government bond dealers. The reserve banks always have performed this function in connection with sales to banks and dealers.

Decision Is Explained.

"We arrived at this plan," the secretary said in explanation, "after consultation with the board of governors of the federal reserve system, and with the presidents of the 12 federal reserve banks. I believe that this new arrangement makes the best possible use of what we learned in the last two campaigns."

Chicago bankers who recalled the indifferent records of the war savings staff in the past believe that the treasury made when it was disrupting the program without the aid of the reserve system and private financial organizations were amazed.

The first reaction of some bankers was that a major break has developed between the treasury and the federal reserve board at a time when the war financing program is reaching a crucial stage.

Eccles vs. Morgenthau.

Others saw political implications in the decision of Morgenthau to build up his own hand picked organization to do the war financing job.

A recent press conference comment by Morgenthau was recalled. After the second war loan drive in April, Eccles pointed out that individuals provided a very small percentage of the money obtained. Morgenthau's tart retort was that no individual should be permitted to take away from the American people credit for the splendid job accomplished. He has the reputation of being extremely sensitive to criticism particularly if it comes from the reserve authorities.

Jury Accuses Carnegie of Steel 'Fraud'

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 27 (AP).—A federal grand jury late today in a presentment charged the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation and four of its employés with "concealing and falsifying" records of tests on steel ship plate produced for the government at its Irvin works.

The presentment instructed Charles F. Uhl, United States attorney, to prepare a "bill or bills" of indictment under federal statutes covering war frauds against the company and its employés, Murray E. Stewart, chief specifications examiner; David D. Ireland and Walter J. Huemrich, metallurgical inspectors, and John H. McConnell, specifications supervisor.

Only One Phase Covered.

As attorneys of the department of justice war frauds staff began drawing up the formal indictments, Uhl said the presentment had covered only one phase of the government's case involving charges of furnishing subspecification steel on war contracts.

The indictments were expected to be ready tomorrow. The grand jury, which was not dismissed, has been in session since April 12, hearing testimony from other companies and government inspectors.

The investigation stemmed from testimony before the senate Truman committee in March, in which employés of the corporation said some tests had been faked on plate at the Irvin works for the navy, merchant marine, and for lend-lease orders.

Disclaimer by Firm Head.

Commenting tonight on the grand jury action, J. L. Perry, president of Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, said:

"If any concealment or destruction of records occurred, it was done without the knowledge or approval of the management of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation.

"I have the utmost faith in the employés of the Irvin works and believe they have done a remarkable job of production of plates vitally needed to help win this war."

HOTEL IN CUBA IS ACQUIRED BY KIRKEBY GROUP

A. S. Kirkeby and a group of investment bankers have acquired controlling interest in the Hotel Nacional de Cuba at Havana for operation as part of the Kirkeby hotels group which includes the Drake and Blackstone, Kirkeby announced yesterday.

The hotel, one of the most elaborate in the world, was built in 1930 at a cost of 9½ million dollars on a 13 acre site contributed by the government of Cuba, and contains 549 guest rooms.

The securities, understood to represent 80 per cent of various classes issued and widely held in the United States, were acquired from the City Company of New York, Inc. Kirkeby was elected president and managing director of the hotel operating company.

STRIKE LEADER IS ASSAILED AS MODERN JUDAS

Boost in Munition Output Pledged.

Representatives of half the nation's war plants, meeting here yesterday, pledged increased production of munitions and armament after they had cheered a talk in which labor leaders who authorize war plant strikes were branded "1943 Judases."

Roe S. Clark.

The pledge was taken by delegates to the 45th annual convention of the National Metal Trades association in the Palmer House, representing all the country's larger metal working industries.

The speaker was Ralph W. Carney, sales manager of the Coleman Lamp and Stove company of Wichita, Kas. Carney said in peace time he traveled more than 150,000 miles a year to most parts of the world, devoting a large part of his time to a study of public opinion in the larger nations.

Long War Is Forecast.

Carney forecast a long war "which we have not even begun to win," and said that Germany's strength has not been tested yet, except by Russia, and that Japan has been "completely victorious and now has an empire greater than either Britain or Russia."

"This is primarily a war of a soft, somnolent and well fed America against a lean and powerful Japan which has won an empire of 5,000 by 3,100 miles, containing one-fourth of the world's wealth and, if she takes India, half its population," he said. "All we have done to Japan is to land a few light left jabs while our enemy has taken more territory than she expected at less than she was prepared to pay."

He said the United States is not yet awake to its danger and blamed not only labor leaders but a "confused, contradictory, and endlessly wasteful and ludicrous burocratic mess 'in Washington" for defeats suffered by the army and navy.

Attacks "Pay" in Patriotism.

"American industry has helped to make this the most prosperous country in the world by making better products for less money," he said. "If the Washington administration had the courage to take its hat in humble hands before the people and give us better government for less money it would be a help instead of a hindrance.

"And if our dollar sign labor leaders, who think patriotism starts with 'pay,' were given guns and uniforms instead of microphones and free radio time, the war would be over a lot sooner."

Carl E. Bolte, a director of the smaller war plants corporation, industrial service division, told the delegates his agency is setting up field offices to expedite awarding of contracts to small business. One is being established in Chicago, he said.

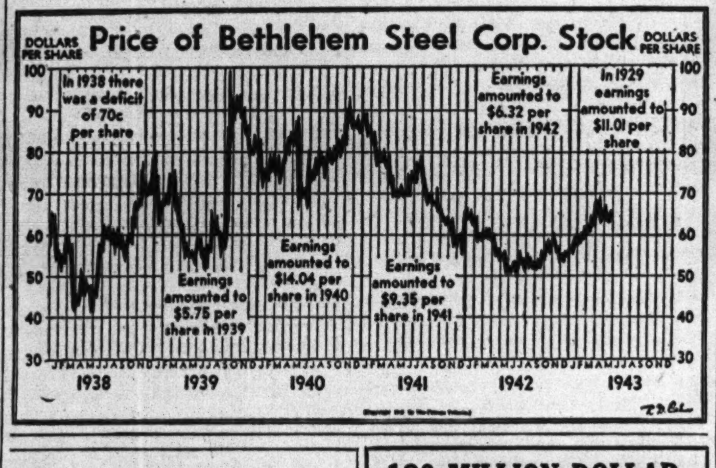
Roe S. Clark, vice president of the Package Machinery company of Springfield, Mass., was reëlected president of the association. The convention registration was 950, largest in the organization's history.

HUGHES TO BEGIN LIQUIDATION OF FIDELITY ASSETS

Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes announced yesterday he will proceed with the liquidation of $3,700,000 in securities on deposit in Illinois to cover savings contracts sold by the Fidelity Assurance association, Wheeling, W. Va.

The liquidation and distribution of Fidelity funds to contract holders will be effected under a recent United States Supreme court decision which denied the association the right to reorganize under bankruptcy laws.

Hughes said that he will ask the Sangamon county Circuit court to set Oct. 1 as the final date for filing claims on the deposited assets. Claim blanks will be ready within the next 10 days, he said. The state will attempt to obtain the maximum for the contract holders, he asserted.



Broad Stock Advance Cut in Late Selling

New York, May 27 (AP).—Stock market buyers favored "blue chips" today and, despite relatively heavy profit taking in the final hour, many issues touched peaks for three years or longer.

Gains of 1 to 3 points were widespread when customers then began to trim accounts in preparation for the long week-end—principal exchanges will recess Monday for Memorial day. Many top quotations were reduced or converted into small losses at the close.

War optimism, individual business developments, a little more inflation psychology based on wage boosts granted in various industries, and further pressure of idle funds for investment provided the main bullish influences.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 0.1 at 51.6, highest level since Jan. 5, 1940, in the third successive day of recovery. The market was broad and volume rose.

RAIL, UTILITY LOANS RISE.

New York, May 27 (AP).—Rails and utilities made new gains in the bond market today. Rails advanced to the best average levels since 1937, and the power loans established peaks for this year. Other groups were steady and quiet.

It was the third consecutive day that utilities had touched new 1943 highs as measured by the Associated Press averages.

Three United States government 2¾s of 1965-'60 sold at 111.21, up 1.11. Other treasury loans were quiet.

CHICAGO STOCKS CLIMB.

Prices advanced on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday on turnover of 56,000 shares. Among the more actively traded issues were Chicago corporation, unchanged; Merchants and Manufacturers Securities, up ⅛ at 6¾ after touching a new 1943 high of 6⅞; Williams Oil-O-Matic, up ¼; Cities Service, up 1⅛ at 16 after reaching a new high of 16¼, and Nash Kelvinator, up ⅜ to a new high of 11¾. Eighteen stocks climbed to new peaks.

PROFIT SELLING IN RYE AND OATS EASES MARKET

Heavy profit taking sales of rye and oats futures induced by the recent rapid upturn resulted in lower prices yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. July oats sold at 64⅛ cents a bushel early, a new high, before reacting, but rye failed to climb into new ground and closed ⅜ to ¾ cent lower. Oats were ¼ to ⅞ cent lower. Trading in wheat was limited with the close ¼ to ⅜ cent lower. Corn held at ceiling prices with no sales reported.

No sales of car lots of cash corn were reported, said by brokers to be the first time on record that such a situation had developed under normal conditions. Large demand prevailed for feed grades of barley and the price was 5 to 7 cents a bushel higher.

April Butter Output Rises as Milk Production Falls

Creamery butter production in April was estimated at 150,185,000 pounds, a gain of 0.4 per cent over a year ago and 6 per cent above the 10 year [1932-'41] average, the department of agriculture reported yesterday. Milk production last month was nearly 1 per cent less than in April, 1942.

Washington, D. C., May 27.—No plans for the disposal of the more than 130 million dollars in premiums paid into the War Damage corporation for protection of American property against enemy attack can be made until the end of the war, even tho the prospect of severe losses now seems remote, a spokesman for Jesse Jones, secretary of commerce, said today.

Latest figures available show that on Dec. 31, 1942, War Damage corporation had an aggregate insurance liability of 122 billion dollars. Corporation officials say that in view of this vast liability, the 130 million dollars in cash received so far would be a mere drop in the bucket, if the nation should be subjected to heavy bombing attacks or invasion and the corporation would have to pay the losses.

Claims filed against the corporation so far number 891 and aggregate 63 million dollars, according to last reports. These losses for the most part grew out of enemy action against Pearl Harbor and the Philippines.

CONVICT HESSION OF FRAUD IN RAIL BOND PRICE RISE

New York, May 27 (AP).—John W. Hession, financial analyst of Teaneck, N. J., was convicted by a federal court jury here late today of mail fraud and violating the securities and exchange act. He was acquitted on a charge of conspiracy. Arnold R. Hanson and Sven W. Hanson, brothers who operated a securities business in New York, were acquitted.

The three were tried on a 30 count indictment charging mail fraud, violation of the securities exchange act and conspiracy to boost the market value of Wisconsin Central Railway bonds.

Judge Mortimer Byers set June 4 as the date for sentencing Hession and released him in $5,000 bail. Maximum penalty is imprisonment of five years and a fine of $10,000 under each of the 29 counts on which Hession was found guilty.

BALDWIN CUTS DIVIDEND AND CALLS IN BONDS

Directors of the Baldwin Locomotive works yesterday declared a dividend of 75 cents a share on the common stock, a reduction of 25 cents from the amount paid in December.

The company also announced it would call for redemption on Aug. 2, at 105, all the $4,210,000 of outstanding convertible 6 per cent bonds that are not converted into common stock. Bondholders who convert on or before June 15 will receive the dividend declared yesterday.

ARMOUR FINANCING.

Can you explain what possible advantage there is in issuing 35 million dollars of Armour & Co. of Delaware 7 per cent debentures and offering them in exchange for a corresponding amount of 7 per cent preferred stock? S. H.

Answer: The prime motive in the issuance of the debentures to replace the major portion of the outstanding 7 per cent preferred stock is understood to be a desire to pave the way for the long planned consolidation of the Delaware company and Armour & Co., an Illinois company and owner of all common stock of the Delaware concern.

Holders of the Delaware preferred could, it is believed, prevent a merger on the contention that they would lose the benefit of the Illinois company's guarantee of dividends and sinking fund on the subsidiary's preferred stock.

Plans for a consolidation of the companies have been considered for many years, and in 1937 stockholders of the Illinois company voted to issue new securities in order to redeem the Delaware preferred and to take other steps toward consolidation. While no action was taken on the proposed financing, the companies' selling and distribution activities were concentrated in the Delaware company beginning with the 1940 fiscal year.

Consolidation will bring substantial economies, it is said, notably in simplified accounting and reduced capital stock taxes. An immediate benefit of replacing debentures with preferred stock is a saving in income taxes. Interest on the debentures will be deductible as an expense before computing the income tax liability of the Delaware company, whereas preferred stock dividend payments are not deductible.

Since the financing program calls for the current elimination of only 35 million dollars par value of the Delaware preferred, either by exchange for debentures or by redemption, it appears probable that other plans have been made for the eventual retirement of the remaining preferred. Preferred stock with a par value of $52,358,100 is outstanding.

STANDARD'S OIL SUPPLY SEARCH IS INTENSIFIED

Proved Producing Property Sought.

Standard Oil company [Indiana] is in the market to buy proved oil producing properties and is busy with a "very extensive" exploration drilling program to help increase the supply of petroleum, Edward G. Seubert, president, disclosed yesterday. He held a press conference at the company's Chicago headquarters before going to Whiting, Ind., for the stockholders' annual meeting which began at noon.

Edward G. Seubert.

At the conference Seubert answered questions about numerous phases of the oil business, and said he hoped gasoline rationing would not be tightened, and that "the time will come when we can abandon rationing altogether."

Reaches Farther for Oil.

Seubert's comments included these:

1. The company is going farther afield to get crude oil to supply this district, and the subsidiary Stanolind Pipe Line company's projected 383 mile 16 inch pipe line from Hockley county in west Texas to Drumright, Okla., is designed to increase the flow.

2. Leaders in the petroleum industry are discussing the possibility of another pipe line, but nothing definite has been done.

3. The outlook for aviation gasoline is that the industry will be able to supply all the army and navy need, with additional amounts for Britain, Russia, and other allies.

4. Standard is having some difficulty obtaining adequate man power, particularly in Whiting on construction projects and in Detroit,

Sales Are Slightly Lower.

5. The company's total sales are a shade lower than a year ago, and earnings before taxes in the first three months were down a little, but prospects are that by the end of the year they will be up to the 1942 level.

Seubert said consolidated sales in the first four months of the year were only about 1 per cent less than in the corresponding 1942 period. Gasoline sales were down 5 per cent.

The "mortality" rate among filling stations is improving, and as far as Standard is concerned closings have ceased and some stations are being reopened, Seubert said.

At the meeting in Whiting, the stockholders reëlected all the directors. The directors reëlected the officers and then inspected the refinery.

Warns Nation May Require Imports of Oil

Unless the petroleum industry continues to make large new discoveries of crude oil, the nation soon will need large imports of crude oil or products, John A. Brown, president of the Socony-Vacuum Oil Company, Inc., New York, told stockholders at the annual meeting yesterday.

He said that "perhaps before long it may be necessary to undertake making oil products from coal or obtain them from oil shales."

May Need 1⅛ Billion Barrels.

Brown estimated that with reasonable peace time prosperity and without restrictions on use the rate of consumption of petroleum products in this country may require the taking out of the ground about 1⅛ billion barrels of crude oil each year.

"This means that we must find that much additional crude oil each year if we are going to do no more than maintain our existing reserve position," he said.

Brown estimated the company's profits in the first four months of 1943 at 9½ million dollars, compared with 11 millions in the corresponding period a year ago.

Sales Above a Year Ago.

He told stockholders that sales of all products in the four months ended with April were about 5 per cent above a year ago. The volume of aviation gasoline sold in the four months was three times that of a year ago, he said.

Stockholders also learned that the first of seven thermofor catalytic cracking units, to be used in the manufacture of 100 octane aviation gasoline, should be ready to operate in August.

PAY PROPOSAL FOR TRAVEL IN MINE REPORTED

Washington, D. C., May 27 (AP).—Soft coal operators were reported reliably today to have proposed a settlement of the United Mine Workers portal-to-portal pay demand on the basis of an average travel time of 48 minutes a day to and from work inside the mine.

At straight time under the basic rate of $7 a day, or $1 an hour, that would mean an increase of 80 cents a day. If the money was spread among the surface employés the average per man would be less.

The proposal was not formally acted upon, but the miners made their objections clear. They said northern Appalachian operators told a war labor board panel their own investigation showed the travel time average to be one hour and 25 minutes.

FOOD PROGRAM DRAWS FIRE OF FEED INDUSTRY

Some Goals Held Not Necessary.

The administration's food program for the nation and its allies was criticized by the feed industry council yesterday on the grounds it is attempting to retain too large a proportion of meat in the rations of the allies and that it promises the city consumer a low cost, high quality peace time diet during total war.

The criticism of the program, as well as of government policy makers, was contained in the report of the council at the 35th annual meeting of the American Feed Manufacturers' association in the Drake hotel.

J. A. McConnell of Ithaca, N. Y., chairman of the council, read the report. He said the council was formed to deal with serious protein animal feed shortages resulting from the national food policy, which set goals of maintaining a peace time diet at no increase in cost to the consumer, actually raising living standards of the "so-called lower third," providing vast quantities of meat, fats, and dairy products to the allies and using food both to keep neutral nations out of the axis and to rehabilitate territory recaptured by the allies.

Questions Need of Some.

McConnell asserted that no one can criticize the desirability of these goals, but "we can question the necessity of some of them during total war, and likewise the methods employed to achieve a degree of success in those that are practical."

In an attempt to carry out its promises of large meat shipments to the allies and a low cost, high quality diet for civilians, the government expanded live stock production to a point far above the nation's capacity to produce the feed for them, said McConnell.

Warning that in addition to the protein feed shortage an even worse scarcity of feed grains is developing, McConnell told the association members that lack of feed supplies will cause a change in the government's "unworkable" live stock policy—"and probably in a rather disorderly way."

The council chairman predicted a "liquidation" of live stock and poultry because of the feed shortage. He said that with feed shortages in prospect some form of allocation will be required for both protein and feed grains to meet the situation.

Recalls Galbraith Statement.

McConnell referred to a reported statement by James K. Galbraith, deputy administrator of the office of price administration, that New Deal methods during the last decade have brought into existence a new science of economics and business controls which is understood only by young men "free of the out of date theories of old time economists and the working habits that practical men have learned from experience."

"Maybe so, but I would recommend to the administration that having tried everything and failed, they now bring out the old price mechanism and dust it off, oil it up and start it to work again," he said. "It might surprise them."

Egypt and India Cargo War Rates Are Slashed

New York, May 27 (AP).—Marine underwriters announced today cargo war risk insurance rates on shipments to Egypt and nearby ports and to the east coast of India had been cut, reflecting allied successes in the Mediterranean area. The announcement said that rates previously had been quoted at 15 per cent to the Egyptian area and to eastern India and Ceylon, all for trips around Africa via the Cape of Good Hope. In cutting the Egyptian area rates to 12½ per cent and the Indian charge to 13½ per cent, this routing restriction was eliminated.

BEG YOUR PARDON

It was incorrectly reported in a Washington dispatch to The Tribune yesterday that Edward J. Flynn, former Democratic national committee chairman, was among the counsel representing the nonoperating unions in the wage case in which the recommendation was made that the unions receive an 8 cent an hour wage increase. It has been announced that Flynn's law firm would represent the Big Five operating railway unions when they present their wage demands to the roads.

ATTENTION!

YOU

to serve your country and yourself

by helping build

War Winning Ships

This is a special call for construction workers of the Chicago area who are not now working as maintenance or production workers in local war plants.

The skills you have developed working as a carpenter, steamfitter, plumber, sheet metal worker, riveter, heater, burner, rigger, chipper, or boilermaker can be immediately used in building ships that are needed NOW!

Any additional training you may need will be given on the job.

If you are a member of the A. F. L. your card is good for work. If you are not, you can join.

There is a place for you to live. The cost of your transportation will be advanced if you need it.

We suggest you bring your wife with you. There may be a job for her, too—at least she can help you decide that you ought to go to California for your war job.

Company representatives are at this office to answer all your questions, to hire and to arrange your transportation. Apply in person only any day this week, Monday thru Saturday, 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., May 24-29.

DUE JUNE 15
Higher living costs and larger pay roll deductions may make it difficult for you to pay the 2d installment of your Federal Income Taxes on June 15th. If so, get the cash you need from Commonwealth. Our monthly rate is only 3% on balances of $150 or less, and 2½% on that part of the unpaid balance over $150, which makes the cost quite moderate for short term loans. Repay us in convenient installments . . . it is decidedly more convenient and far less burdensome than making a large lump-sum payment, and besides, you can rid yourself of other troublesome bills at the same time. Get any amount, $20 to $300.
